We are authorized to withdraw the announcement of Mr. John C. Foust, who had pleaced his name before the who had pleaced his name before the people of this county for registrar and recorder and had started out to make a successful canvass for the same.

Mr. Foust soon learned in his canvass that Mr. Sidler was the people's choice and the odds were greatly against him and any other that would care to enter the contest.

care to enter the contest

It seams that that office seeds the man in this campaign or 'Ar, Sidler could not have been induced to run again. In Mr. St. der are the qualifications required. For this position and since he has been favored with election and reglection the propole insited since he has been favored with elec-tion and re-election, the people insited that it vasas justly due the party that he wor ald again offer his services and assir t in keeping the party in line.

-All over the country the people are showing a fixed determination to put down grafters and professional machine politicians, and everywhere these artful trimmers and dodgers are trying to get on the right side, but with no general or alarming success, because the touch-stone of reform leadership is character, and that is not an asset strougly in eviden among the machine managers of profitable politics. They themselves appreciate this, and are, therefore, eager to annex character by hook or —The Judge in Washington county called the Constables to account in his court because there were reports of speakeasies in operation which the Constables either knew nothing about, or were careful not to report. This sort of thing is common. It has been referred to over and over again, It is a notorious fact that Constables in very rare instances report violations of the liquor laws which are known to people generally. The courts have a remedy, however. They may susremedy, however. They may suspend delinquent Constables, and have them tried and first. them tried and finally ousted from office if they are guilty. A FAIR REPLY.

Bloomsburg, Pa., May 10th., 1906.
To the Readers of the Intelligencer:—
In his circular letter issued to the voters of this Judicial District, Mr. Herring attacks my fitness for the position of President Judge, solely upon the ground of my age, and upon what he sees fit to call my lack of experience. I want to say a word to the voters on these subjects.

admitted to the bar in 1885, he was loc ded at Scranton, as Revenue Collector for four years, to say nothing of the time during which he acted as President of the Pennsylvania Paper Mills, at Catavissa, to the almost entire exclusion

I have followed my profession exclusively for twelve years, so that in point of active professional experience, there or active professional experience, there is only about five years between us. Moreover, I believe I am clearly within the facts when I say that I have appeared before more juries, and tried more cases in the Courts of Columbia County than Mr. Herring. As District Attorney alone, I have tried not less than one hundled and fifty cases. Containly I have dred and fifty cases. Certainly I have had three times the experienced that Mr. Herring had when he went upon the Bench ten years ago, and made, as he laims, such a good record.

Now as to the question of my age. It elected Judge I would take my sent upon he Bench only a little short of 34 years of age. Mr. Herring himself went upon he Bench at 36, and I do not notice in is circular that he admits that he was not a good Judge by reason of his youth. But, looking generally at the history of the Bench of Pennsylvania, I fillirm that the greatest Judges this Com-nonwealth has ever produced, went upn the Bench when they were from 31 t years of age. The greatest Judge in Pennsylvania.

ven the United States excepting possibly Chief Justice Marshall, was John Bennister Gibson. Where is there awyer who will deny this? Yet he be awyer who will denythis? Tet he be-ame a Judge of the Supreme Court at 66. Duly second to Gibson as a Judge, and surpassing him as a lawyer and tatesman, stands Jeremiah S. Black, Chief Justice of our Supreme Court, U. Attorney General and Secretary of ite. Yet, he was the President Judge f Bedford, Blair Fulton and Somerset counties at 31. James T. Mitchell, the resent Chief Justice of the Supreme Coart of Pennsylvania, went upon the Bench at 36. Judge McClue, of the pre-sent Union and Snyder District, was elected at 30, and he has just been over-whelmingly re-elected for a second

But let us look nearer home. The two Judges of our own district who achieved the greatest fame, were Warren J. Wood-ward and Ellis Lewis, the latter after-wards Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. When these men so ably filled the office of President Judge here in ou own locality, one was 35 and the other 36. And these are not isolated, selected ny idea of comparing either myself of Mr. Herring with these distinguished men, but simply to prove that because man is 34 years of age, is no reason whi he cannot make a good Judge. Indeed would much prefer, and be quite content o allow my legal and public career t lain statement of these facts is due me In the near future I shall try to see you personally, but the district is large and the time short. May I take this op-portunity of respectfully asking for your

THE muck-rake men, so termer President Roos evelt, and so justly anounced by hira, who have for sevel property and the second denounced by hir a, who have for several years occu pied front seats in the attempt to create a spirit of unrest by exaggerating, the abuses supposed and alleged to exist in business and political life, always give a distorted, and, therefore, a false view of existing conditions. They attribute corrupt motives to men without a shadow of proof, and single out individual examples of wrong-doing as a ground to condemn society at large. All this is done to further selfish aims and purposes. They see no good in any one poses. They see no good in any on outside their own individual coterie Not because "everything seems lovely" should Mr. Sidler sit idly by, believing that his nomination was assured and that was all he needed, but he should bestir himself and work in the interest of his party so that it would also go "swimmingly" along to "the good."

—After all, Count Witte has reason to congratulate himself. His political career was cut short by the Emperor and not by a bomb.

Mr. Editoria:—I had a conversation today with a gentleman who was soliciting funds to pay off a small church debt.
