As yet nothing has transpired going to show that the Judiciary Committee in the House will stand a majority for impeachment, though the fact that the report was not ready is interpreted in some quarters to mean that some sort of change is going on. No general caucus of the Republicans has been held, and nothing has appeared to indicate a material change since the adjournment, when a majority were undoubtedly opposed to impeachment.

Cliques and Isms.
The medical world has become divided into so many cliques, isms, and pathologies, that the general confidence which heretofore existed in the art and science of medicine has not violently shaken, but its usefulness has been much impaired, because of the wide spread skepticism the wranglings of these have produced among the people.

Of late years, however, a change seems to have been wrought in the minds and actions of the profession in general, and a more generous feeling is exhibited in the different medical sects; the upright and honorable among them meeting each other on terms of equality on all general occasions, without illusion or paying the slightest attention to differences of opinion on medical subjects.

We are glad to see this feeling of harmony thus prevailing, as it will have a tendency to reestablish that confidence in medicine which it deserves, and to relieve the profession of much of that prejudice which has been exhibited against it because of these bickering of cliques.

In this land of liberty there is no legal difference in the rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed to the different Medical Colleges, allopathic, homoeopathic or eclectic; but all are granted equal privileges, restricted by the same rules, and degraded alike powers by the very same "authority," all, therefore, being alike regular and equal before the law.

When a patient applies to a physician, his grand object is to be cured. And it should be the grand aim of the physician to cure him as quickly as possible, without any slavish deference to this or that system of practice.

As for ourselves, we prefer to be free to employ whatever means we believe necessary either to arrive at the nature of the disease, or to perform the cure, without regard to the source from which they are derived.

We also claim the right to present our medical opinions to the public, paying due deference to the opinions of others at the same time. Hence we build say that our popular system of practice may need some explanation here, it being the eclectic connected with that of rosco-pia.

Our remedies are principally vegetable discarding entirely the use of Voluum or Mercury in any form; believe it to be a disease-creating agent of the worst description.

We are also opposed to the use of general blood letting in any case; believing it to be injurious to the constitution, and oftentimes dangerous to life.

Our mode of detecting "chronic affections" of the internal organs, is principally by an examination of the urine.

During the whole course of our study and practice we have paid particular attention to this old "German Mode" of detecting diseases, and we feel perfectly satisfied that "there is no more certain sign offered in disease" than is presented in that secretion.

Therefore, we now more copiously invite all these laboring under any lingering disease that has not been cured, but because, perhaps the complaint was not properly understood, to send a vial of their urine for examination, and have the necessary medicines sent them. We wish it distinctly understood that this special invitation is given to those who have sufficiently tried the remedies of their family physician, and have failed to obtain relief at his hands.

This is our privilege and right as a physician, and it is the right and privilege of the afflicted to obtain their professional advice and medicine where they choose. Our office and residence is at No. 132 Grant street, Pittsburgh, here if any others choose to apply we will give them our best medical attention, and will promise them relief in every case where a reasonable hope can be entertained.

L. OLDSHUE, M. D.
