OCTORS say that the ethics of their profession forbids them to advertise. But if Dr. Dosem reads a paper before the county medical society and the local newspapers fail to mention it, his feelings are hurt. Which leads us to remark that the ethics of the doctor's profession simply forbid him to pay for advertising. He wants all he can get-free.

Lawyers are not quite so ethi-l. They will insert a one inch card, but more is unethical with But—when a legal notice s published, at the expense of the county, or client, they always want their name hitched to the bottom, thus: "Skinnum, So'icitor." It all goes to prove that what are called the learned profession believe, in advertising at the expense of the other fellows.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

ceording to John Adams, It Shou On the 3d of July, 1776, John Adama, then one of the representatives of Massachusetts in the Continental congress, wrote to his wife Abigail:
"Yesterday the greatest question was decided which was ever debated in America, and a greater perhaps never was nor will be deelded among men."

In a second letter, written the same day, be said:

day, he said:
"But the day is past. The 2d of July "But the day is past. The 2d of July will be the most memorable epochs in the history of America. I am apt to be lieve that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other from this time forward, forevermore."

illuminations from one end of this continent to the other from this time forward, forevermore."

When the resolution was taken up on the 2d, all the states, except New York, voted to accept it. Thus, on the 2d day of July, 1776, the independence of the thirteen united colonies from the throne of Great Britain was definitely decided upon. The 2d, and not the 4th, may be called the true date of the separation. We could with propriety celebrate the Fourth two days earlier. That the participants in the work sonsidered the 2d as the true date is shown by the letters written by John Adams, quoted at the beginning of the article. The popular fancy, however, seized upon the 4th, the date of acceptance of Jefferson's more dramatic declaration of the reasons for the separation, as the proper day to celebrate. The debate upon the document was continued until the afternoon of the 4th, and, says Jefferson, might have run on interminably at any other season of the year. But the weather was oppressively warm, and the hall in which the deputies sat was close to a stable, "whence the hungry files swarmed thick and flerce, alighting on the legs of the delegates and biting hard through their thin sitk stockings. Treason was preferable to discomfort," and at last the delegates were brought to such a state of mind as to agree to the Declaration without further amendment.

It is a mistake to suppose that the

It is a mistake to suppose that the document was signed by the delegates on that day. It is improbable that any signing was done save by John Hanceck, the president of the congress, and Charles Thomson, the secretary.—Paul Leland Haworth in Harper's Maga-

STAGE REALISM.

STAGE REALISM.

Why Joe Jefferson Didn't Have a Real Dog Schneider.

It was the privilege of the writer years ago to attend a reception at which Joseph Jefferson spoke on the drama. His treatment of the subject was interesting, the utterance of a man who knew the art of which he spoke. But the most interesting part of the hour came after the completion of the formal address, when an opportunity was given to the audience to ask any questions they wished of Mr. Jefferson. Soon the familiar topic was introduced, the effect of the modern elaboration and realism in stage setting. Mr. Jefferson at once rose to the question. He spoke somewhat rapidly, with a quaint humor and sympathetic charm that were irresistible. He characterized the modern fashion of stage setting as "a tribute to the weakness of the human invariantion." charm that were irresistible. He characterized the modern fashion of stage setting as "a tribute to the weakness of the human imagination." "I am often asked," he went on, "why I do not have a real dog Schneider. But if I did none of you would be satisfied. You would go home saying, "Well, Schneider never looked like that dog!" You love Schneider because you have made him out of a piece of your own heart. And then," meditatively, "if I had a real Schneider some one in the gallery would probably whistle to him at the critical moment, and he would bark and spoil the play. While if he knew his part perfectly and did just what Schneider ought to do"—pausing and with his delightful smile—"Schneider would be the here and not Rip!" Then, would be the hero and not Rip!" Then, with a twinkle of the eye, he summed up the whole matter with the quiet remark, "Realism with a tell to wag in the wrong place is a dangerous thing."

PLUMMER AGAINST LABOR

Miners' Legislative Committee Convicts Him of Duplicity.

He Deliberately Blocked Legislation Favorable to Workingmen, Repeatedly Violated His Pledges, and His Friends Boisterously Applauded the Epithet, "The Miners Be Damned."

The official report of the legislative committee of the United Mine Workers for the Second district of this state covering the session of the legislature of 1905, would make exceedingly interesting as well as peculiarly appropriate ac campaign literature at this time. At a convention for the district held in Altoona in 1904 certain legislation of interest and advantage to miners was outlined and endorsed. A committee consisting of Edward Fisher, James Hamilton and George B. Parks was named by the convention to present the proposed legislation and urge its favorable consideration. The report in question is the official account of "Pummer's Attitude Toward Labor". the proposed legislation and urge its favorable consideration. The report in question is the official account of their labors, experiences and opera tions in Harrisburg.

The proposed legislation consisted of three measures, the hope of the passage of which has long been cherished by the miners not only of that dis-trict but in all parts of the state. They were respectively an employers lia-fility bill, a bill providing for the ex-umination of mine superrintendents, foremen aid miners, and a bill for the appointment of a commission to reappointment or a commission to re-vise the mining laws generally. The miners had been promised all these measures and the committee of the Second district entered upon their dut-ies serenely confident of success. They knew exactly what they wanted, pre-cisely how to convey their thoughts to others and had the industry and

But the gentlemen of the committee soon realized that their fond expectations were destined to be disappointed. The machine managers sitting in the seclusion of the Boas mansion were serving the corporations rather than the people and promptly issued orders for the defeat of all the bills. They were not to be executed in a brutal manner, it is true. On the contrary, he greatest delicacy was to be exer cised in the operation and the influential gentlemen of the committee were to be "jellied" along in the most soothing manner. The committee worked night and day and argue! Incessantly while the legislators listened attentively and professed the deepest intrest in the subject. But the interest was not in the passage of the measures. It was in the defeat of them without betraying the purpose in advance of the event. In other words the scheme was to kill the proposed legislation while professing sympathy for the policies expressed in the measures. It was to fool all the miners all the time.

Two of the billis, that for the examination of mine superintendents and foremen and that for the revision of the mining laws carried appropriations and horsemen and having been referred to the ised in the operation and the influ-

EARLY DIAMOND BUYING. South Africa's First Finds Were Paid For In Cows.

For In Cows.

South Africa's first diamonds were paid for in cows. The story is told by Joseph B. Robinson, one of the wealthy ploneers of that country. In 1870 he gave eight oxen and a wagon loaded gave eight oxen and a wagon loaded with sugar and tobacco to a native in exchange for a twenty-three carat gem. "The news spread like wildfire through the countryside that a white man was giving away wagons and oxen for bits of stone," he says. "I set all the natives who came to work to seek for diamonds on one side of the Vaal river, and I brought up my own fifty men to hunt for diamonds among the bushes and scrub on the other side of the stream. I had bought the land on both sides of the river, so that I was working on my own property. Next morning at sunrise, when I was having my coffee, I was startled by a loud hullabalooing, and, looking out, I saw the whole gang of my men-rushing toward me in a state of wild
