—This is everybody's time to run for Governor, and it looks as if everybody was doing it.

—The Pittsburg man who married his mother's maid probably wanted to keep a servant in the family.

—The contest for President Judge at this time is very heated and the result is a question that can only be settled by the ballot. Candidates for Associate Judge are also strenuously working in their last great efforts, while the result will be closely with three hustling party men.

—By the way things are moving in this county and district one would suppose there was no Republican about. Not a single Republican announcement has thus far appeared, and we do not even hear of any available timber who cares to announce against what is sure to be an exceptionally strong Democratic ticket, for they are satisfied that next fall's campaign will result in a great Democratic landslide.

—We still have one or two men in this community who stand around on the street corners and from morning until night complain about the town, their neighbors, their taxes and the weather. Such men are of no use to the town, their families or their God. They seem to live but no one can tell how. Like mosquitoes and flies, they are not fatal but disagreeable to have about. It is not necessary to publish the names of the two or three who infest this community for you all know them.

—We are not given to boasting but we are proud of the farmer boys of this vicinity. They are, with rare exceptions, a healthy, intelligent and happy class of young men. We feel like taking our hat clear off when we meet them upon our streets, and no class is more welcome to our office. Too many boys leave the farm where they would have made substantial and good citizens, and go to the city where only one in a thousand succeed in life's battle. Their are farmers who fairly drive their boys away. There is no excuse for this. The farmer boy is entitled to his vacations, to several relaxations, his visits to the city, good books, magazines and his home paper. To the observing one it is plain to be seen that the old farm is the best place in the world for the average young man and never fails to bring a happier and more useful life than the city. Young men, you who till the soil and earn your bread by the sweat of your brow, we are proud of you; our latchstring is always out to you and you will always have a friend in this paper. Come and see us and give us the news from your neighborhood.

HOME TALK WITH GIRLS.

"The world is wide, these things are small, they may be nothing, but they're all."

You want to be popular and you want to be admired; that is all right; but you don't want to lower yourself in the estimation of your male friends by familiarity, which is destructive of all that is exciting and ennobling.

Do not permit young men to talk on any subject that cannot be discussed before the third party. Young ladies often, even on slight acquaintance, become very confidential and familiar, quieting their conscience by the thought "he will never tell."

There never was a greater mistake; your first duty is to be a lady; you cannot afford to be familiar, bold or wild in order to appear smart (?). Let your conversation be pure.

When writing to your friend, don't grow gushing, don't tell him all your personal affairs and don't call him "dear," "darling," and sign yourself "yours forever," "thine only" or send any loving message. Write a common sense letter, one for his friend to read as well as himself and "remain very sincerely," etc.

Take a little care, and remember while you are having a good time this summer, while your pleasures and enjoyments are innocent, yet, "the world may see evil where it does not exist."

Don't toss your head and put on airs "that you don't care if it does," you do care, and we ask you to think over our suggestions for good conduct makes our golden spots.

If you go walking to the woods, driving or boating, go with a party. A young man may urge you to go alone, he may urge you to stay out late, but he will not allow his sister to do this, and he will think much more of you if you insist upon it and remain where all the rest of the people are. If you entertain your friend at home in the evening do so in the presence of your mother and family; he will not remain so long, but what is much better, he will regret that the time was short.

Keep yourself respect and allow no familiarities in any manner, and believe me you will never regret it; but if you permit the privileges that are given many young men you will always have cause for remorse.

Be a true, womanly girl, your own memory hearted self, but let your conduct be such that men of high degree will look up to you for approval; then if time separates you from your new gentleman friend, the time spent with him, will always be a pleasant, bright spot in your memory and no blush will need to overspread your face.

The true girl will surrender herself with an atmosphere of strength and under the influence of dignity and womanliness, the rude will be rebuked.

—And now the candidates are on the home stretch. Only a week more of strenuous effort and they will realize their stong and weak points. The primaries on Saturday, June 2, will receive the greatest attention ever centered on that particular and most important event connected with the selection of good men for public servants in this county. So it ought to be. If more attention was given to the primaries, it would matter very little which of the great parties would win. The result of Montour's convention, Monday, June 4, will greatly influence Columbia county in the selection of her candidate for judge. Both candidates are exerting their best efforts and the many ardent friends of each are busy in all sections talking up the good qualities of their ideal. The contest for this particular nomination is spirited, and the waves of enthusiasm roll all high, carrying with them the frail bark of the weaker humanity, while the more stalwart vessels ride gracefully onward in their own good judgment and study well their choice. Likewise, for the various county offices to be filled, the candidates are as busy as bees on a warm summer's day, and the impatient public awaits the time to cast its vote. For State Senator and Congress there is no opposition, and therefore it is necessarily quiet on these two nominations. We trust it will all go off harmoniously and that the defeated ones will be as active in the general campaign as if they were the real victors.

—Mr. David Foust, of Lime-stone township, who was so treacherously betrayed by one who has been endeavoring to pull the wool over the eyes of a few and poses to be a Sampson of the Democratic party in this county, claims that he would have made a most excellent run and very possibly have gained the nomination for sheriff. It appears that Mr. Foust depended on this Judas to place his announcement with us last Wednesday, but for some reason, generally known, failed to do the same and thus made Mr. Foust's announcement illegal and forced him from the field. Of course Mr. Foust has learned, as others have done, that this same person is fit for no trust.

The People Curious.

John Lauterbox Thinks the People Want to Know Too Much for the Candidates' Good.

I can scarcely say as to whether the aprochin man is a collector or a kandydat. Both com so cunning lik, an then som uv us hev so gol dernd meny to kontend with the set air bak with our spring work som.

Politicks do be a most peuglar peace of ingernuty, an thut tru man iz kein lerned wuf before any sets hidz on'im. It do seam that the people want to know too much about our men before they say er no. Cors, fer Sentor, Cochran is right; so iz McHenry, but every boddly jist set their heads fir Herin fir judge right jist the beginin, but that wuz before they knew all, an now its tither way. Jery Grims he did sa. Harman las wewest, an wat Jery sez fir allers gos, you know. Thet er sweppe like, unasser, iz a steuzer on Gen. Grant. The people do all read it, bekaze it cums fer.

Ges we must agree with Jery that our ole war hobs will be bet. He wuz gude fir a race this time yit, but not with sick fast trotters as Dr. Swiser an Nubaker. Ole Antony wud hev givin him a royal support fir legislation man, but some how er other Skot didn't want oposition an—Loid didn't want to be itther. So ges will tern our attention to Swiser and Nubaker. Sidle he be in it first and last. Then thar kums an other ole war hobs that will fal away bein fir sheriff. You se Kal Shuls bobed up jus in tim fir tu enter thur rac, an he'z a good runner, too.

Jery did not sa much last weak an Bil waz quiter still. Wen it doz kom to thut they tremel in thur butes an want Jon tu sa. Now Jon tells us he'z fir. Bil, you an Jery mus do somfin thut weak er nex er yu' be tu late.

Respected,
Jno. LAUTERBOX.

LET THE PROBE BE THOROUGH.

The evidence of corruption in the management of the great transportation companies, brought to light by the inquiry of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, the chief offender thus far exposed being the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has created an impression on the public mind which in its effect promises to outweigh the developments which follow in the wake of the life insurance investigation. The results promise to be even more important, as the interests affected are much greater and enter into the very life of the nation. The evidence thus far produced shows that many of the highest officials of the company, which has been chartered by the State to serve the public, have been the recipients of large gratuities, in exchange for which they used the power lodged in their hands to pile up enormous illegal wealth for a few at the expense of the many who had the temerity to try to compete with them. The little business man was crushed out of existence to enable the favored few, who were willing to divide with the railroad magnate, to amass millions. The accusations point directly to the very head of the great corporation, the men surrounding President Cassatt in the most confidential relations having been parties to and beneficiaries of the system of graft at the expense of the people. These men who now stand before the people as public plunderers are the very men who for years have used the power of their positions to shape the destinies of our State. It is common knowledge that it was this power, buttressed by fraud and disregard of law, that four years ago overruled the public choice in the selection of the majority party's candidate for Governor and that has for years shaped the action of our Legislatures in order that the reign of illegal privilege should not be endangered. The system had become so entrenched behind the power of enormous wealth that the prospect of exposure and correction was almost hopeless. The fight has begun audaciously, and there will be no step backward until the corporation grafters are driven from power and an era of fair play to every person, the high and low, and the millionaire as well as the struggling business man, is firmly established.

"WELL DESERVED TRIBUTE" SAYS "BLOOMSBURG DAILY"

Upon the retirement of Hon. John G. Harman, candidate for Judge of this District, from the office of District Attorney in 1902, the Bloomsburg Daily gave the following account complimentary to Mr. Harman: "Yesterday was the termination of District Attorney Harman's second term as public prosecutor of this county, a position which he has filled not only with great credit to himself but to the people as well. "Mr. Harman, after concluding his official business before Court, made a few well-chosen remarks concerning the termination of his work as District Attorney in which he thanked the Court collectively for the consideration and courteous treatment he had received at its hands and also feelingly referred to the pleasant relations which existed between that body and himself. "Judge Little replied in a pleasing manner to Mr. Harman's remarks and paid the retiring District Attorney a glowing and well-deserved tribute for the efficient services rendered the people of this county in that capacity."

The Contest in the Twenty-sixth Judicial District.

Ordinarily the electors of any particular political district in the State naturally resent outside interference. The theory of popular self-government is that those to whom the choice of public officials is committed are fit to exercise that choice and to intelligent and honest determination who shall be their public officials, but in case of the judiciary the limitations are less strict. In theory and in practice Judges, even of the county courts, are officers of the State, with certain powers affecting all citizens. They are paid their salaries out of the State treasury, and even the local exercise of the judicial office concerns, in some degree at least, the entire Commonwealth.

To those who are informed as to the interests of Central Pennsylvania and who know the latter history of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania it will certainly be a matter of surprise that the nomination of the Hon. Grant Herring, in the district composed of Columbia and Montour counties, should be the subject of competition from any source, on the ground that he is either unworthy of the office or that he has failed in his allegiance to Democratic principles. On the latter point, it is the knowledge throughout the State as a sound, honest and capable lawyer, with eminent judicial qualities, having no reason to believe that he lacks the courage to declare it without fear, favor or affection, and impartially to administer it without bias or prejudice. That he has never been lacking in his fealty to Democratic principles can be attested by those who knew him at Harrisburg as the faithful supporter of Governor Pattison's brilliant administration and as the colleague of such loyal Democrats as John Ross, the then leader of the Democratic side of the Upper House. In the selection of a delegation from Pennsylvania to the last National Democratic Convention, which nominated a winning ticket, Mr. Herring was chosen as one of the delegates at large, not only as a compliment to the highest Democratic majority of his own county, but because he had won and kept the confidence of the party in the State. If the Democracy of Pennsylvania are, as now seems imminent, likely to again return to power in the State, no better illustration of its claim on popular confidence could be given than by the nomination of such a man as Herring to office and responsibility.—Philadelphia (Sunday) Record, May 30.

The Tinest Pony.

What is believed to be the tinest horse or pony in the world is the property of an Italian nobleman, who makes a specialty of breeding dwarf horses on his estate in Lombardy. The diminutive creature barely measures nineteen inches at the withers, scarcely the size of a large dog. The owner possesses many such equine dwarfs.

Woman's Brain.

Because woman has a smaller brain mass than man it does not by any means follow that she has an inferior or smaller intellect. Stationary for Farmers.

Farmers and others, particularly those living on the Rural Delivery route, should have printed stationery as well as business men. It is not only more business like to send a letter with name and address printed on the notehead and envelope, but it insures the return of the letter in case it is not delivered. We are especially well equipped to do this class of printing and can do it promptly and neatly. We will supply 250 noteheads and 250 envelopes, extra quality, for $1.50, or 75c for either one lot. This is cheaper than you can buy the paper and envelopes regularly at retail stores.

NOT IN ANY TRUST

Many newspapers have lately given currency to reports by irresponsible parties to the effect that the NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO had entered a trust or combination; we wish to assure the public that there is no trust in such reports. We have been manufacturing sewing machines for over a quarter of a century, and have established a reputation for ourselves and our machines in the eyes of all others. Our "New Home" machine has never been rivaled as a family machine—it stands at the head of all High Grade sewing machines, and stands on its own merits.

The "New Home" is the only really HIGH GRADE Sewing Machine on the market.

It is not necessary for us to enter into a trust to save our credit or pay any debts as we have no debts to pay. We have never entered into competition with manufacturers of low grade cheap machines that are made to sell regardless of any intrinsic merits. Do not be deceived, when you want a sewing machine don't send your money away from home; call on a "New Home" Dealer, he can sell you a better machine for less than you can purchase elsewhere. If there is no dealer near you, write direct to us.
