DANVILLE AND BLOOMSBURG STREET RAILWAY CO. Schedule for routes between Danville and Bloomsburg.

FARMERS UNITED CONTROL PRICES

Following a tour through the farming regions of Schuylkill, Berks, Columbia, Montgomery and Northumberland counties, a party of western poultry dealers declare that the farmers of all the districts appear to have organized and that a "Community of Interests" exists between them.

They say that on many of the farms large flocks of turkeys were found in fields that are out of sight from the road. At one farm they found that they found nearly 200 turkeys feeding in a hollow about 500 yards from the farm house.

"How's your crop of potatoes?" they asked. "Poor, poor," he answered, dolorously. "The weather has rotted half of 'em, and they are all small sized."

Joseph Fetter badly injured. Joseph Fetter, who resides on West Centre street, was very badly injured while working in Sunbury last week.

The Hadley Pictures. The Edwin J. Hadley moving picture exhibition last evening was the best thing of the kind ever seen in Burlington.

Guarding Two Dangerous Places. Borough Electrician Smith is erecting guards at the light plant to keep inquisitive people away from the switch board and from the regulators.

Cost of September Court. Justice in all ages of the world is a great boon, but as administered by our court it "comes high."

Miss Shepperson Entertains. Miss Grace Shepperson entertained a number of her friends at a euchre at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shepperson, Front street, Saturday evening.

DIPHTHERIA IS PREVALENT

The time of year has arrived when sickness is more prevalent. The report of the local registrar, Dr. Shultz, for September shows that there are seven cases of diphtheria in the district.

There is a great deal of whooping cough about town. Children can be heard coughing upon the street and physicians are confident of its prevalence.

A Remarkable Record. Emanuel Wertman, of Philadelphia, an old time resident of Danville, is circulating among relatives and acquaintances in this vicinity.

Notable Production. With his usual disregard of expense in everything relative to the maintaining of his position at the head of the moving picture business in this country, Mr. Edwin J. Hadley, the expert, secured at considerable expense the only really satisfactory series of views that intelligently portray the actual condition of affairs in San Francisco immediately after the disaster.

Appointed Auditor. Ralph Kiser, Esq., was appointed auditor by Judge Evans, Saturday, to distribute funds to and among the creditors of the Danville and Sunbury street railway company.

Death of Evan R. Evans. Evan R. Evans, nearly a life-long resident of Danville, departed this life about 7 o'clock Saturday night.

Will Remain in Danville. Nicholas Hayden, for many years traveling freight and passenger agent of the Northern Pacific railroad, who came east during the summer for a vacation, has decided to remain in Danville indefinitely.

Firemen's Convention. Danville will be represented at the State Firemen's convention, which will be held at Gettysburg this week.

Odd Growth of Apples. A tree on the farm of Mrs. Lydia Krump, Cooper township, has produced twin apples, exactly resembling each other.

FELL FROM BRIDGE BROKE NECK

George Steck, 40 years, a resident of Salem, Snyder county, was injured in some unknown manner at the bridge crossing from Selingsgrove to Selingsgrove Junction.

After arriving at the hospital a careful examination was made and it was found that Steck had dislocated his spine at about the small of the back and is paralyzed all the way down the body from the seat of the injury.

Good men, equipped for this work, can be secured at Wilkes-Barre or Philadelphia. The kind of a man required is one responsible and capable, who can speak the language of the foreigners and mingle with them.

DEDICATION OF CAPITOL TODAY

HARRISBURG, Oct. 3.—Everything is ready for the formal opening of the country's festivities attending the dedication of the capitol. Over four hundred members of various fraternal organizations have already been appointed to act as guides.

Luch Diphtheria in Bloomsburg. Diphtheria, which figured so threateningly in the report of the local registrar, is alarmingly prevalent in other nearby towns.

Politically Quiet. Election comes five weeks from yesterday but the close approach of the crucial moment does not bring with it any particularly noticeable activity among the men or parties that are expected to furnish us with pre-election country. Both in Danville and in the county districts the atmosphere is politically quiet.

Our Water Analyzed. The United States geological survey is collecting and analyzing samples of water taken from the Susquehanna river at West Pittston, Danville and Williamsport.

When Preachers Steal. The DuBois Journal waxes exceedingly warm in its denunciation of the crooked preacher over there who was preparing to leave the region.

Visitors Pouring In. The capitol will be open to visitors tonight and tomorrow and the dome will again be lighted up during the evenings.

W. Berwick Cellars. The borough council held a special meeting on Saturday night for the purpose of making arrangements for beginning the work of raising J. V. Gillaspys building at the corner of Mill and Front streets.
