Beds That Are Used For Food and Ornament in India.

A seed which bears the popular name of Job's tears. The old botanist Gerard thus describes it: "Every grain resembles the drop or tear that falleth from the eye."

Dr. Watt of Calcutta thus enumerates them: "There are three types of shape—a long cylindrical or tubular, a normal pear shaped condition and a flattened spheroidal form."

The cylindrical grain is always of a white color, smooth polished, not furrowed, but constricted toward both extremities.

That is collected for ornamental purposes only and not as an article for food.

The pear shaped form varies in size and color, being pale and bluish white gray, yellow and chestnut black.

The flattened spheroidal kinds are often yellow or even pink.

The two principal forms are: One almost round and either white or black.

This form is sometimes, though less frequently, used for rosaries and ornamental purposes, but chiefly for food among the hill tribes of India.

The second form is tubular, about half an inch long. This is extensively employed for decorative purposes, the dresses worn by the Karen women being completely covered with embroidered designs of this grain.

Amos Albeck, of McKees, passed through town Tuesday.

FAIRLY TRAPPED.

The Clever Manner in Which Balzac Outwitted His Publisher.

No man knew the value of Balzac's novels better than the famous French novelist himself, a fact which he never failed to impress upon his publishers.

On one occasion, as Balzac sat smoking in a friendly fashion with a well known publisher, he remarked casually: "Now, I want your candid opinion."

Honestly, do you believe that I have as much talent as Frederic Soule?"

"My dear Balzac, how can you ask?" answered his unsuspecting companion.

"Why, you have twice his literary capacity." "Well, as I consider his works immeasurably superior to anything of Eugene Sue's, I suppose I must have more talent than Sue too?"

"Of course you have." "There is nothing to be said, says one of Balzac's biographers, but the unfortunate publisher had been trapped and owned it."

Hugo came in his book on Russia writes as follows of the relations existing between the Russian officials and the Poles: "They remain separate, like oil and water. The Russian, even though he be the master, is of no consequence to the Polish."

That is why the Russian officials are so much to be feared by the Poles. It is not only necessary to be able to distinguish the groups from one another—the Baltic nobility with their almost bourgeois families, merchants from all the principal countries, Russian functionaries and Polish society—and it will all become clear who is at home and who is the stranger and intruder. It is the Poles, and the Poles alone."

Yellow Fever Plains. At the annual encampment of the N. G. P. this year the inspections will be made as usual, as they were last spring. There will, it is understood, be no regimental or battalion drills, no extended order and no advance and rear guard.

There will, however, be school of the soldier, school of the squad and school of the company. One of these may yet be dropped but the present intention is to make the non-commissioned officers show whether or not they have profited by last spring's inspection.

Annual Clam Bake. The annual clam bake was held at Roaring Creek yesterday. The rainy conditions would have interfered very much with the pleasure of the occasion had it not been for the hospitality of Colonel O. W. Korman, who entertained the club at his pleasant farm near by. All agreed on returning last night that no pleasure time was ever enjoyed at any of the clam bakes.

Card of Thanks. The Iron Moulders' Union of this city extend thanks for the assistance which made their picnic such an unusually successful affair. Especially do they return thanks to the Danville Store and Manufacturing Company for the "Pamona Beaver Range" it presented to the Union. The store has not as yet been disposed of.

Propagating Frogs. Members of the Legislature received from the state authorities the blanks required to be used in making application for young frogs, to be supplied, by the States hatcheries. This is done to encourage the propagation of frogs in the same manner that game fish are propagated. All applications for frogs this year must be in July 15.

James Hendrickson Injured. James Hendrickson, the well-known carpenter, who lives just beyond the Borough line, on Bloom road, sustained a painful injury yesterday by falling off a pile of lumber backwards. The extent of his injuries could not be determined last night, but he was painfully hurt about the back and head.

Called to Shamokin. Rev. William H. Butts, pastor of All Saints' church, Williamsport, and the assistant secretary of the Harrisburg Diocese, has been extended a call by the Shamokin clergy to the Shamokin Episcopal church, occasioned by the resignation of Rev. Freeman Daugherty.

State Prohibition Convention. The State Prohibition Convention will be held in August at Williamsport and is expected to be one of the largest in years because of the gain in strength shown by the party in Pennsylvania. Delegates from every county will be in attendance.

Roosevelt in 1906. Nashville Banner: There continues to be some insistence that Mr. Roosevelt will be a nominee for the presidency in 1906, despite his declaration to the contrary, but it is not determined whether he will be the Republican or Democratic candidate.
