A Comfortable Bed tor Animals,

What man or beast does not enjoy it? Every wild animal, from the lord-ly lion to the insignificant mouse, be-stows careful pains upon its resting place. The universal instinct which prompts this case indicates that it is matter of ne small importance in place. The universal institute when prompts this case indicates that it is a matter of no small importance in the physical economy. About one-third of an animal's whole life is passed in resting, and nature intend-de that during this time its condition should be most favorable for restoring and building up the organization. In the care of domestic animals, kept for profit, this point is worthy of spe-cial attention. Comfortable bedding directly favors the increase of fat and muscle by helping to retain the ani-mal heat, and also by adding to quite and comfort. In this way a bundle of straw on the outside may be equiv-alent to a feed of graininside. Hor-ses are usually well cared for in this retained to keep their directly favors the increase of fat and muscle by helping to retain the ani-mal heat, and also by adding to quiet and comfort. In this way a bundle of straw on the outside may be equiv-alent to a feed of grainiuside. Hor-ses are usually well cared for in this respect, with a view to keep their muscles in good order, as every tyro must know that sleeping upon a hard beard will scared for guiner to must know that steeping upon a hard beard will scarcely give pliancy to the limbs. But good bedding is of little less benefit to cattle. If it be doubted, experiment for two weeks able litter the hrst week, and allow the soco id, then note the difference recorded in the milkpail; it will be very great. Straw and refuse hay arc generally used, and are well sui-ed for bedding. Cutting into lengths of say six inches has some advanta-ges, though it will hardly pay if re-quired to be cut by hand. Where these cannot be had cheaply as is often the case in villages, an excel-lent substitute m y be found in leaves. They possess one advantage over straw, in making the very best ma-nure for gardening when mixed with animal excrements. Spent tan bark, well dried, is another good substi-tute, also valuable mulch. A layer a good purpose for bedding. A layer of dried mulch, six inches thick, serves a good purpose for bedding. It is a most excellent absorbent, and will time without being changed. When well saturated it is just the article for  $d_{1}$  and  $d_{2}$  by the article for  $d_{2}$  by the for a constraint of the formation of the forma the garden or the field. With prop-er care in furnishing abundant bedding for stock, a large accession to the manure heap will be made, sufficient of itself to pay for the trouble.

Save your Flower Seeds.

Save your flower seeds. We say now, because it is more especially at this period that the seeds of our prin-cipal annuals mature. The true system however is, to watch the ripen-ing of the seeds generally-take with you little paper bags or seed boxes, carefully labelled with the name of the seeds which they are to contain, and select from the choicest specimens, one kind at a time, rejecting those not sufficiently matured as likely to mould and injure the rest.

In the matter of preserving both flower and vegetable seeds there is much neglect, and the absence of flowers about many homesteads is in

TRAVERSE JURORS-FIRST WEEK.

In the matter of preserving both flower and vegetable seeds there is much neglect, and the absence of flowers about many homesteads is in a great measure to be attributed to this neglect. The lalies ought in all cases to take charge of the flowers—it is nat-urally their province and should be their delight. It is a good method to exchange seeds with neighbors and friends; for though the distance may be short, vet a slight charge of soil frequently has much influence in pre-serving the fine qualities of the flow-ers. We think we can see, within the last few years, a grert increase in flowers around our homesteads; and we rejoice at it, as we always think more kindly of the in-dwellers. A few days ago we spent a short time with a valued friend in Montgomery county, and were struck with the va-riety and beauty of the flowers in the conney and were struck with the va-riety and beauty of the flowers in the conney and were struck with the va-riety and beauty of the flowers in the conney and were struck with the va-riety and beauty of the flowers in the conney and were struck with the va-riety and beauty of the flowers in the conney and were struck with the va-riety and beauty of the flowers in the

Mr. Johnson says can be cured if they will drink sour milk. After drinking, and as scon as they begin to lick the pail they will give in free-ly. He has tried it with cows that ly. He has tried it with cows that would give about two thirds the proper quantity, retaining the other por-tion. Then he gives them the milk Cattle, it is said, of all descrip-tions, horses, calves, and sheep, may be led by making a slipping noose and fastening to the lower jaw, pass-ing the rope (which must be small) to drink, and waits until they begin to lick the pail, when he has no things, but found nothing to produce around the neck and through the noose on the jaw. It is a very easy such an effect as sour milk.
