CATED TANGLE.

The Express companies have such a complicated tangle of tariffs underwhich they have been plundering the public, that they have requested of the Interstate Commerce Commission an extension of time in which to prepare rate schedules for publication under the new law. As the express companies have been charging "all the traffic will bear" in most cases and a little more than it would bear in many transactions, you now have an opportunity to obtain more just charges by appealing to the Commission.

The Express companies have such as formerly looking forward to be their off Senator Platt or the Republican leaders that young men investigate the publication provided in the publication of the publication provided that the President has $25, -000 to spend for traveling the railroad agents are enticing him with all kinds of tales about bears and other game in resting the publication provided the publication of the publication provided the publication of the publication provided the publication of the publication provided the publication provided the publication provided the publication provided the

—SENATOR LODGE called it "unimportant" giving testimony before the Grand Jury in the case against his private secretary for the larceny of money paid for the Republican campaign fund. The voters, however, may view the matter as important enough to defeat the Lodge Republican machine, for in this case the promise was made in return for the donation that the donor was to receive a consular appointment. It would seem that some people believed that offices could be purchased and that Senator Lodge was the man to deliver the goods.

Now this was somewhat startling for the thirteen-hundred-dollar party, for the thirteen-hundred-dollar party, but it is only a more picturesque example of what is happening all the time, and of what will continue to happen as long as there are trusting folk anxious to risk what money they have in getting quickly wealth that they could not take care of.

There will always be foxes to catch geese. It is a pity that it should be so. It would be a great deal pleasanter if the foxes could all be shepherd dogs and the geese wise and dignified dogs and the geese wise and dignified turkeys; but we must take the world as we find it; and that being so, and geese being more valuable to the community than foxes, it would be well to guard against such foxy business as we find exemplified in the above cited disappearance of a half million dollar corporation.

The state authorities should pay some little attention to parties taking out articles of incorporation; should inspect them occassionally, and see that their resources are more readily must take the world

Own tale.

We never heard it before but guess it is all true that Congressman Samuels and the President run the United States Government for the several last years, for Samuels said so at the Republican county convention last Saturday. If he is only re-elected the farmers will all have good crops and receive high prices for them and the wage-earners will receive the very highest salaries for little work. Mr. Samuels' address had better never been said, or rather it should have been prepared by the person who wrote the nomination speeches that were read by the delegates. They were all right.

Mr. Samuels attacked the Democratic party on free trade and a few other minor issues, getting himself into an awful mess, overlooking or forgetting the fact that it was by the aid of the Democrats that he was elected. But then, if he is re-elected he will see that congress is run right and the President kept straight.

Samuels must have been a big fish at Washington, but it's remarkable how successfully he evaded the newspaper fiends, who are constantly searching every nook and corner for such startling and wonderful characters, and how he succeeded in keeping his greatness withheld until this particularly special time that he might tell the tale. But then a sage once said, "He who tooteth not his own horn the horn of the same shall not be tooted."

The Fusion Candidate Accepts the Nomination.

A RINGING DECLARATION

Lewis Emery, Jr., the Lincoln and Democratic candidate for governor, in his letter of acceptance, asserts in his own incisive manner the well nigh forgotton principle that the people are the rulers and officeholders only serwants. He demands places of trust for honest men and prison stripes for grafters, and insists that the higher the position of the offender the greater should be his punishment. The first duty of the citizen is to free the commonwealth. Instead of submitting to a system under which corporations make the laws the McKean county candidate demands a reversal of this order, by compelling the corporations to obey just laws. The full text of his letter is as follows:

ceive a consular appointment. It would seem that some people believed that offices could be purchased and that Senator Lodge was the man to deliver the goods.

It is especially incumbent upon Pennsylvania to take vigorous action along these lines. This state was the pioneer in the anti-discrimination movement. It was my privilege more than a quarter of a century ago to assist in wringing from the politica powers at Harrisburg an anti-discrim!
nation law. The fight was long, hard and bitter. The people of the oil regions were being reduced to poverty and their property was being confiscated by a conspiracy between the Standard Oil company, the Pennsylvania railroad and the bosses. The act was not all that could be desired.
The striking out of the imprisonment clause destroyed its effect, and the relations existing between the political machine and the corporations nullified the law in a great degree.

To Pennsylvania belongs also the credit for having taken the first step nowers at Harrisburg an anti-discrim eredit for having taken the first step toward the enactment of the inter born out of the travail of the people who were oppressed by the corporations and robbed by the transportation companies. I had the honor, in 1872, to be a member of a committee to carry to Washington the draft of the bill upon which, 13 years later, the interstate commerce law was modeled. It is worthy of note that the same influences which killed the penal clause of the Pennsylvania anti-discrimination bill, also caused the penal clause to be stricken from the interstate commerce act.

For 34 years, therefore, have I, and others who are associated with us, fought along the same lines upon which President Roosevelt has taken which President Roosevelt has taken his stand. Pennsylvanians were first to feel the crushing effects of rebates and discriminations. Pennsylvanians were early victims of the Standard Oil company, whose methods, gradually extending throughout the country, have borne fruitage in the creation of the many trusts which oppress the public. But Pennsylvanians, the shackles will, next fall, be stricken from the state, and the message carried to President Roosevelt that we have struck a mighty blow to aid him in his warfare for pure politics, for the rights of the public and for the cause of good government.

In this fight of the people it is noteworthy that among our leaders are found no grafters, none with necks grabber, no political contract manipulator. which President Roosevelt has taker
