The Press, as well in Pittsburgh as here, has so fully published the great pa-·lengthy repetition of it. The subject is one that strongly and warmly commends itself to the hearts of the loval people, the humane and patriotic every where. It is a great combined movement in all the great cities of the Union, for the benefit of our sick and wounded soldiers: by means of these Fairs, several millions of dollars have already been raised, besides a large quantity of articles of provisions and clothing suitable to the wants of the Hospitals.

With a view to a combined moven in the county, we have appointed committees in each of the townships and bor oughs, of which you are chairman for your township. You are respectfully re quested, without delay, to appoint six or more active and influential ladies and gentlemen of your township, say one half of each, a township committee, of which you will be the chairman. One from each think best.

The duties of this committee will be to solicit contributions in money, and such manufactured articles and farm products and stock, as well substantial, as ornamental, for exhibition at the fair, and such as would be useful, provisions and clothing as may be eatable and worn by our sick and wounded soldiers and add to their comfort.

EDITORS :- Having noticed in the columns of the Herald, "a wail of oce," concerning the failure of that paper to reach Jacksville Post Office, in due time, and throwing out insinuations injurious towards the Post Master in your town, and attempting to lay the blame on him, because he held opinions different from some others in regard to politics .--Now, as the case stands at present, I know to a certainty, that since the first issue of the Citizen, it has failed (at least once) oftener than the Herald. Now, who is to blame for this? If we only had a Democratic Post Master some place, to lay the blame on, then it would be all right. The Battle of Gettysburg.

The Washington correspondent of The Boston Advertiser says: "Gen Meade has submitted to the Comittee on the Conduct of the War a written statement in regard to the conduct of the battle of Gettysburg. In this statement he denies emphatically and order to retreat to Tarrytown or to any other point. After his arrival at Gettysburg he asked several corps commanders to act as his temporary chief of staff. All prefering to remain in command of their corps, he addressed a similar request to Gen. Butter-field, who consented. He directed him immediately to collect all possible information rel tive to the roads leading to the rear. He avers that in giving this instruction to Gen. Butterfield he had no thought of a retreat, but merely aimed at obtaining information which any prudent General would consider necessary for an eral would consider necessary for an intelligent understanding of the field of action. Gen. Butterfield on the morning of the second day drew up an order directing all trains and baggage to be sent to the rear. This order gave the occasion for the assertion retreat had been given. Gen. Meade says that Gen. Butterfield showed him the order, that he told him it would not answer, and that if it was issued it was without his authority. This statement of Gen. Kentucky.

Gov. Bramlette, we are happy to learn, will not wage war on the Union Government—at least, not at present. He was firmly assured at Washington that the Administration was perfectly willing to receive white men for the full quota of Kentucky if it should please that State to furnish them of that color. The Government asks her quota of able-bodied men; and if she chooses to send the full number of whites, it has not the smallest desire to overrule her and insist on part black.

The enrollment is by law required to be uniform throughout the country. The name of every able-bodied man between 20 and 45 years of age must be placed on the list. The Govern-ment requires each State to furnish a definite and uniform per centage of the number thus returned, and gives the number this returned, and gives her time to supply them by volunteer-ing in any fashion she may prefer. If they are not duly fortheoming, they are drafted; and then those drafted, whether white or black, must furnish acceptable substitutes or go. the poor whites of Kentucky choose ernment has not a shadow of objec-
