A Strong Attraction.

One of the strongest of the coming attractions at the Grand Opera House, Bloomsburg, Thursday evening, will be the elaborate and beautiful production of Wilson Barrett's remarkabl drama, "The Sign of the Cross," which will be seen for the first time in that city on Thursday evening. The action of the play is laid in Rome dur ing the time of Nero's tyrapucal reign, and the story of the persecuted Obristians who died for their faith is eautifully told.aided materially by a series of magnificant pictures of anci-ent Rome and the sumptuous magnific-ence of the corrupt raler's court. The company is under the direction o Wagner so long the manager of the late Sol Smith Russell, and is composed of twenty-two actors who have been chosen carefully for their fitness to represent the strong characters wit which the piece abounds. There is a great deal of interest in the appear uce of this attraction and there will be a rush for seats.
