—Is the Lyecoming county court last week there was the sad spectacle of an old man, bowed with years and grief, pleading guilty of embezzlement. He was a poor man, and was elected tax collector of a township on account of his poverty. They wanted to "help the old man along." Well, he collected the money. There was more of it than he ever saw before, and he knew that a part of it belonged to him, as a commission. He spent part of it. Then his dear old wife got sick, and needed the necessities of life. He had the tax money in his house, and he took some more of it to buy medicines and luxuries for her. Then the doctor demanded his money every visit, and the poor old wife needed the doctor, and the old man took some more of the tax money to pay the doctor. He kept on until he had spent about all of it. Then he had nothing to pay over, and his bondsmen handed him over to the court. The judge heard the story and suspended the sentence, and told him to try his best and pay at least a part of it, and come back next court and tell how he had made out. There is a moral in all this. And that is, it is a very poor kindness to a skin poor man to put him in a similar position of trust. The man to handle money for the public is the man who has made some for himself, and knows its value, knows how to take care of it, and knows the consequences if he fails to turn it over. There may be offices that a man who has made a plumb failure of his own business can hold, but it is not the office of treasurer or tax collector. For such positions you want a man who is himself responsible. A man who has been in business for himself for twenty years and failed to save a cent is not the man to take care of the money of the people. If the editor of this paper was running for office, poverty would be the last plea he would put out. It is a poor plea, and stamps the man as an incompetent at the start. What we want in office is a competent man.

Installing Iron Beds.

There is no sign of beginning work on any of the new buildings at the Hospital for the Insane, but things are not entirely at a standstill at the big institution. Just now the wooden beds, which up to the present have been in use at the Hospital, are being thrown out and their places filled with more modern iron beds.

It may not occur to all persons that there are over a thousand beds in use at the Hospital for the Insane. The wooden beds in use are no ordinary or ill-adapted affairs, but were made with special reference to Hospital use, according to specifications furnished by the Hospital authorities. They are therefore well made and durable, capable of standing the roughest kind of usage, such as they are constantly subjected by insane patients.

The beds have not been found wanting in any respect, but the change is made to suit the ideas of some physicians on the Board of Trustees, who regard iron beds as more sanitary. The last Legislature appropriated ten thousand dollars for iron beds. On the strength of this an order was placed for between twelve and thirteen hundred beds with springs.

The first installment of iron beds—two car loads—have just arrived at the Hospital and the work of installing them is now fully under way. The wooden beds displaced in most instances are as good as new and what to do with them is something of a problem. An effort will probably be made to dispose of them to some other institution or they may be sold to the general public for what they will bring.

This fifty Shamokinian, who were in the city attending Masonic lodge Tuesday night, before returning home at midnight, paid a visit to the Water Works, inspecting the filter plant and the municipal light plant. They were quite well pleased with what they saw and gave our town credit for a good deal of progressiveness, one of the gentlemen recalling that Danville was one of the first towns in this section to grapple with the subject of impure water by installing a filter plant. Shamokin has a good many other towns hereabout watching our municipal light experiment with interest.

President Roosevelt may accept a great risk if he should go to New Orleans next month. As the head of the government and a very valuable member of society he should take the best care of his health.

FREIGHT WRECK AT BLUE HILL

There was a freight wreck at Blue Hill yesterday morning, which possessed some very peculiar features. The trainmen saved their lives by jumping; the locomotive left the track and after the collision lay with the caboose pitched over its back, the latter on a level with the telegraph wires.

The collision occurred about six o'clock between two west bound freight trains, both of which had orders to lie by at South Danville to let an up-freight train pass. The train ahead was drawn by engine No. 1069 and was just in the act of taking the switch. The second train was drawn by engine No. 1735 and was following at what was considered a safe distance. There was a dense fog prevailing, however, which during the night had given the railroads over the whole division an unusual amount of trouble. One engineer yesterday morning said that at times he found it impossible to see the trolley car from his engine. Along the base of Blue Hill the fog was exceptionally dense and it is wholly to this cause that the accident is attributed.

Locomotive No. 1735 came around Blue Hill at a good rate of speed. The engineer was unaware that the other train lay on the spot until the very moment that the caboose became visible in the fog. By that time he was almost up to the train and a collision was inevitable.

Several brakemen were in the caboose and they were taken as much by surprise as the engineer and fireman of No. 1735. There was only a moment in which to save their lives by jumping. Not one failed to act upon the first impulse and all leaped clear of the mix-up. To show how narrow a margin the men escaped it is stated that one of the brakemen still had his feet upon the steps of the caboose when the engine struck it.

As the big locomotive crashed into the rear end of the train ahead the caboose was lifted clear of the tracks and thrown up as high as the telegraph poles where it landed on top of the engine, which itself was wrecked and derailed. The caboose on its high perch fell over against the telegraph wires which helped to support its weight.

The wreck train was immediately sent for but did not arrive until nearly an hour after the collision. The track was blocked for over three hours. The 7:11 a. m. passenger train laid at South Danville until after the 9 a. m. train came down, which itself was half an hour late owing to the accident.

The damage sustained was not heavy. The pilot was smashed and the front part of the locomotive was staved in but it was not incapacitated for running and after it had been lifted back upon the track it was able to make its way to Scranton under steam. The engine was a total wreck. The 10-ton grating, which supported its weight on the engine, were crushed which permitted it to fall to the ground. By the time the tracks were detached about all that remained was a mass of kindling wood.

Farmers are having strenuous times just now in getting their fall seeding out and their corn cut. Some have finished seeding from one to two weeks ago, others are partly done, while some have not sown any. The corn crop promises to be the best for several years.

Threshers report the clover seed crop as a poor one, the yields being about a bushel to the load. Last year the crop gave as high as three to six bushels to the load.

Wet weather has kept the farmers back with their work which accounts for some being so far back with their seeding.

Our mills are making some cider but are not very busy. The product of the mills will fall very much below that of last year. A few orchards have a fair crop of apples. Peaches were plenty, the trees in many instances had their limbs bent to the ground with their loads.

Repairs to the St. James Lutheran church at Turbittville are progressing as rapidly as could be expected. The ceiling and side walls are completed, the walls outside have been painted one coat. The floor will be put in this week, after which the pews will be placed into position. When the work is completed the church will present a very fine appearance.

Monday and Tuesday afternoons the heat was most intense—so much so that it was almost impossible to work. Its intensity was due to the humidity more than the heat.

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Herr took a ten-day trip to Atlantic City, returning on the ninth inst. They say they had a very pleasant time while at the beach.

Miss Kathryn Wagner returned recently from her trip across the big salt pond, and is now engaged in teaching the young idea how to shoot, at California.

J. F. Bower went to Germany to visit relatives and friends and is again at home on his "Meadowbrook Farm."

White Hall. W. F. Dilline has been to Opp several weeks doing some repairing at P. W. Opp's mills. Will get through this week.

Peter Bishel and wife were Monday callers at Dillines'. The peach crop is a good one in this section. Some of our farmers are seeding, others have commenced cutting corn and buckwheat, both of which are good crops.

Sick Headache. When your head aches, there is a storm in the nervous system, centering in the brain. This irritation produces pain in the head, and the turbulent nerve current sent to the stomach causes nausea, vomiting. This is sick headache, and is dangerous, as frequent and prolonged attacks weaken the brain, resulting in loss of memory, inflammation, epilepsy, fits, dizziness, etc.

Atlay this stormy, irritated, aching condition by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They stop the pain by soothing, strengthening and relieving the tension upon the nerves—not by paralyzing them, as do most headache remedies.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do not contain opium, morphine, chloroform or similar drugs. Sick headache is hereditary in my family. My father suffered a great deal, and for many years I have had spells that were so severe that I was unable to attend to my business affairs for a day or two at a time. During a very severe attack of headache, I took then I take them when I feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once.

JOHN J. McBRIDE, JR., Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that they are genuine. If you feel the spell coming on and it stops it at once. Write direct to us.
