Thrilling Accident.
Master Royl Markle, the 43 year old son of R. J. Markle, the Mill street clothier, was knocked down on Wednesday, by a horse driven by Leon Meyer, attached to J. R. Phillips' delivery wagon. The lad was watching a trolley car coming down Market street, and stepped from the curb in front of Recorder Sidler's residence, intending to cross the street to the Montour House, when the horse came around the corner, and shying at the cars, jumped upon the boy who fortunately escaped with slight bruises on the head and on one of his arms. The child was picked up tenderly and taken to his home on Front street.

In the Matter Of Elizabeth

By S. T. STERN

Copyright, 1904, by S. T. Stern

There were two Elizabeth Langhams. For fifteen years they had lived almost side by side, and neither of them had learned of the other's existence. Three hundred feet of metropolitan space and several hundred thousand dollars separated them socially and completely. The elder Miss Langham resided near the middle of the block in a plutocratic white stone mansion. At the corner of the same street in a modest flat house lived the other Elizabeth.

Though neither of them was aware of the circumstances, these two possessed one link in common. His parents knew him as James Carruthers. His clients and professional friends called him Jack, the counselor. Miss Langham knew him as her employer. Elizabeth Langham often wondered why she had selected him from two dozen applicants for the position of stenographer in his legal establishment. A callow graduate from a business college, she had hardly hoped to gain acceptance over a score of experienced typists. The true reason—her name—she never guessed. Still Jim had no reason to regret his choice. Miss Elizabeth was neat, pretty and bright. Jim dictated to her daily, and she transcribed without an error.

Not so Miss Langham, the focus of fifty bachelor aspirations. Jim tried dictation there only once. "Mr. Carruthers," said Miss Langham coldly, "you are taking a mean advantage of our friendship. You have no right to criticize my other friends. I am proud to number Judge Newton among my friends."

"But he's fifty if he's a day," Jim persisted. "So shall you be, Mr. Carruthers—some day. Good night!" There were tears after Jim had taken his departure, but that Jim did not know. He did know, however, that Miss Langham had dismissed him, and he sorrowed accordingly.

"It's that fellow, Colonel Newton," he mused. "Since they've elected him a judge Elizabeth has been indifferent to me. Mrs. Judge Newton evidently sounds better to her young ears than plain Mrs. Jimmy Carruthers."

He was soured toward him in a flash. It was winter evening and snored his first great sorrow. "Narrow maketh a sympathizer. Jimmy, blue and hopeless, became humanitarian in a week. One morning when his stenographer, Miss Elizabeth, showed him a court summons which had been served upon her, demanding that she pay the sum of $250 forthwith or suffer the entry of judgment for that amount, Jimmy simply related the condition. "Who is this Mrs. Nellie who is suing you?"

"I never heard of her," was the response. "Jim scanned the papers closely. "Mrs. Nellie," he said after he had read the papers, "is the wife of a being whose Christian appellation is Michael O'Malley. He says you ordered one blue dress of the value of $250. He swears that you have refused to accept it, and he sues accordingly."

"There must be some mistake. I never ordered a dress one-fourth as expensive as that. Nor have I ever laid eyes on Mrs. Nellie."

"Where do you live?" he inquired. "He replied, "No. — Sixth avenue."

"Is that near Forty-seventh street?" "It is on the corner. The side street is very fashionable. This summons must be intended for some wealthy woman near by who doesn't pay her bills."

When Jim saw that the papers were signed in the name of the Hon. William Newton, justice, his mind was made up. He told his secretary to have no fear. He was happy to show his appreciation of her faithful and long continued service.

He tried the case himself. His rival sat on his bench and glared savagely at him—at least that is Jimmy's report of the judicial attitude.

As it happened, Mrs. Nellie was not present in the courtroom, having been detained elsewhere on jury duty. In his place he sent two of his assistants. One of them took the stand at once—a faded faced lady she was, who confessed amply that she had been a dressmaker for twenty-one years and was approaching her thirtieth birthday. "Is this way, Judge, your honor," she testified glibly, "Mrs. Nellie sent the dress, and she sent it back, saying it didn't fit. I didn't have nothing to do with it, but the lady in our house as did has assured me that it fitted her perfectly. Mrs. Nellie says Miss Langham should be compelled to pay."

"At this point Jim felt called upon to explain matters. "You see," he started to say, "they've got the wrong lady. The dress was made for me. The issue in this case is simple. Does the gown fit? That is all. I would like to ask Miss Langham a question or two. Take the stand, miss."

Miss Langham did so. "What is your name?" "Elizabeth Langham."

"Where do you live?" "No. — Sixth avenue."

"You may retire to my private chamber and dress. The plaintiff's experts will accompany you."

Miss Langham commenced to weep. "If you please, Judge Newton," she stammered. "Do as I say," he responded testily. "The court will judge for itself."

Five minutes later Miss Langham re-entered the courtroom clad in the gown under dispute. Mrs. Nellie's expert beamed with satisfaction as she addressed the court. "You can see for yourself, Judge, your honor. It fits without a wrinkle."

"I should call that an amazingly good fit," said Judge Newton, frowning as he in favor of judicial conviction, "and mightily becoming. It fits, doesn't it?"

"Y-e-s," said Miss Langham, "but—"

Schuyler Happenings.

Mr. EORROR.—Haying is pretty well done at this time and harvesting begun. The grain is none too ripe, however. In some instances rust has been found and does some damage. Cloudy, rainy and cool weather has retarded the grain ripening. During the early part of last week the weather was very favorable for hay making. It only required the cutting, making up and hauling in.

Pottsgrove Items.

Farmers are busy cutting their wheat.

Mr. John G. McHenry spent Sunday with Mr. Edward Wolf.

Mr. Randolph Nesbit lost a valuable horse last week.

Miss Verna Steek visited friends in McEwensville Sunday.

The Lawn Social held at the Lathrop parsonage Friday evening was largely attended.

Mrs. Margaret Shultz, of Scranton, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McCracken.

Miss Bessie Kaup has returned home, after spending sometime with friends in Philadelphia and New York City.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. J. B. Burger is improving, after being sick for several weeks.

Mr. John F. Bower spent Sunday with his parents at Mooresburg.

Mrs. K. Blue and daughter, Mrs. Collins, of Montoursville, is visiting friends in this place.

Mr. Howard Young, of Montoursville, spent the 4th with his parents.

The band will hold a festival on the academy lawn next Saturday evening, July 8.

Mr. Harry Trescott, of Harveyville, returned home after spending several weeks in town.

A small child of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Moll died Monday morning. Funeral was held on Wednesday. Interment at the Follmer church, July 5, 1905.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. James will hold a festival next Saturday evening in the church, for the benefit of the repair fund. Everybody is invited to attend.

Turbotville covered herself with glory on Tuesday. The town was handsomely decorated with bunting and Chinese lanterns. The parade took place at 6 o'clock, and was a success. The local Lodge of Odd Fellows turned out with a goodly number, and the balance was made up of floats representing various kinds of business. The base ball club had a festival, and if the numbers that patronized it counted for anything, it was another success. Several races took place, affording a great deal of amusement for the crowd. The two games of ball between Turbotville and Picture Rocks resulted in favor of the former. There was a very large crowd present, including residents of adjoining towns and the surrounding country. Everybody was there and had their best girls with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, of Philadelphia; Miss Edith Irwin, of Millinburg, and Miss Maud VanDyne, of Bloomsburg, were the guests of Mr. J. W. Irwin and family.

Miss Naomi Glaze, of Jersey Shore, is visiting relatives at Schuyler and vicinity.

Mr. Schuyler Irwin, of Susquehanna University, spent a short vacation with his parents.

Mr. Frank Ellis goes around with a very large smile on his face, because a girl baby came to his house to stay last Saturday.

Miss Kathryn Wagner sailed for Europe with a party of friends, from Baltimore, last Saturday. Hope she will enjoy her trip. July 5, 1905. BILL.

White Hall.

Miss Florence Dilline and Miss Maggie Ritter, of Opp, spent Sunday afternoon at Frank Dilline's.

Harvest has commenced around here and by the last of the week most of the grain will be cut and in shock.

Phineas Holdren was a Millville caller on Monday.

Harry Munro is spending his vacation at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Munro. He is taking a medical course at Jefferson college.

Joe Switzer, of the Albion Poultry Farm, is kept very busy these days. He has a fine lot of stock—all white.

Rev. Miller, of Watsonville, who has the Washingtonville charge, spent last week visiting in this vicinity.

Mrs. Mary Welliver, who has been suffering from nervous prostration since her husband's sad death, is improving. She is able to sit up a good part of the time.

Grant Houghton was helping Pursel with the hay last week.

Several of our people visit in Danville on the Fourth.

Chas. Carey, one of our promising young men, was married last week.

Jake Hilner, who has been working in the lumber regions, is home on a visit.

Chas. DeWald is home for awhile. July 4, 1905.

BOOTH AND BARRETT.

How the Branch Between These Two Great Actors Occurred.

The great breach in the friendship between Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett occurred when Barrett was playing "The Man of Airies" in Booth's theater in New York city. The piece did not draw, and Booth decided to have it discontinued. So as he afterward told of the incident he broadened the subject to Barrett, who immediately grew angry. "Do you mean to say that I can't play it?" he demanded hotly. Booth assured him in a conciliatory way that he gave the first part gratis, but that the last, in a greater part, was his own. "Do you mean to say that I can't play it?" Booth, still trying to not offend him, said, "I don't think you have quite worked into the last act." Then Barrett's fury burst its bounds, and he terminated a torrent of invective with the remark: "Your father's weakness and your brother's crime placed you where you are. But I will live to see you in the gutter and will stand above you."

In spite of this the two grew to be friends again and starred in the combination that drew the biggest houses of the time.

Some Warnings.
The Argosy, inhabitants of southern Algeria, worship the "Lion Juju." This is a jealously guarded circular pool of water to which sacrifices of human beings and animals are made. Each house has also its own private "Juju." The boys of this tribe, on reaching a certain age are put through various tests of physical endurance, one of which is to run twice round the town, about four miles, without stopping.

His Dad Day.
"I was startled," said the Rev. Mr. Goodman supernaturally, "to see you playing golf last Sabbath. I should think you'd do better."

"Oh," replied Hardacre, "I usually do. I was in wretched form last Sunday."—Philadelphia Press.

Stationery for Farmers.
Farmers and others, particularly those living on the Rural Delivery route, should have printed stationery as well as business men. It is not only more desirable to send a letter with name and address printed on the notehead and envelope, but it insures the return of the letter in case it is not delivered. We are especially well equipped to do this class of printing and can do it promptly and neatly. We will supply 250 noteheads and 250 envelopes, extra quality, for $1.50, or 75c for either one lot. This is cheaper than you can buy the paper and envelopes regularly at retail stores.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., July 5, 1905.
DEAR EDITOR:—

It may be of interest to some of the older people of your city to know that my mother, Mrs. Sarah Runyan, widow of the late Andrew Runyan, is today celebrating her 95th birthday, and is in comparatively good health for one of her great age. Aside from my Uncle Enoch Mettler, of Riverside, she is the last surviving member of an original family of four-generation children. She makes her home alternately with my brother, W. H. Gearhart, at Scranton, and here, traveling back and forth as inclination dictates. Yours very truly,
CLARK R. GERRHART

Forget Once in Awhile.
The health of the body as well as of the mind depends upon forgetting. To let the memory of a wrong, of angry words, of petty meanness, linger and rankle in your memory will not only dissipate your mental energy, but it will react upon the body. The secret lies will be diminished, digestion impaired, sleep disturbed and the general health suffer in consequence. Forgetting is a splendid mental calisthenic and a good medicine for the body.

Women as Well as Men
Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has been the cause of many a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a copy of the pamphlet all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name—Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root, and the name of the doctor who cured you. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

A Woman Who Succeeded
Writing of "American Women in Business" in the NEW IDEA WOMAN'S MAGAZINE for August, Miss Elizabeth Howard Westwood says: "If you talk to the heads of business concerns which employ large numbers of women, they will tell you stories which tax your credulity. One of Chicago's biggest department stores has as the buyer of its jewelry a woman who started in a messenger girl twelve years ago. Her parents were the poorest Russian immigrants. She was kept in school only until she was of working age. From the first she showed unusual intelligence and industry, and has risen rapidly from step to step until she now draws a salary of $5,000 a year, and makes nearly as much again on her commissions. She has passed many men in her race and won out entirely on the grounds of her industrial efficiency. This is, of course, a case so unusual that it seems almost to belong to the class of miraculous occurrences. But it has proved that, given the ability, sex is no obstacle."

A LINCOLN STORY.
When Lew Wallace First Met the Third Rate Lawyer.
The few uneventful years Lew Wallace spent in Covington were distinguished by one important event. It was there that he saw Abraham Lincoln for the first time. The Lincoln bar had even then some brilliant and notable men among its members, and a case of extraordinary interest had called them together at the full term of the court. In relating the circumstance General Wallace became pretty warm. "No one seemed to know anything about him, and when I asked a friend who he was he replied carelessly, 'Oh, that is some third rate lawyer, a man named Lincoln from somewhere in the middle of our midst; however, after he had been there some time,' General Wallace continued, 'something moved him to speak, and then he began to talk. We all sat spell-bound.'

"I have never," General Wallace said, "heard anything that approached it—the logic, the wit, the pertinent anecdote, that poured out in an unceasing stream. He talked thus for three solid hours. Some one said, 'Whoever that fellow is, we shall hear from him again some day.' It was my first meeting with Abraham Lincoln," he said, "and the prophecy that we should hear from him again, it must be admitted, was abundantly verified."—Mary H. Krout in Harper's Weekly.
