TEACHERS TRANSFERRED

The School Board Monday night was mainly occupied with the matter of repairs. The Committee on Building and Repairs reported that it had examined the buildings and grounds and found the following repairs necessary: FIRST WARD.

Second School.—Remove loose plaster and calamine the patches.

Third School.—Cloak room calcimined.

Fourth School.—Paint wood work around sink and patch paper in cloak room.

High School.—New border; patch plaster by calamine over places where the trim coat has come off; paint wood work around sink.

Mr. Conner's room.—Patch paper.

SECOND WARD.

Plaster in lower hall; changes in closets; coal bins repaired.

THIRD WARD.

Connect furnace pit with well; 1st, 2nd and mixed school rooms calcimined.

Fifth School.—Wash stand painted; cloak room calcimined.

Welch Hill.—Porch placed in position and secured.

FOURTH WARD.

Third School.—Wash stand painted.

Fourth School.—Paper patched and other minor repairs.

On motion the report of the Committee was accepted and the repairs therein called for were ordered.

The Committee on Building and Repairs stated that they found the sinks and wash bowls in the schools without an exception in very dirty condition and recommended that they be cleaned out and painted.

The Board was much surprised that the sinks and wash bowls had been permitted to show such neglect. It was the sense of the Committee that some rule should be adopted by the Board that would make either the janitors or the teachers responsible for the condition of the wash bowls and sinks.

On motion it was ordered that the janitors keep the sinks and wash bowls clean and presentable in the halls and the teachers look after those in the rooms.

The Supply Committee presented its report, which on motion was accepted.

On motion the Secretary was instructed to advertise for proposals for coal, 300 tons, 150 tons of each size being needed, the bids to be in by the next meeting.

The Committee on Teachers and Certificates reported that Miss Musselman, who was elected to the principalship of the Second Ward at the previous meeting, does not desire the position and asks to be transferred to her old position as teacher of the grammar school in the First Ward.

On motion it was ordered that the transfer be made as desired. Miss Goodall, who was elected as Miss Musselman's successor in the First Ward, was transferred to the principalship in the Second Ward.

Treasurer Solram presented a statement of finances to date, which showed a net cash balance on hand of $107.75.

The following members were present: Adams, Orth, Harpel, Burns, Puzell, Harig, Werkheiser, Fischer, Trumbower, Weiss and Grono.

The following bills were approved for payment:

The Hot Spell Will Continue.

The hot spell is in full evidence, and the outlook is of indefinite continuation. Thunder storms to the north gave a temporary cooling yesterday morning, but a new hot wave has formed in the Northwest, and hot and humid weather, with thunderstorms, covers the greater area of the northern and western belt of country. This is the only time in the season that the crops need the heat to mature, and the moisture is wanted for corn, potatoes and cotton, and the hay and wheat must be harvested as best they can between storms. There is no cause for complaint in this valley.

Danville is delightfully situated and if there are breezes going we get them. We doubt if our people can find a more comfortable place than their front porch, and their shaded yard, even if they go to the most favored resorts. The trouble with most folks is to fully appreciate the blessings they have. If any one will take up today's metropolitan papers and read the headings of many of the news paragraphs, he will find there such a multitude of heat disasters, he will feel somewhat comforted, because of our exemption. Deaths and prostrations are reported from nearly every section of the country, especially in the large cities.

To Take Old Soldiers South.

Adjutant General Stewart has mailed to posts of the Grand Army of the Republic commanders of the Loyal Legion, Encampments of the Union Veterans, etc., a circular, notifying those old soldiers who are entitled to transportation to attend the dedications of the Pennsylvania monuments at the National cemetery at Andersonville, Ga., and at Vicksburg, Miss., to accompany with him regarding the matter. The date of neither event has been fixed as yet but both will be held some time in October or November.

HISTORY OF 1878 REGIMENT

We have been permitted to look over an advance copy of the "History of the First Battalion, Pennsylvania Six Months Volunteers and 1878 Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry," six months and three years Service, Civil War, compiled by James M. Gibbs, Vice President Survivors Association, 187 Regiment, P. V. I., who during a few days past has been sojourning in his old home, Danville.

Although a history of a large regiment it is nevertheless especially interesting to Danville people, as Company C, under Joseph F. Ramsey was made up nearly wholly of Danville men, a part of Company K, under Captain George G. Lovett and a part of Company F under Captain John E. Riley, were also made up of Danville men. Typographically and in point of style and arrangement the book is all that could be desired and our former townsman has shown himself a very apt author. The publication was authorized at the sixth annual meeting of the Survivors' Association of the regiment, held at Wellsboro, Pa., September 7, 1904. The history was then examined by former Governor William A. Stone, President, Jonathan Jessup, secretary, and E. K. Ployer, treasurer, of the association, who announce in the beginning of the book that they have found it historically correct and accurate. In the preface the author states:

"This work has been made up from the diaries of the following members of the regiment: Captain John E. Reilly, Lieutenant Samuel O. Igenfritz and Frederick K. Ployer and from the personal recollections of the writer." Under the circumstances it will be seen that a high degree of interest must attach to the volume.

The history is well illustrated, mostly with portraits of the soldiers and commanders. The following well known to most, living or deceased figures in the history: Captain George G. Lovett, Lieutenant George S. Walker, Captain William Young, Lieutenant James Johnson, Ordey Sergeant Albert R. Patton, Lieutenant Orville D. Harder, John Henry C. P. Harder, James M. Gibbs, David H. Rank, Arthur F. Alward, John E. Roberts, John M. Seehler, Albert B. Werkheiser, William Nash, William Bryant, Waktin Morgan, Thomas P. Morgan, John J. Roderick, James D. Ware, William Stewart, John C. DeVine, Charles S. Beaver, Nelson E. Kane, Jacob Slack and Eugene Lenhart.

In presenting portraits as a rule in the case of survivors the portrait of the soldier boy is given as well as a picture of the veteran at a later date. This adds much to the interest of the illustrations. The boys, who enlisted from Danville figure very largely in the illustrations. The late Captain Lovett is shown in two portraits. There are also two portraits of Danville's post master, Charles P. Harder, Esq., one appearing as at the present day and the other as he appeared at 10 years when a drummer boy in the 1878 regiment. The history devotes a separate chapter to Mr. Harder, who is accorded the distinction of being the youngest soldier who served during the Civil war. It is true the honor is contested by other localities but in every instance where the facts are verified it is found the youngest soldier went into service when about 12 years old, rarely below that age. Charles P. Harder enlisted at the age of 10 years and 6 months. He was the youngest of five brothers, all of whom entered the union army. The portraits of two—Orville and John H. Harder—appearing on the same page with the drummer boy. Mr. Harder spent over two years in the service and had the honor of being one of the boys detailed to drum on the occasion of Abraham Lincoln's funeral.

Page 169 contains a group of portraits, which are of more than passing interest to Danville people. In the upper left hand corner is a fine looking portrait of David H. Rank. In the upper right hand corner is the portrait of Arthur Alward, in the lower left hand corner is John Waldron. In the lower right hand corner are two boys' figures seated side by side. They are two of our best known citizens and although there is something familiar in the face of each yet one might guess a week and not be able to identify either of them. They are John M. Seehler, the well-known carpenter, and John E. Roberts, who resides in East Danville. There is also a fine portrait of James M. Gibbs, the author, as he appears at present and another, a typical picture of the war time, a full length portrait with gun in hand. Sergeant A. B. Patton is also shown spick and span in uniform along with William Young, W. E. Mohr and Lieutenant James R. Johnson.

The frontispiece is a portrait of Abraham Lincoln, followed a page or so further on by a portrait of Andrew G. Curtin. The history aims to be but "a simple story of the service of the regiment, which has been written with but one end in view, that to do justice to all." Nevertheless there is not a dry or uninteresting chapter in the whole book. It gives the younger generation an idea of what warfare was like in the 60's was like. The soldier boys along with the deprivation and the hardships they were called to endure were a light-hearted and happy lot. The book is full of humor and some of the anecdotes related compare very favorably with the best that Mark Twain ever wrote.

THE EPISCOPAL CEMETERY

Those who visit the Episcopal cemetery these days are surprised to see the many and marked improvements that have been made about the fine old burial ground. The old cemetery was as natural under the lapse of time had taken on quite an air of dilapidation, which was painful to the members of Christ Episcopal church, with which the cemetery is connected, and the vestry entered upon a system of repairs and improvements.

A high iron fence of artistic pattern has been erected along the eastern and the northern side of the cemetery. On the east both at the new and old portions of the grounds are handsome gate ways, a double one for carriages and by its side a smaller one for foot people. Skirting the iron fence on the east is a well made sidewalk of gravel.

Entering the cemetery similar improvements are noticeable. Wherever a lot was found in need of repairs, and no survivors of the dead interred remain in this locality the vestry at once assumed the responsibility and had the leaning tombstones reset, the plots cleaned off and where washed filled up and neatly graded. These improvements give the cemetery quite a changed appearance but the work is not yet completed.

There are still a number of other plots very much in need of attention, in which well known families lie at rest, the survivors of whom are in our midst. On plots such as these the vestry, of course, has done no work, preferring to wait to see whether the survivors, the ones on whom the duty naturally devolves, will not take hold of the matter and follow the example of the vestry making just such repairs as may be necessary to give the burial ground a neat and uniform appearance. On some of the plots the evergreens seem to have run riot, forming gloomy clusters that hide the graves from view. Such spots give the cemetery a most melancholy appearance, while a little well directed labor and a little expense would fix things up neat and trim and give the whole cemetery an appearance that would comport better with a proper respect for the dead. It is even a question whether the general effect would not be enhanced by removing the iron fences which enclose some of the lots. The vestry is determined that the work shall not end where it is, for should it come to the worst and the survivors decline to do anything to help the repairs along the church itself will push the good work on, not stopping until every lot has received attention and has been fixed up to look clean and presentable.

The Episcopal cemetery was presented to Christ church Parish by Peter Baldy, Sr., in 1852. About twenty years ago an adjoining tract was purchased and added to the cemetery, doubling the size. It has always been a popular burying ground and contains a number of Danville's oldest and leading families. Among those buried there are: Peter Baldy, Sr., Edward Baldy, Esq., Captain Henry Baldy, C. O. Baldy, W. B. Baldy, J. C. Rhodes, William Hancock, R. H. Woolley, Daniel Edwards, William Angle, the Seehler family, the Grove family, the Frick family, the Twist and the Rishel family.

Bathing at River Bridge.

The Chief of Police is after the swimmers who use the river in the vicinity of the bridge as a bathing ground, as well as those who bathe elsewhere in the Borough limits.

The ordinance which prohibits and prohibits bathing within the limits of the Borough whether a bathing costume is worn or not. It states that no person shall bathe in the Susquehanna river, Mahoning creek, Pennsylvania canal or any stream in the Borough under the penalty of paying five dollars fine for each and every offense.

This ordinance has not always been strictly enforced especially when bathing costumes were worn, but of late swimming has been carried to great extremes and many abuses have crept in, so that the edict has gone forth and swimming in the Borough will have to stop altogether.

Some of the practices are becoming a little short of standards in the vicinity of the river bridge. Toward evening during each day when the bridge is full of people passing backward and forward it is a common sight to see in full view a dozen or more half-nude figures disporting themselves in the water above or below the bridge. The garment worn is the poorest apology for a bathing suit, but that is not the worst of it. It is not a rare occurrence for full grown young men lacking proper self respect and sense of decency to unblushingly disrobe in full view of the passers-by and put on their bathing outfit or what passes for such.

The practice should be stopped at once and the swimmers made to seek some other spot. The public demand it. Otherwise a pleasant and much frequented promenade will lose its charm to every sensitive and refined person.

Swimming has also become a great nuisance on the dam at Mahoning creek north of the Borough and the Chief of Police is just as determined that the practice there must stop also.

Pavement Completed.

D. J. Rogers yesterday completed his contract at the Opera House, which includes a fine concrete and flag stone pavement in front and along side of the building. A concrete bottom has also been laid for the gutter along East Mahoning street. Nothing now remains but to cobble the gutter.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Will Stop Abuse.

Because of the allegations that county and township superintendents frequently issue provisional teachers' certificates to applicants for schools regardless of their qualifications, an effort will be made at the next session of the state legislature to secure the repeal of the law giving superintendents this power.

It is proposed to establish a uniform qualification for teachers throughout the commonwealth and place the granting of certificates, provisional and permanent, in the hands of a commission of educators to be named by the state superintendent. Examinations shall be held once a year at each county seat under the new arrangement.

It is claimed that during the past few years thousands of provisional certificates have been issued by superintendents to relatives and friends of school directors in return for the support of the latter in the election of the supervisors of the county and township schools.

Long Wait for Court.

There are seven prisoners in jail, three of whom are doing time, four being held for court. It was only a short time ago that the jail was empty. What makes the present state of affairs all the more remarkable is the fact that the crimes with which three of the prisoners are charged are of a very serious nature.

Those who are held for the grand jury have a summer's job of it, as the next court does not convene until September 25th.

DANVILLE LOSES FIRST GAME

The Danville A. A. base ball team was defeated yesterday by the Bloomsburg A. A. by the score of 5 to 4 in the first of a series of five games that are to be played for the championship of Montour and Columbia counties.

The contest was marked by a large number of errors and misplays on both sides which detracted greatly from the interest of the contest. McCleod pitched a good game and it was lack of support and not defective twirling that lost out. A high wind was blowing throughout the nine innings that made it extremely difficult for the players to do effective work. The features of the game were Ross' one handed stop of a hot liner to third, and Hummer's two bagger.

While neither side played good ball, still Bloomsburg won on her merits and not with the aid of the umpire as has been the case in many previous games.

Through the courtesy of Superintendent Milton of the Danville & Bloomsburg trolley, Danville team was taken to and from Bloomsburg free of charge.

The next game of the series will be played at DeWitt's Park, Saturday afternoon.

Death of Mrs. Freeze.

Margaret, wife of James E. Freeze, died suddenly shortly after mid-night Monday morning at her home, No. 731 East Market street. She retired seemingly in her usual health about mid-night and in little over an hour later she breathed her last. The cause of death was heart trouble.

The deceased was forty-five years of age. She had her share of affliction during life, although in the last nine years she seemed to enjoy good health. About nine years ago she had one of her arms amputated as a result of a diseased condition of the member superinduced by a painful burn sustained when she was a child of thirteen years. On Sunday she was busy with her household duties and at night sat up with her husband until nearly 12 o'clock. On retiring she seemed as well as usual but Mr. Freeze had scarcely fallen into a doze when he heard his wife calling and hurrying to her room found her already beyond help. She was assisted down stairs and a physician called. Pending the doctor's arrival everything was done for the woman but with no avail. She passed away about 1 o'clock.

Her husband, James E. Freeze is survived by six children: Edna (Mrs. Charles Litzley), Alfred, Percy, Howard, Charles, Arthur and Margaret. Mrs. Charles Litzley, the eldest daughter, was married last Wednesday and was at the time of death at Delhi, N. Y., on her wedding trip.

Home After Long Trip.

Henry Rempe arrived in Danville yesterday afternoon after an absence of nearly four months in the great west, where he was traveling in the interest of the Rempe Self-Winding Clock.

Accompanied by his wife and little son, Mr. Rempe left in March last for the Pacific coast. The trip across the continent was a leisurely one, Mr. Rempe attending to business on the way. Among the more important cities stopped at were Pittsburg, Dayton, O., Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, and other points of Southern California.

Mr. Rempe and his family took in many points of interest on the Pacific coast. They made an excursion into old Mexico and took in the Portland Exposition, after which they took a trip to Victoria on Vancouver's Island and visited the town of Vancouver. Returning East they came by way of Manitoba and the Great Lakes.

Mr. Rempe made a very successful trip as far as business was concerned. The trip, too, was very interesting as might be inferred from the many notes and places visited. Mr. Rempe, however, makes no secret of the fact that from a business standpoint he was not captivated with the Pacific coast and that with the experience he has gained he is quite content that his lot shall lie among the mountains and valleys of Pennsylvania or adjoining States.

Speaking of the Portland Fair Mr. Rempe says that although not quite so extensive as it has many of the features of the World's Fair and St. Louis Exposition, the government exhibit, especially being about the same. There is a large attendance and the great exhibition is well worth a visit.

HOME FROM LONDON AND PARIS

Our townsman Dan M. Curry of the firm of Curry & Company last evening returned home from a short trip abroad.

Mr. Curry left Danville about a month ago on a trip which was undertaken solely for the benefit of his health. It is seldom that a trip to Europe is undertaken under such peculiar circumstances. When he left Danville Mr. Curry had a short sea voyage in view, to Halifax and back.

He arrived in New York just before the steamer Finland sailed and was advised by friends to take a trip across the Atlantic. He had just one day to make up his mind and to change all his plans. On the 10th of June as stated in these columns accompanied by his brother Ralph of Brooklyn he embarked on the Finland and after an uneventful but exceedingly interesting voyage he landed on the other side.

Mr. Curry speaks very highly of the beneficial effects of an ocean voyage for a person in need of rest and diversion. The best speed made across the Atlantic is six days, but the Finland is one of the slower vessels and requires nine days to make the voyage.

Mr. Curry was after the ocean voyage alone and had intended after a few days in London, to return by the same boat.

He thought better of the matter, however, and before reaching the other side decided to prolong his stay somewhat and journey to Paris and to take in the sights of that gay city.

Arriving in London on Monday, June 19th, the remainder of the week was spent in taking in the sights of that ancient city. The party followed what is known generally by tourists, except that Mr. Curry and his party by a lucky circumstance were permitted to make a tour of the dungeons under the Tower of London, which is a privilege not accorded to all tourists.

The week following was spent in Paris. It is not necessary to enumerate all the places in the latter city visited by Mr. Curry and his brother. Suffice it to say they were thoroughly enlightened as to all the points of interest and saw everything that any practical wide awake American would consider worth seeing.

The return trip across the Atlantic was made in the steamship Frederick de Grosse, also a nine day vessel, the voyage in every respect proving as enjoyable as that on the outgoing vessel.

Mr. Curry has been immensely benefited by his ocean voyage, his friends all agreeing that he looks 50 per cent better than when he left Danville a month ago. He states that he has practically recovered.

Only 274 Dogs are Assessed.

The two dogs which attacked Miss Dietrich of Milton, who is visiting in this city on Tuesday, paid the penalty with their lives, the Chief of Police putting one out of the way and the owner despatching the other.

These two dogs, which were a menace to the public are out of the way. But there are others. If any person of judgment were asked how many dogs there are in Danville he would be below the mark if he said one thousand. He would more likely say there were twelve hundred dogs in Danville and that would be more like it.

In view of this astounding revelation it is made that but two hundred and forty seven dogs in Danville are assessed. Whether this deplorable state of affairs is due to carelessness on the part of assessors or misrepresentation and deception on the part of owners of dogs will not be discussed here. It is enough to state that so many a street in Danville is found where it is not known that many dogs are owned for which no tax is paid. Assuming that every man who owns a valuable dog has no wish to conceal the fact, he would conscientiously pay the tax required by law if it follows that the difference between some 250 dogs assessed and at least a thousand known to exist or about 750 are canines of the less valuable sort, if not worthless dogs.

This is a fearful burden for a town of this size to carry. No wonder that one is confronted at every turn by a sneaking cur which threatens to bite or actually does bite without the least provocation.

Council will probably take some action both to prevent persons from being bitten and insure the payment of tax on dogs. Other towns are having the same problem relating to dogs to solve. Neither is the present first time that the matter was agitated in Danville.

In City Hall a large collection of dog tags are stored away which revive memories of the years 1897 and 1895 when a dog catcher was employed and the town was shaken from center to circumference in an effort to regulate the dog nuisance.

In those years every canine for which a tax had been paid wore on his neck a bronze tag bearing the name of the town, the dog's number and the year together with the words, "Dog Tax."

The canines found without the necessary tag were of course those for whom no tax was paid and they were taken in hand by the dog catcher. They were either redeemed and put on the list of protected respectable dogs or they were put to death by the dog catcher.

The plan must have resulted in ridding the town of a good many worthless curs. Eliminating the dog catchers or altogether the use of the tags in theory would seem to be all right and it might be proper for some of the old timers to explain why after two years it was abandoned.

BOROUGH SOLONS IN SESSION

Council was in session less than two hours Friday, but in that time it tossed off a good deal of business. As usual sewer extension came up and claimed a good part of the time.

It was decided to construct a sewer along the alley at the rear of west side of Mill street from Center street to a point back of the Simon Krebs property, where it is to intersect with the main sewer. On motion it was ordered that the necessary agreement with the D. L. & W. Railroad Company be signed and that work on the sewer extension begin immediately.

On motion it was ordered that the bonds be prepared and executed on behalf of the Borough of Danville by the Chief Burgess and Secretary of the said Borough, be duly tendered by the said Secretary to Will G. Brown and to the executors and heirs at law of Christian Lanbach, deceased, for any damages that may be sustained by them respectively, arising out of the laying, construction and maintenance of the municipal pipe sewer through their respective premises.

Mr. Gosser reported that Engineer Ray of the D. L. & W. Railroad Company on Wednesday met him as President of Board of Trade and the Sewer Committee of Council and talked over the best way of getting rid of the drainage nuisance in canal. The engineer plainly indicated
