

INJURED HORSES IN THE STOCKS

A horse belonging to James Good, Toby run hollow, got loose in the stable Sunday night and celebrated his liberty by kicking the other horses, still chained in their stalls, so badly that for a while it seemed doubtful whether they would recover so as to be of any service to their owner.

The animal that broke loose had recently been shod, his shoes being provided with sharp calks and toe pieces to enable him to get along over the ice. The horse finding that he had the other animals at a disadvantage did not show either of them any mercy. In all, three horses were kicked and injured, the sharpened shoes enabling the kicking horse to do fearful execution.

A gray mare, a faithful farm animal, was the most seriously injured. On the ramp, about midway between the spine and the knee of the hind leg a deep incision seven inches long was inflicted, which cut nearly into the bone and tore the skin and muscle loose, the whole forming an ugly flap of tissue, which hung down attached only by one end. Another horse was lacerated in nearly the same way while a third kicked on the leg, escaped with a less serious injury.

Veterinarian Kline was called to Mr. Good's farm Monday forenoon. After examining the horses he realized that with the injuries in such close proximity to the hind legs it would be hazardous work to attempt to stitch the deep gashes aided by no better facilities than existed on the farm.

At this juncture the patent stocks for shoeing horses maintained at Lobach's blacksmith shop on Northumberland street suggested themselves and it was decided that the only practicable course left open was to bring the horses into town and perform the surgical operation with the aid of the stocks.

Accordingly about 1:30 o'clock the three crippled animals, heavily blanketed were led into town and taken to Mr. Lobach's establishment. Each horse in turn was placed in the stocks, swung off his feet and the hind leg to be operated on made perfectly secure in all respects as if the animal was to be bled.

Incidentally the blacksmith, however, the veterinary surgeon was in charge, while to the horse the process was altogether a different one from being shod. Painful as the operation was the animals were unable to resist and while the long strips of lacerated flesh were drawn back into place and very many stitches were inserted they were obliged to endure it all and remain perfectly quiet.

A crowd had assembled to witness the unique surgical operation, which was in every way a success. There is no doubt but that the horses will recover without any ill effects, although for awhile Monday they presented a rather doubtful and sorry appearance.

REFUSED TO PAY TELEPHONE BILL

A unique case came before Alderman Yeager in Williamsport yesterday afternoon.

Joseph S. Yeager, contractor, was the defendant, and the Bell Telephone company prosecutor. The trouble all came about because Yeager's name was misspelled in the telephone book, which was issued last October. In the book the name was spelt Yeager, and the defendant claimed that the phone was of little use to him because no one knew he had a phone in his home. When a bill of $19 was presented to him the other day he refused to pay it for the reason above stated.

REFORMATORIES JUSTIFIED.

The young fellows who are arrested upon the threshold of a criminal career and sent to a reformatory often accept with gratitude the instruction of their teachers there and carve out for themselves a new and successful career. More than half do so. That is full justification for the cost of these institutions to the State.

Anthony Township.

In Anthony township the Democratic ticket was alone in the field and returns from that district are, therefore unnecessary.

Florian Wacloski, who is 26 years of age, was nominated by the Democrats of the second ward for judge of election. Several days before the election he sustained injuries of a very serious nature in the mines. Tuesday morning he died but it was not generally known until after the polls had closed that his injuries had resulted fatally. He was very popular and easily polled more votes than his opponent.

GEORGE GARDNER'S NARROW ESCAPE

George Gardner, our well known townsman, met with a terrible fall Monday, which came near putting him out of business for awhile, if not permanently winding up his career.

Mr. Gardner was engaged in cutting down the large horse chestnut tree in front of Mrs. Stickle's residence on Center street. To remove the tree without having it come in contact with any of the buildings that stood close by or the electric light, telephone and other wires which ran through under the branches taxed Mr. Gardner's ingenuity, but he accomplished what he set out to do, although as above stated he met with a serious accident.

The limb hanging over the wires he secured by a chain, which he attached to one of the upper limbs, after which he sawed the limb loose from the trunk. The limb refusing to swing clear, Mr. Gardner was obliged to saw it in two, a task which was accompanied with much danger. One part of the limb swung clear, but to properly handle the remaining portion it was necessary to bring blocks and tackle into play.

While using the latter Mr. Gardner occupied a position on the top of a twenty foot ladder. While tugging at the rope the weight of his body was distributed in such a manner as to cause the ladder to swing around and to fall to the ground, carrying the man with it.

On starting on his twenty foot fall Mr. Gardner let go the ladder and fell at the inside of the pavement striking the fence enclosing the lawn of the Crankshank residence. He lay motionless for awhile, apparently insensible, although Mr. Gardner avers that he was dimly conscious of what was going on around him and was quite unable to speak.

His terrible fall was witnessed by several people living near who went to his rescue. He was taken into one of the dwellings nearby, where it was found that no bones were broken, although his face and side of his head were cut where he struck the fence.

Mr. Gardner is a man of iron will and constitution. A little thing like a fall of twenty feet to him is only an incident and after having his injuries dressed he surprised the spectators by coolly stepping out of the house and resuming his work as though nothing had happened.

SNOW IN MEXICO.

For the first time in fifty years, on February 11th, snow fell in the City of Mexico, and for a couple of hours the palms and tropical plants and flowers were covered with a white mantle, and children, who had never seen snow, forgot to go to school. American visitors in the city taught the children how to make snowballs and snow men, and there was great sport. But there was great suffering as well among the working people and lower classes, who as a rule go barefooted, clad in cotton, or a blanket thrown over one shoulder and around the loins, while none of the houses have stoves for artificial heat.

TROLLEY MEN TO LOBBY AT CAPITOL

Opposition to bills now before the legislature affecting electric street railways resulted in the formation of the Temporary Street Railway association, which is composed of more than sixty companies in this State.

Committees of the organization were announced to meet yesterday in the Arcade building, in Philadelphia, to outline a plan of action.

What the street railway men considered one of the most obnoxious measures aimed against them is one providing for an increase in the taxation of electric roads. If this bill passes the legislature, they say, it will bankrupt many of the corporations by imposing upon them hardships which they cannot bear and continue in business.

There are bills before the legislature which the organization feels, if adopted, will meet the approval of the electric trolley roads. Among these are the measures providing for the carrying of freight by trolleys, and that conferring upon these roads the right of eminent domain under proper conditions. The association will work hard for the passage of these bills, and will appeal directly to members of the legislature.

P. M. Kerns Is Elected

U. Grant Gulick Borough Auditor—Warm Fight Waged in Each of the Wards for Councilman—Unpleasant Weather Conditions Reduced the Vote.

P. M. Kerns won out in the contest for overseer of the poor in the Danville and Mahoning poor district Tuesday, receiving 631 votes as against 505 for Samuel Mills, 266 for Thomas Welliver and 24 for W. H. Mauger.

For auditor, U. Grant Gulick wins out, having 537 votes as against 450 for Watkin Evans and 201 for John M. Kelso.

In the wards the principal contest was for the office of councilman. In the first ward the fight was a rather warmly waged one. William L. Deutsch, Democrat, however, won out over Harry E. Trumbower, Republican, having a majority of 135 votes. In the second ward Ira Everhart, candidate for three years, wins out for council and W. H. Moyer for the two year term. In the third ward Robert Pansel is elected councilman, having a majority of 69 over J. B. Cleaver. In the fourth ward Andrew Schatz was elected to council having 162 votes as against 141 for Walter O. Greene.

The slippery streets and the weather conditions generally Tuesday were wholly unfavorable for bringing out a full vote at the election. It is not a master of surprise, therefore, that voting was slow during the day and that the vote polled in some of the precincts was unusually light.
