Volunteer, of the 12th Pa. Cav. and son made by part of the 12th Regt. through Frederick City, Md.

Gen. Johnston has been releived from the command of the rebel army in front of Sherman, and Gen. Hood assigned to it. The Richmond papers growl considerably, alleging that it is an appointment not fit to be made.

who is periling his life for his country, shall have a vote in the shaping of its may well say, "in the midst of peace we policy. Let all go to the polls early! and are in war," for we retired that night in amendment to our Constitution.

Bee In the last Citizen we said to the citizens of the county that we were still engaged in recruiting a company of volunteers for the one hundred day service, and that we expected to leave in about ten days from that time. From many parts of the county we have that encouragement which fully assures us that we could have a full company in a very few days. We have over fifty men enrolled who are waiting, willing and ready to go; but in view of the fact that a call has been made for five hundred thousand men for one, two or three years, and the quotas of the different districts are to be filled by the 6th of September, at which time if the men are not forthcoming a draft will take place for one year, we have concluded to stop recruiting for the one hundred day service, for the present, in order that our county and the different sub-districts thereof may the better be enabled to fill their quotas; at the end of which time, if 100, day men should still be wanted by the State or National Government we will renew our effort; and I take this opportunity of returning my sincere thanks to those who have enrolled their names, and to those who have lent their influence in our behalf, and exerted themselves in the C. E. ANDERSON.

Provost Marshal Fry announces that orders to carry out the law in relation to recruiting in rebellious States are in press, and will be brought to completion as soon as possible.

Now that the blessing of God may crow the work of faith and charity in which they are engaged? Now that the discipline in their army was excellent.

No stragglers were to be seen lurking No stragglers were to be seen lurking No stragglers were to be seen turking around corners or grog shops; no carousing or drunken fights occurred in the streets, and citizens were unmolested. I saw their force, and estimated it, as others, about 30,000 strong, composed of Infantry, Cavalry, and Artillery. All the damage done to the Hospital, was taking about one half of our medical supplies, leaving our commissary stores untouched. The Rebel force was commanded by General's Early, Ewall, Breekinridge and Johnson.

On the afternoon of the 9th, they met our forces at the Monocacy, when a sharp fight was kept up all the afternoon, which resulted in severely punishing the enemy. On the afternoon of the 10th, two companies of the 12th Pa. Cavalry, charged through the city, completely routing about 300 rebel cavalry. Captain M'Donnel led the charge, and was wounded twice. NASHVILLE ORPHANS. Owing to the indisposition of Rev. Mr. Holls, of the Farm School, and the consequent delay of his journey some two weeks, a large number of orphan children at Nashville had been removed North by "I will attempt to give you an inadequate description of what has transpired in this vioinity since I last wrote. As is our custom at this Hospital, to give a large dinner every holiday, we were busily preparing for the 4th. A large awning had sent out of the State. Persons had also been erected and furnished with seats, capable of seating five hundred persons—a stage erected for the speakers—a brass band engaged for the occasion; programmes printed for the day—anything and everything palatable that the market could afford, was purchased, and in fact, everything angured well for the pleasure and enjoyment of the inmates of the Hospi children among them who had lost their parents by disease, exposure, or the fiend ish crucity of the rehel guerrillas. Meeting soon after a leading citizen of Memphis, he kindly agreed to co-operate with that night. The next day, however, (the 4th.) they were sent to Annapolis, when on arriving there, they were assorted, and those able for duty, including a number of officers, were placed under guard.—What disposition has been made of them I am not able to say. These men should be made to suffer the penalty of cowardice. By their actions they bring dishonsor on themselves, their families, and on their State, which has always so nobly and willingly furnished men and means to help crush this cursed rebellion.

The 4th, instead of being a day of pleasure and recreation, was converted into one of labor. The Commissary, Quartermaster, and a great portion of Hospital stores were removed; horses and stock were taken to Baltimore, and men liable to conscription skedaddled by scores.

By the evening of the 5th, everything was as quiet as a Sabbath's morn; merchants had their goods stowed away, and business was statue quo.
