

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is too great to be done by a person possibly deriving from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials from Dr. J. C. ... Sold by Druggists. Price 75c. bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Columbia University last year received $1,900,000 in money gifts. There were 4981 students enrolled. President Butler's report tells of Columbia's new study program, under which a student may be graduated after three years' study, or may take more than four years to cover the same ground.

One has learned to expect news of the most blood curdling nature from Russia, but that from Jedosevgrad, in the province of Dor, where the Cossacks fired a building in which 1,000 peasants were holding a meeting, only 200 escaped, it comes pretty near to capturing the climax. Naturally one is led to propound the query, "what next?" and to fear that the "next" may be the news of some other barbarous crime that will make the whole civilized world stand aghast.

Many so-called Webster Vest Pocket Dictionaries have been put upon the market, but until now there has been no authentic dictionary of this class, abridged directly from Webster's International. Such a vest pocket manual has just been issued, entitled "Webster's Little Gem Dictionary." It is scholarly and strictly reliable, and being the best, most concise and most complete of its kind. The main vocabulary includes by actual count more words than are found in any other pronouncing dictionary of its scope, although some books make exorbitant claims to the contrary. The Little Gem also contains a very full and up-to-date Gazetteer of the World, many valuable tables and lists, and also twelve pages of colored maps, seldom published in a book of this size. It is just the guide you need to answer your many questions with accuracy. All copies are supplied with the marginal index and will be sent postpaid on receipt of price: Dark Green, $1.50; Imitation Leather, 40c; Full Leather, 90c; G. & C. aiding the memory.

Mnemonic Systems Have Been in Use From Time Immemorial.

The art of rendering artificial aid to the memory by associating in the mind things difficult to remember with those which are easy of recollection is said to have originated with the Egyptians. The first person to reduce it to a system was, according to Cicero, the poet Simonides, who lived 500 B. C. His plan is known to the typical student of the plan and is in substance as follows: Choose a large house with a number of differently furnished apartments in it. Impress upon the mind carefully all that is noticeable in the house so that the mind can readily go over the parts. Then a series of ideas in the house—the first in the hall, the next in the sitting room, and so on with the rest. Now, when one wishes to recall these ideas in their proper succession, commence going through the house, and the ideas placed in each department will be found to readily recur to the mind in connection with it.

It is related that this mnemonic plan was first suggested to the poet by a tragic occurrence. Having been called upon to banquet just before the roof of the house fell and crushed all the rest of the company, he found on returning that the bodies were so mutilated that no individual could be recognized, but by remembering the places which they had severally occupied at the table he was able to identify them.

THE BELTED PLAID.

This was the Original Dress of the Scottish Highlander.

The original dress of the Highlander was the belted plaid. This was a piece of tartan cloth, two yards broad and four long, which was drawn around the waist in nicely adjusted folds and tightly buckled with a belt. The lower part came down to the knees in winter, and to the ankles in summer. The upper part was the modern kilt, while the upper part was drawn up and adjusted to the left shoulder, so that the right arm might be perfectly free. This upper part was the plaid, which was used as a covering for the shoulders and body in wet weather, and when the use of both arms was required it was fastened across the breast with a brooch, often curiously enriched. A brooch was also used to fasten the plaid on the left shoulder. To attire himself in the belted plaid required on the part of the Highlander no small amount of dexterity. The usual way was to lay it on the floor and after carefully arranging the folds to lie down upon it and then buckle it on. The lower end was fastened to the right hip. The utility of such a dress in the highlands is obvious, for the plaid rendered the man indifferent to storms and prepared to pass a night in the open air in the most inclement weather, while the loose undergarment enabled him to wade rivers or ascend mountains with equal ease. It was thus peculiarly adapted to the warrior, the hunter and the shepherd.—London Mail.

CHANGING THE SUBJECT.

What Lincoln Said When Harvey Ended a Two Hours' Talk.

The late Hon. Charles W. Snick told the following of the Hon. Peter Harvey, the friend and biographer of Daniel Webster:

"Mr. Harvey was a large man with a small voice and that pospositivity of manner that many very different men possess. He had everything he valued and prized himself upon his friendship with the 'great expounder'."

The first year of the War of the Rebellion we went to Washington, and on his return was asked how he liked President Lincoln.

"Well," he said, "Mr. Lincoln is a very singular man. I went on to see him, and told him that I had been an intimate personal friend of Daniel Webster; that I had talked with him so much on the affairs of the country that I felt perfectly confident I could tell him exactly what Mr. Webster would advise in the present crisis, and thereupon I talked to Lincoln for two solid hours, telling him just what he should do and what he should not do, and, well you know, it is when I got through all Mr. Lincoln said was, 'He clapped his hand on my leg, Mr. Harvey, what a tremendous great call you have got!'"—Boston Herald.

THE PORCUPINE.

Is His Likng For Salt an Acquired or a Natural Taste?

Some men who were camping in the Adirondacks several years ago, on breaking camp in the autumn left an old tub which was saturated with salt brine. On returning to the same camp the next year they found that the tub had been gnawed into little of it was left. They were long in finding out what animal had done the work, for the camp was overrun with Canadian porcupines. At night they became so obliged to kill them to protect their property. The hatching of a paddle was gnawed half through.

The explanation of their presence in that region was not noticeably abundant in the previous year, is that they had made a rendezvous of the camp, being attracted by the old brine tub. On that reason were greatly pleased with the locality.

An interesting query is this: Is the liking for salt an acquired or a natural taste? Were they ever able to gratify that taste to any extent before man found a chance to do so?—St. Nicholas.
