JOHN BIGHAM, Secy.

The Pittsburgh Gazette has been enlarged. This paper is edited with spirit, and under the business management of King & Reed, the receipts for advertising, for the quarter ending January 1st, 1867, amount to the handsome sum of 17,982 63; which was only exceeded by the Dispatch in the sum of $1 89. If energy has anything to do with the success of a newspaper, our young friend, Reed, will make it pay.

The secular press of Pittsburgh, according to the figures given in the Gazette of the 10th inst., have realized for the quarter ending Jan. 1st, 1867, the sum of $81,781 27. Besides this, the Religious Press of the city realize something handsome for advertising. It is a well-settled fact that those who expend the most for advertising, do the greatest amount of business, and are amply repaid for all expended in advertising.

FACTS VS THEORIES.

"Give me a place to rest my lever on," says Archimedes, "and I will move the world." "Give me pure and unadulterated drugs," says Medicus, of the odd times "and I will cure disease."

In one sense, both of these learned pundits were the veriest charlatans—They knew there was no place to rest their lever, either to move the world or cure disease. Mechanism was in a backward state, and the medical profession was but another name for surgery, in all the adjuncts of magic filters and charms of the "evil eye," &c.

But those latter days have borne unto us something more than even superstition and its crew dreamt of in their maddest philosophy. In those days of practical science, what was theory of yesterday is fact to day, and all the old-time notions become as bubbles in the sun, and burst and break with every breath we draw.

Let Archimedes shoulder his lever and we will find a resting for it to move the world. Let meancient Medicus pant and toil no more for the drugs he so sorely needs, for we have them at our hand, ever ready to serve them at his beck.

Refined in the laboratory of Dr. Maggiel, the finest materials known in the medical profession are obtainable by any one. His Bilious, Dyspeptic, and Diarrhea Pills stand unrivaled, and his Salve operates with magical effect upon burns, scalds, and all sores and ulcers of the skin.

In fact, we think MAGGIEL'S PILLS and Salve are the wonder of this century, and we are happy in the thought that many others of our brethren of the craft agree with us. We would earnestly counsel that all families provide themselves with Dr. Maggiel's Preparations at once, and keep them ready at hand, so as to use them at the most opportune time and as occasion serves.—Volley Sentinel.

New and Grand Epoch in Medicine

DR. MAGGIEL is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses enfeebles the stomach and paralyzes the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite, with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cure the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and alchemizing Salve. These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended: Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box full taken creates an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffice to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, reanimate an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no gripping and no reaction in the form of constipation. If the liver is affected, its functions are restored; and if the nervous system is feeble, it is invigorated. This last quality makes the medicines very desirable for the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disconcerting power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here announced that MAGGIEL'S BILIOUS, DYSPEPTIC AND DIARRHEA PILLS cure where all others fail. While for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts and all abrasions of the skin, MAGGIEL'S SALVE is invaluable. Sold by J. MAGGIEL, 43 Fulton Street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25cts. per box.
