I. That the bill itself was inspired by the annual message of the President of the United States, delivered to congress the commencement of the present sessaletter of the 6th, that the notorious windfall wifes dead. But it turns out at the commencement of the present session. The message, it will be remembered, expressed a desire upon the part of the President to secure all men in their

No such idea ever entered the mind of any person who supported and voted for weak-kneed. His audacity will stop

IV. That, instead of being an extravagant and unnecessary expense to the Government, it has indirectly saved us millions of dollars which would otherwise have been wasted.

V. That the Bureau did not contemplate feeding, clothing and educating the refugees and freedmen, but was rather intended to assist them in doing all thes things for themselves.
VI. That, instead of it being designed

VII. That there was an immediate no cause the original act creating the Bureau expires by limitation in the monh of May 1866.

VIII. That, instead of establishing military jurisdiction over all parts of the United States containing refugees and freedmen, it simply extends it over the officers and employees of the bureau. And that in accordance with the recommendation of Gen. Grant, in his report to the President of his tout, having the second of the seco the fiff.

XI. That, if the Rebellion is in al espects at an end, the President is still respects at an end, the President is still exercising the war power, such as the suspension of the writ of habeas e orpus, contrary to the Constitution, which expressly states that this shall not only be suspended in time of invasion or rebellion; and, as we have no invasion, and the writ is not in operation in a portion of the States, we must have a rebellion.

XIV. That, instead of the freedman receiving protection from the civil Courts of the Southern States, and being secured by them in his rights, these States have, almost without exception, enacted through their legislatures laws with reference to the freedman as infamous and oppressive as the black code. Such were the main points in Senator Trumbull's speech, set forth with unusual power and eloquence.—N. Y. Tribune.

Extraordinary Resurrection. Four days after the rebels fired on Ft. Sumter, a son of Mr. Duncan, of Mecca, Ohio, enlisted for the war. He joined a Western regiment, and after being in several battles, was reported killed at the battle of Stone River. His body was brought home and interred. Afterwards intelligence was brought to the parents by returned Upion prisoners that their son was not dead, but in a rebel prison in Georgia. son was not dead, but in a rebel prison in Georgia. Other prisoners, returning from there last spring, brought the sad news of his death to the sorely distress ed fami'y. When the war closed an opportunity was offered to penetrate the rebel lines, Mr. Duncan sent down and had his son brought home again and bur ied. Having had him buried twice, as was supposed, it was natural that they should be reconciled to their loss but a few days ago their son Bob, in spite of wounds, and deaths, and funerals, came "marching home." and is now enloying Wigfall was dead. But it turns out that this is not true, though Wigfall, the President to secure all men in their rights, and to protect the freedmen in all the privileges guaranteed to them under the Emancipation Proclamation; and, in the jadgment of Mr. Trumbull and thirty-six Senators who voted with him for it on the 25th of January, the provisions of this bill were eminently calculated to accomplish those objects.

11. That it was not, as the President avers, an original measure, but simply an account of his hate and bitterness towards his conquerors, and expresses wards his conquerors, and expresses an unshakem conviction that the contract has only been adjourned for a manent part of the administrative policy of the Government—one of its sections expressly stating, on the contrary, that it shall remain in force "until otherwise provided by law," just as all other laws of Congress are supposed to do. The wonder is that the President ever thought of making such an objection to it as this ness of speech and demeanor, and his at nothing.
