THE DRAFT SUSPENDED .- By a dispatch dated Washington, March 4, it is ascertained from an official source, that the orders requiring the draft to take place on the 10th inst., are suspended .-The draft will be announced in time to make all necessary preparations.

The readers of the Citizen will be pleased to learn that our worthy and en terprising townsman, H. C. Heinneman Bookseller and Stationer, has just received from the East, the largest and most splendid assortment of Wall Paper, ever offered for sale in the town of Butler which he offers for sale at prices varying from 10 to 25 cents per bolt. Now, your time to purchase. Do not fail to call, and examine the choicest selection of rich and tasteful Wall Paper ever offered for sale in our midst.

----CREDITS FOR VETERANS .- Write to A. L. Russel, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, giving him the names, company, regiment and date of the enlistment, (as near as you can,) and he will send you copies of, or extracts from the muster rolls. If the men are already will send you copies of, or extracts from the muster rolls. If the men are already credited to your particular sub-district, all is right—you have nothing more to do; but if not, then send the copies or extracts to the office of the Provost Marshal of your district, with proof of residence of the re-enlisted men, for correction. That days, the carly it will be given to the credit will be given Grant's salary as Lieutenant-General under the bill now before Congress would be between $13,000 and $14,000. Putting him in that position would give him the command of over seventy Major-Generals.

Music of the Soul.

well tuned instrument, will enrapture us with delightful strains, if rightly keyed and all its chords in proper order. first and most important requisite, is that our wills shall be keyed in such a way as exactly to accord with the will of our Heavenly Father. This is indispensable else almost every chord will produce dis-cordant notes. Why all these discordant notes in civil and ecclesiastical fraterni ties? In ecclesiastical, resulting in dis memberment: In civil, producing litiga-tion, war, and bloodshed. The will of those fraternities is not keyed to accord with the will of the Governor of the uni verse. The several chords of our soul must attach themselves to humanity in general. The major chord should attach itself to that part of humanity more elevated than ourselves. In this class, we behold many who have woven the sciences into a coronet to deck their brows.-Their minds, like a vast cabinet, is the receptacle of every kind of knowledge. either useful or curious. Not satisfied with accumulation from earth, air, and sea; the starry heavens are laid under tribute to yield them fresh supplies.

If we find within our hearts a chore attaching us to this part of humanity what strains of melody are frequently stirred within us by the perusal of those heaven-born ideas, which they scatter all abroad through the medium of the press, or by listening to the loftiest strains of eloquence from the pulpit, which sways the gathered throng as the breeze sways the trees of the forest. The minor chord at tatches us to that part of humanity be low us. Here we place the savage, bar barous and half enlightened nations of the earth. If we find in our heart a chord attaching us to this part of humanity, what sweet thrills vibrate through the soul by hearing of the achievements of the Missionaries of the Cross. Any individual who can compare the condition of the Sandwich Islanders, the inhabitants of Madagascar and Cevlon, before they had listened to the story of the Cross, with their present condition, without being enraptured with the melody of the soul, may rest assured no minor chord unites them in sympathy with their inferior brotherhood. But what peans of music ravishes the soul, by listening to the proclamation of liberty from our Chief Executive to three millions of captives in our beloved country. Not only in the soul of man is there sweet music by being keyed in accordance with the will of our Heavenly Father, but truly might Addison say, in regard to the starry host,

"Forever singing as they shine," The hand that made us is divine."

Think you we could talk of the music of the spheres if they "ran lawless through the sky," and refused to course their orbits in accordance with the fiat of their bits in accordance with the fiat of their great Original. And not only is the meltody of the soul, and, the music of the spheres, occasioned by being keyed in unison with the will of Jehovah, the raptures of paradise results from the same cause. Not a single denizen in all the small bowers of that celestial clime, but his will be well of his Heavenly February. Therefore, repeat all statements of the original kept on file at his office, and such proof of the correct this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bersuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads this cursed hole if it hadn't heen for the bresuasion of a few infernal Copperheads the sould readply agents and all sepaces and all expenses paid.

"A feast of reason, and a flow of soul," it was indeed, without however, the usual whiskey flow, which on the present occasion, I am glad to say, was altogether dispensed with. Father Copley presided with his usual grace and dignity, evincing at the same time, by occasional cutes, that his spirit was as youthful, and that he was as fond of a joke, as the rest of us. By the appearance of the diehes after supper, no argument appeared necessary, to convince any one that the "vittles," especially the oyster part, were fully appreciated, a winding up, accompaniment in the way of some fine Havanas, was enjoyed. After the boards was cleared, some of the party were called upon and favored us with quite a number of songs, both patriotic and amusing. A vote being called for our next President, the faithful "Abram" was nominated by acclamation. It is almost needless for me to remark, that our whole party, including quite a number of young and eveterans, were hearty in their approval of the efforts being put forth to squelch out the slavery rebellion. a number of good jokes were cracked at the cxpense of some would be loyalists—that the prime cause of this opposiwhose acts of prudence have been somewhat dubious-but who seem growing penitent just at the present, and seem considerably seared about the draft, but like the person in the Wolf story, they are more scared than hurt. A Circular.

We publish below a very important circular, specifying the mode in which re-enlisted veterans are to be credited to their respective sub-districts. We commend it to the careful consideration of the people. There are only two things about it he and his hosts begin to see clearly the to be regretted: one is, that it had not ned before so many sub-districts had filled their quota with raw recruits, thus cutting off many a noble fellow who is ready and willing to fight on, from the generous local bounties given by the people; the other is, that the circular had not been written in better English. - Pitts-

press our hearty approbation of the appointment of Geneal Sigel, by the President, to the command of the Department of West Virginia. Apart From the consideration that General Sigel has proved himslf a good soldier in every position in which he has been tried, and that there is thus a fair probability of military affairs in West Virginia being better managed than they have been of late, we rejoice that the President has at last asserted his prerogative as Commander in-Chief of the Army by disregartion has its root in some unfavo Halleck's administrationof the De partment of the West. This is the reason why the brave and patriotic Sigel has been kept for more than seared than hurt. The draft, we are glad to say, has been postponed indefinitely.

a year without a command commensurate with his rank and his valuable services to the country .reasonable orthodox hour, every body oing away, well pleased with their evento the command of an important Department is therefore not only an act of justice to a true soldier, but it is also significant of the President's intention to make General Halleck vield his personal likes and dislikes in the future to the good of the cause in

The sterling patriotism of old Butler untycannot be questioned, anymore than a universal intelligence of her people. E know of no county in the Common-alth, where the masses possess a more call, and the sterling patriotism of old Butler universal intelligence of her people. "The sterling patriotism of old Butler county cannot be questioned, anymore than the universal intelligence of her people. We know of no county in the Commonwealth, where the masses possess a more general knowledge of public affairs; and as might be expected they are fully alive to the great issue before the country.

We have frequently had occasion to remark the prompitude and the vigor of their response to every call of the government.

Another evidence is now before us, that old Butler country is determined to fight on until this wicked rebelljon is subdued; it is the fact that Capt. Lyon's company formerly of the old 13th, and now of the 102d regiment, passed through Harrisburgh a few days ago, mustering only 43 brave fellows out of 190 who had went out on the war path with them—now that burgh a lew cape age, and the provided in the subjects of the subject of the subject of the subject of the sub federacy and her institutions, whose "chief corner" is Slavow, and they bowed themselves, and said amen!

Now, where is the glory of his greatness? Narrowed down to one-third of his usurped possessions, and his knees trembling like those of Belshazzer, when he saw the hand-writing on the wall for "beginning of the end." Now he, the chief hound of the dogs, is seen peering out of his kennel, the Confederate Congress, and chiming in with the less conspicuous of the canine tribe, barking "Peace! Peace! when there is no peace."

"Yeace! Yeace! when there is no jeace.".

The days of these notorious rebels are numbered, and the time soon at hand, when they with all of their sympathizers will wish that a mill-stone were hanged about their necks, and they east in the depths of the sea. The light of a loyal man's countenance will admonist them of nan's countenance will admonish them of their deep and damniable wickedness, and they will desire thick darkness to cover their iniquity.

Mesers. Eds.—As your paper is a frequent as well as a most welcome visitor to our "Smoky Town," I have chosen it par, excellence, (which I trust by the way you will consider complimentary) to insert a short article—descriptive to some extent, of a pleasant social party, had in Allegheny, on Thursday evening last. By invitation of our clever, good-looking friend, Captain Wilson, the whole Provost Marshal party, consisting of Captain Kirker, Commissioner Copley, Dr. Perchiment, and the entire body of clerks and employees, together with several other friends, partook of a most sumptuous supper, gotten up in such a style as Kreider Blair knows how. > Schofield on Dawson.—On the same day that John L. Dawson, delivered his set speech in Congress, Judge Schofield of this State, administered to him a brief but pointed re-buke in the following words:

"Mr. Chairman, my colleague Mr. Dawson] who addressed the House this morning, informed us that it was just eight years since he had spoken here before. I knew that, not because I have followed his personal history, but I knew it by the tenor of his speech He must have turned down a leaf just eight years ago, and begun to-day where he left off then. The speech might have been appropriately luring the earlier years of the administration of General Pierce. I wish o remind him that the question involved in the struggle now furnishing so many sad pages for history is a question of division: "Shall the great question of division: "Shall the great Republic be divided into two small That is the question now before the country.
