Agricultural & I HEN MANUER FOR CORN. of the correspondents of the Church the following accompany the following accompany the following accompany to the following accompany to

on the first of the weather became so uninversible that it was the end of May and beginning of June before I got infoambling Long before this the manure began to heat at such a rate that I had to miled it on the barn in a few days after, the similying from the barn in a few cleveland, to escape from the barn. Having some plaster on hand I mixed it thoroughy with the manure, spreading the latter thinly over the flow and plaster on hand i mixed it incruigly with the manure, spreading the latter thinly over the floor and bruising and chopping it very fine. It was then thrown into a heap and remained on the floor until the heap and remained on the floor until the world. For Catalogue and Circulars, call at the Cultege was no itself. further perceptible escape of ammonia-With this I top-dressed all my corn, eleven acres, and had a barrel left over for other purposes. So well satisfied am I with the result, that for the future I intend to pre pure my hen manure in the same way and apply it to the same crop. I mixed enough plaster with it to make it dry and quite interest to handle. I can speak of this from experience, as I dropped it over four scress myself. Now, here is a manure equal manual following the commercial interests of America. imported guano, which every farmer can manufacture for himself, for every farmer can keeps fowls. But he must have a suitable building for them, and not allow them to roost all about his premises and even in trees, wasting that valuable manure, as is the same same same. So highly do I esteem in value, I doubt not, to the average of too often the case. So highly do I esteem this manure that I make it my duty every night to see that all my fowls are within their proper house."

HEALTHY STABLES .- To be healthy, stables should bewarm. Large cracks in the floors, large holes in the siding, or broken windows near the stalls, do not promote warmth or health. Stalls on the north and west sides of the barn should be made with double outside walls, and be filled in with tan-bark, saw-dust, or other non-conducting material.

Stables to be healthy should be well ventilated. In their desire to make their horses and cattle comfortable in winter. some farmers keep every window and door and opening closed as tight as a bottle.— They forget what foul deposites are being constansly made on the floors of the stalls, and what rank and pungent odors are continually rising into the mouths, nostrils and eyes of the poor animals, and from which they cannot escape. If such persons would notice, particularly on opening their stables in the morning, what a powerful stench fills the air, they would view this matter differently. And if this did not open their eyes, let them be tied up in their own stables twenty-four hours. Their nauses burning eyes, and inflamed lungs would convince them that their animals had a hard time of it, and that it was wonderful they did not all sicken and die.

It is not the easiest matter to secure these two conditions of a healthy stable, and at the same time, warmth and pure air; but something can be done towards it. The stalls being well built, as we have mentioned, air can be introduced gradually through open windows in a distant part of the barn. The impure air can be carried off by ventilators on the top of the building. And last, but not least, the stalls can be kept clean, and the floors daily sprinkled with gypsum or saw-dust, to absorb the liquid manure and foul odors.—American Agricul-

THE BEST WHITEWASH WE KNOW OF .- The arrival of the house-cleaning and house-repairing season, and several recent inquiries. remind us to again refer to that first-rate in-door white-wash we described last June Nearly a year's trial has confirmed all we said of it. Our house ceilings, and the walls where not papered, which received one coat last May, are now as white as after a usual fresh coat of lime, and we have not been in the least trouble with its "rubbing off." The numerous published receipts, to the contrary notwithstanding, we believe no preparation of lime or other material will adhere well without the addition of glue, oil or varnish. The latter two articles, are expensive, and caustic lime mixed with glue will soon change its color. White chalk is uncaused lime, (carbonate of lime,) and this substance is the best substitute of lime, as a white-wash. A very fine and brilliant white washed perhaps of chalk, is called "Paris White." This we buy at the paint stores for 3 cents a pound, retail. For each sixteen pounds of Paris White, we procure half a pound of the white transparent glue, costing twenty-five cents (lifty cents per pound). The sixteen pounds of Paris White is about as much as a person will use in a day. It is prepared as fol-

The glue is covered with cold water at night, and in the morning is carefully heat-ed, without scorching, until dissolved. The Paris White is stirred with hot water enough to give it the proper milky consistence for applying to the walls, and the dissolved glue is then added and thoroughly mixed. It is then applied with asbrush like the common lime whitewash. Except on very dark and smoky walls and ceilings, a single coat is sufficient. It is nearly equal in brilliancy to "zinc white," a far more expensive article. Let the readers of the American Agriculturist, try this method the present Spring, on a room or two at least, and we think they will not use lime thereafter .-It is, of course, a little more expensive than common lime, but is cheaper in the end, on account of its better color, greater per manence, and firm adherence to the plaster ing. At least, such is our experience.

To KEEP TIRES TIGHT ON WHEELS,-A writer in the Ohio Farmer says :- " I desire to publish to the world my method of keeping tires tight on wheels. I ironed a wagon some years ago for my own use; before putting on the tires, I filled the timbers with linseed oil; the tires have worn out, and were never loose. I ironed buggy for my own use, seven years ago, and the tires are as tight now as when put on. My method is to soak in linseed oil for one hour; it would be much better if the oil was heated. The timber should be thoroughly dry, as green timber will not take the oil. Care should be taken that the timber will be much more durable. I was amused some time ago, when I told a black-smith of this method, as he replied that it was profitable work to tighten tires; and I suppose the wagon maker will say that it is profitable to make and repair wheels. But what will the farmer say?

"PLANT ONE ACRE MORE" is not always sound advice. The object of the farmer should not be to see how many acres he can plant, but how well and profitably he can cultivate a few. The wisest and best educated men are not those who have read or run over the greatest number of books, but such as have carefully studied and thoroughly understand a few of the best. It is far better to own and till from twenty to fifty acres in a thorough and profitable manner—"plowing deep while sluggards sleep"—than to undertake, with inadequate means and execute faculty the culture and management of from two to five hun-

In making this change they think it not imappropriate to call atention to the fact that their present building has been erected by them expressly for the DRIG AND MEDICINE BUSINESK, and the internal grangements thereof designed and adapted to the classification of the Medicines, and the separation of their Stack into different Departments, an arrangement which promotes order, neatness and economy enables them to pretect their Medicines from dust or admixture; preserves their purity and strength, and at the same time gives groater security against mixtakes and accidents, to which this business is peculiarly exposed, considerations of moment with the cautious and reflecting.

Aware of the relations they sustain to the public, and the responsibility of the position they occupy, they intend to avail themselves of all the means within their reach to enable them to discharge with fidelity the duties thereto pertaining. reach to enable them to discharge with fidelity the duties thereto pertaining.

And here they would take occasion to record their sense of the obligations they are under to their numerous friends, both in the city and country, who for so many years past have given their house the preference in their dealings in this line, and generously influencing others to do the same. For these marks of kindness and confidence they trust they are sincerely grateful.

With the advantages possessed in their new location, a well selected Stock, embracing almost every thing within the range of Medicine, and an experience of twenty, they pears in the business, they hope still to retain the confidence of the public and the partiality of friends.

A CURR WARRANTED.

Dr. AMOS & SON have devoted their attention exclusively to this peculiar class of maladies, and the relief they have consequently been enabled to render to their fellow creatures is faily testified and gratefully acknowledged by convalencent patients and others daily arriving in town from all parts of the country, for the express purpose only of consultation, while their exertions have been crewned with the most signal advantages; yet from what they have experienced in inquiring into the cause of the infectious complaint, (from their most simple condition to that of the most dangerous and invaterate,) they have always entertained the possibility of their prevention and removal, and likewise invariably found that the most horrible and malignant forms of disease could almost always as to traced to one of the following causes: ignorance, neglect, or the fill effects of unskillful treatment; therefore, Dr. AMOS & SON have succeeded in discovering, in the selection of their remedies, a safe, effectual and cautious course; omitting all combination of remedies which bear an equifocal character, as well as those whose premature and lajudicious applications might be-productly of bad consequences in the hands of private itidividuals; in short, the latudable end of their remedies is the lessoning of a great mass of human misery by the alteriation, relief and prevention of those afflictions that are in reality the secret for of life, and which, while they so extensively surround us, call aloud for our skill and interference for their extermination.
