TRIAL OF WIRZ

No Excuse for Starving Prisoners

No Excuse for Star ing Prisoners. Washington, September 7.—The rec-ord of yesterday having been read, Ber-ment, testified as to the shooting and killing of five or six Union prisoners in the stockade during July and August, 1864. One of the men was in the act of washing his clothes, and another was trading boots with the guard. Wirz struck the witness for not answering to his name, which had been incorrectly called, and then the prisoner tied his arms and legs together with his own hands hattening them with a stick. He was hatten by the stend as the store of the store washing his clothes, and another was build, and then the prisoner tied his arms and legs together with his own hands hattening them with a stick. Case, of the 47th regiment, testified that on the 17th of September these who were sick and wounded were told that if they could get to the depot told that if they could get to the depot without assistance, they could do so.— They were to be exchanged. Witness could not readily get into the ears with his crutches, when Wirz called him "a d—d Yankees—n of a b—h," and threat-ened to blow his brains out. Somebody shot at him previously, but struck anoth-er person. He was not near the dead line. The sentinel cried out "Halt, Yank, I'm gwine to shoot." Witness said four or five were shot in the head.— Shooting men was a common, occurrence Shooting men was a common, occurrence every night. He frequently heard men

He was at Andersonville every month in the year 1864, until Auevery mouth in the year 1304, and Ad-gust. There was a good corn cropp in 63., sweet potatoes in 1864. A large wheat crop was planted, but the rain destroyed it. The plantations in the vicinity of Andersonville were large, and the farmers raised vegetables for their own use. Cross-examined-Witness said in two warehouses in Andersonville there was considerable bacon, syrup and corn meal. There was not much garden truck in '64. There was a difficulty in obtaining seed.

Mr. Baker said the prisoner was not well to-day. He was suffering with pains in the head and breast and troubled with bowel complaint. If the court could now adjourn for the remainder of the day it would be a great favor to him. The court, at one o'clock adjourned, Maj. Gen. Wallace saying that the prisoner would receive medical attendance.

FROM FLORIDA.

FEELING OF THE PEOPLE.

NEW YORK, September 7 .--- The Tribure'scorrespondent, writing from Jacks-ville Florida, August 22d, says: On the surface everything is quiet in Florida, but social, moral and political elements are ceaselessly at work. The Governor still remains at the capital, a close observ-on of the tampen of the provide and of er of the temper of the people and of passing events. It is evidently not his intention to be in a hurry about calling a convention to frame a constitution, yet the delay will not be very agreeable to the that all their principal town are garrisoned by colored troops is not agreeable to their old prejudices. They want the an-cient order of affairs restored. We are left mostly to conjecture in regard to the reasons which have induced the Governor to postpone or at least de-lay the call of the Convention. His instructions from the President in reference to the freedmen are full and definite, and the facts to the knowledge of the proper to the freedmen are full and definite, and he has an idea of a kind of constitution by Congress. He fears that the people do notsufficiently comprehend their chan-ged situation and the daties growing out of the new order of things to act safely in the matter. He is anxious to secure a Convention whose sation will be accent a Convention whose action will be acceptable to the sovereign Government eighbor of the Herald would see the mantle of honor fall on the shoulders of a clergyman, in our Senatorial confer ence, without uttering a hoarse growl !---The clergy of the Loyal North, are a great stumbling block to him and his party. Had they, in place of supporting the Government in its great distress, with all their personal and pastoral influence joined hands with its enemies, and used the weight of their influence for its over throw, then we would have heard no word of complaint from our neighbor of this occasion. The truth is, the great tumbling block is found in the fact that Rev. Brown, our Senatorial candidate, was a soldier-a man of courage-a pa triot. The only trouble with the Reput

E. WOODDUFF. Mn. EDITOR :—On the 19th instant a most interesting meeting is announced to be held in Butler. Its object appeals to the low, pride and patriotism of every man and woman. In love to those whose kindred and friends fell in defending our homes; in pride to those whose hearts er saw. If they are not saints, they have found out they must make professions or go under forever. In fact, this is pretty much all there is of it. As near as we can understand, President Johnson quite appreciates the gentlemen, and, like a true Christian, proposes to give them the benefit of his prayers, as the only thing he can de for them omes; in pride to those whose hearts swelled with hope as our soldiers marched forth to fight the battles of mankind; in patriotism to all whose country was saved y the heroic daring and glorious death of our own brave sons.

Mothers, whose sons sleep in the enenies land, ask us, Will you not rear us a monument to the memory of our sons? Wives, whose husband's blood made saered the soil of distant States, ask us, Will you not do honor to our dead? Sis the platform before consenting to stand. nartyrs of liberty. O, what a record of noble suffering and glorious death does Andersonville and Belle Isle afford. The triumphs of the martyr's stake don't excel it. In vain we seek for examples of human suffering and numan courage to equal those of the prisn dens of the South.

The heart of the prisoner may have roken, but his proud spirit never bowed. His bosom may have heaved like the swelling ocean, but no tears fell in the presence of the cruel captors. When night gathered the curtain of darkness and shut out from his gaze the scenes of suffering by which he was surrounded, tho'ts of MOTHER, WIFE and HOME may have wet his sunken cheek with opeless tears; but before his haughty keeper he was as unbent as his own northern oak.

Thousands of such men gave up their ives an offering on the altar of their country-a sacrifice to the demon of disunion and rebellion.

All over our land are vacant chairs, and esolate homes, and weeping friends, and bleeding hearts; and all over the South are the bleaching bones and unmarked graves of husbands, brothers and fathers, whose life went out in the gloom and des. plation of prisons-men who with unpaled cheek had faced the cannon's mouth, who never recoiled from any danger, nor put ne stain on the bright flag they boresuch a man died in Andersonville, Belle Isle and Libby.

Position of President Johnson on Negro Suffrage.

on Negro Suffrage. Secretary Harlan, of the Department of the Interior, has written a letter to Hon. George B. Edwards, Clermont, Iowa, setting forth, from personal knowledge, apparently, what is the position of Pres-ident Johnson on the question of Negro Suffrage. The material portion is as fol-lows:

lows : " President Johnson maintains the doc "President Johnson maintains the doe-trine, that the Constitution of the United States does not confer on the Federal Gov-ernment the right to interfere, primarily, with the question of suffage in any State of the union; that the question may arise and properly be decided by Congress, when Senators and members present themselves for admission to seats in that body, under the closes of the Constituthemselves for admission to seats in that body, under the clause of the Constitu-tion, which makes each House the exclu-sive judge of the qualifications and elec-tion of members; and that other clause of the Constitution of the United States, which provides that "the United States shall guarantee to every State in the Un-ion a Republican form of Government." I infer that if any State should adopt a law on the subject of suffrage which would clearly show the State Government to be other than republican, it would be the duty of Congress to reject applicants for seats; and to adopt whatever legislative remedies would, in their judgment, be necessary to emry out the guarantees of the Constitution. he can do for them. It has been said that the New York Democracy have "gone in to win." We suspect this is the intention.— The nomination of Major General Slocum indicates as much. The General, it is understood, dictated

the Constitution " That the State of Iowa may take steps

the Constitution.
" That the State of Iowa may take steps to extend the right of suffrage, is not, as it seems to me, in conflict with this policy, and, consequently, those who support the policy of the President on this subject, are not in antagonism with the pistform of the Union party of Iowa.
" The Union party of that State propose that the State shall modify its own Constitution, so as to include as cleetors, persons who have not, under its present provisions, the right to vote. This; as President Johnson maintains, a State may do, but that the National Government would have no right to require Iowa, or any other State, to inclufy its own Constitution, on this or any other subject, when not in conflict with the Constitution of the United States."—Pitta. Had all the details been arranged beforehand by the respective parties (and who knows that they were not ?) they could not have been developed more systematically. It was a matter of astonishment to the uninitiated that greater efforts were not made to secure the arrest of a man charged with frauds amounting to several millions, and it seems strange to them even yet that he could ride on the public thoroughfares in Central Park without being detected. It has been developed that during Edward Ketchum's seclusion he was in constant communication with his father and friends, and that there was no attempt made to conceal his wherabouts beyond the time apparently agreed upon for his arrest. It all seems like a well laid plan. After young Ketchum permitted (it must be so regarded now) himself to be arrested, he had an interview with his outraged father, which ended in the old gentleman magnanimously saying, "My son, you've ruined me, but I forgive you." Then came the ar-raignment, and still later and last of all, the significant statement that none of the forged checks-the evidence of the crime -can be found, and the prosecution must of necessity fail. This being the case, Ketchum's boast that he would "in six months appear in Wall street the peer of any among his former associates," will be verified.
