VICTORIA CATARACT COMPANIE OF A COMPANIE OF

IT IS ONE OF THE NOTABLE WON-

It was on the 22d of November, 1855 that the friendly natives with whom he was traveling brought Dr. David Liv ingstone for the first time within sigh on the Zambezi river, new known the Victoria falls. Before finding the Victoria fails. Before finding it, the good missionary had journeyed for nearly two years, and from his point of departure at Kuruman, in Cape Colony, had traversed quite 4,000 miles of hitherto unknown country.

Today one takes the train at Cape Town on Wednesday, passes through Kimberley on Thursday, reaches Buluwayo on Sturday, and late in the afternoon of Sunday begins to see in the distance the rising piliar of mist from the great cataract.

The natives call it "Mosi-oa-tuni," meaning "the roaring smoke." Twenty miles away the spray thrown back from the depths of the tremendous cavern into which the river tumbles appears like a column of smoke rising from a burning village, and during the last mile of the rallway journey the roar of the falling water becomes noticeable. Finally, when the edge of the chasm is reached, if the river is in flood, the eye and ear are assailed by a combination of phenomena that probably cannot be duplicated as marvels anywhere else on the planet.

The first question that is asked of an American who has seen this African wonder generally is, "How does it compare with Niagara?" There is no possibility of comparison. The two are as different as day and night. Niagara is a perfect picture in a lovely natural framework. Every point and line and curve of motionless rock, trembling verdure and glidling water is a touch of majestic beauty. Victoria is simply a phenomenon, a terrific gash in the floor of an apparently unending plain, which as one gazes simply swallows a river in a manner that produces almost a thrill of horror.

The Zambezi valley for a hundred miles or more in every direction from the cataract is a rough and broken plateau covered with low brush and stunted trees, with here and there an outcrop of somber basaitic rock, all thoroughly uninteresting. The herbage is but fallntly green and the tropical sky only faintly blue. It is a hazy half tone landscape, wanting in clear cut lines in every direction and lacking, above everything else, that element we always unconsciously seek in a nature pleture—life. The absence of this produces in the milad a feeling of loneliness and often of fear, Across this solemn scene appears a river that in flood time is perhaps half a mile wide. If a deaf man were following down one of its banks he would notice little but the quiet water and the surface of the conflagration and might giance to the right and left to note the direction taken. But the panorama changes beiching up blasts of mist that rise hundreds of feet into the air and hurry away with the winds as if rejoicing at their 'escape from the inferno below. And somewhere, nearly 400 feet below, the entrapped river is fighting its way between sheer walls of black rock toward a narrow cleft in the eastern wall, whence it escapes, foaming and boiling, through the zigzags and curves of a deep gorge leading off to the eastward. One goes to an edge of this delivering chasm and looks down upon the tossing waters, every pressed from behind by other floods struggling out of the narrow black gateway, and perhaps the most prominent mental sensation is that of thank-tulness that even in such a grim and ghastly way nature has provided a means by which the fearful silt of a throat above that has swallowed the stream can disgorge it again without causing an overwhelming catastrophe. The Victoria cataract should be visited at least twice before one is competent to pass an opinion upon it. When the river is in food (July) the scene is simply terrible. One sees nothing but an enormous sheet of water disappearing into the bowels of the earth with a noise as of mountains falling upon one another, while from the awful gash comes back in flerce gusts and swirls the foaming breath of the tortured element below. But in December, when the water is low, the edge of the cataract shows as a long, creany film of lovely lace; the rising mist flows soft. ract shows as a long, creamy film of lovely lace; the rising mist flows soft-ly away through the little rain forest below the cavern's lip; the gigantic vault itself becomes a wonderful spec-tacle, a dream of neutral tints, a cave of beauty. Far down in its dark depths the waters, gliding along the rocky walls and bending gracefully around the corners toward the narrow outlet pass gayly and laughingly to freedom. For a time the demon of the cataract is sleeping.—Theodore F. Van Wagenen in Century. act shows as a long, creamy film o

Hair Color.

In the case of lorses where the skin has been abraded by the harness if the galled region is left to itself the hair will grow in, but be colorless, while if oil is applied freely to the abrasion hair of a dark or normal color will be produced, thus indicating that the color is ordinarily due to the secretions of the skin sinking down as a sediment to the base of the hair follicle, where it is absorbed by the shaft of the hair. It is absorbed by the shaft of the hair.

Lace Work Trees,

The inner bark of many trees, such as the vine and horse chestnut, is continuous and uninterrupted. In others, such as the ash and the oak, the fibers are separated during growth and form a kind of network, in the interstices of which the medullary rays are seen. Of this sort is the famous lace work tree of Jamaica, whose consecutive layers of fibers are interlaced so delicately as to present a close resemblance to real or more are interfaced so delicately as to present a close resemblance to real lace both in color and appearance. A former governor of Jamaica is said to have presented Charles II. with a cravat, a frill and ruffles of this vegetable lace, while bonnets, collars and collarettes made of it can be seen in the museum of Law promises to be a record-breaker.

MR EDITOR:—It has been some-time since Strawberry Ridge and its surroundings have been reported, and since Jerry Grimes: is so faithful in giving details we feel it our duty to contribute something once. Jerry tics. May be his wife won't let him. It is good sometines to take a wo-man's advice, and not say too much. Now, Jerry is a good fellow, he does not talk anything only what other people tell him. I suppose he is a farmer and has no time to tell other peoples' faults. We farm and don't get away much, but this new telephone we have here at Strawberry Ridge just beats anything for news. Last week Jim called me to the 'phone and asked me if I heard the news. I said, no. Why, he said, Jerry Grimes is going to Atlantic City on a vacation, and the Intelligencer won't be half so good till he comes back. I hope he won't stay long. I said, I hoped so too. Then Jim was more satisfied. Now, Jim thinks Jerry is betwixt and between, but I believe Jerry is like me, a live Democrat. It is good sometimes to take a wo
