He leaves the judicial reli: THE OBSERVER. edies of his previous domicil behind him It is also true, that in a Territory just the ginning to be settled, he may need remolies for the vindication of his rights above all things else. In his new home there may be bands of base marauders, without conscience or the fear of God before their eyes, who are ready to rob and murder, and spare nothing that man or woman holds dear. In such a time it is quite possible to imagine an Abolition Legislature. In view of the recent elections our lie whose members owe their scats to Sharpe's publican striends for Lunting up these rifles and the money of the Emigration Aid Society. Very possibly a Legislature so chosen might employ itself in passing laws unfriendly to the rights of honest men and friendly to the business of the robber and the murderer. I concede this, and Mr. Douglas is entitled to all the comfort known anticedents warrant them in the it affords him. But it is an insult to the American people to suppose, that any com- belief that their particular dogmes in to munity can be organized within, the limits | good to slavery will be honestly a received of our Union, who will tolerate such a state of things. If it shall ever come to that, Mr. Douglas may rest assured that a romedy will be found. No government, can possibly exist which will allow the right of property to go unprotected, much less can suffer such a right to be expected to 'unfriendly legislation."

unfriendly legislation."

Mr. Douglas thinks that a Xeeritory may exclude slaves, or interefere with the rightof the owners, because, in some of the or ganic acts, the general grant is made of authority over "all rightful subjects of legislation." This is not the least unac countable of his strange notions. In such an act nothing is taken by implication, nor could the power in question be given even by express words; for it is formidden by the Constitution to the Federal Government itself The logic so peculiar to Mr. Douglas, which infers the power to give from the want of possession, may sustain such a construction of a statue but nothing else will.

A "plan" relating to the Territories was offered to Congress by Mr. Jefferson in 1784. It was a mere project, in the form of resolutions, embodying certain glistract propositions in anticipation of settlements yet to be made in the wilderness. It did not establish any government, temporary or permanent, but provided how the settlers, when they would go there, might petition Congress and get themselves organ-There is not a word in any of the resolutions about sovereignty or slavery. They were passed in April, 1784, but three years afterwards they were repealed, the whole "plan" was rejected by Congress, and another plan totally different (the famous ordinance of 1787) was substituted in its place. Mr. Douglas, in Harper, referred to this plan, and expended column after column of dreary comment upon it. It was ridiculously inapplicable to his argument: like his quotation from Story, it had no more to do with the subject before him than the Edict of Nantes. I referred to it merely as showing how he could wander from the point. But he allows his right cous soul to be vexed at me for saying it was rejected. It was rejected for though Congress assented to the te olutions when first offerd, the plan was rep bar of t nagle principle of the non-mary Mill. Douglas says that it "stood on the statutes book more peace I so I is specially it for granted, that he would not have made such an allegation if he had known what I now tell him, that it was, in fact repealed in 1787 by the unantmone vote of the whole Congress - Jour, Cong vol. 4. page 754.)

Thave regarded this dispute as on a question of Constitutional law, har, very far, above party politics. But I am tempted to vindicate the Democracy from the imputation which Mr. Douglas casts upon that party when he claims the Umcinnati platform as favoring his creed. It contains no word of the kind. I may also add, that every Democrat who desires to preserve "the unity of the faith in the bonds of peace" will disapprove the odious charge which Mr. Douglas flings at the President, of agreeing with him on this subject. The calm, clear judgement of Mr. Buchanan was never for a moment imposed on, not his love for the Constitution shaken, by this heresy. Neither in his Sanford letter, not in his letter of acceptance, nor his inaugural Address, nor had at his mostle and the ceptance and he ever give the remotest countenance to such doctrine. He has often said, that the people of the Territories had the right to determine the one-tion of slavery tor themselves, but he never said, nor intimated, that they could do so before they were ready to form a State Constitution. I will not follow Mr. Douglas any terther at present. But I must not be understood as assenting to the numerous asser tions upon which I am silent. There is scarcely a sentence in this whole pamphlet which does not either propound an error, or else mangle a truth. I do not charge him, however with wilful misstatements o either law or fact. J. S. THE RELIGION OF MURDER.-The New York Times of yesterday says :- At a union prayer-meeting held in the Lecture-room of Dr. Cheever's Church last evening, urgent prayers were offered on behalf of John Brown and his associates, and two petitions were informally signed requesting Gov. Wise to interpose Executive clemency to prevent the operation of the sentence of death. The meeting thoroughly endorsed the spirit of the Harper's Ferry invaders. A meeting of Radical Abolitionists was held at the Cooper Institute to consult as to the best method of liberating the condemned, and to secure the passage of a personal liberty bill.

CARTER'S NERVE PILLS A BENEDY FOR THESE AFFECTIONS, The most prompt, perfect, and permenent, of any ever yet presented to the public in this way; a Remedy that will not fall one time in twenty, to give present and lasting benefit, and bring rest and repose when both have departed. A few dones will prove the correctness of this statement, and convince the most sceptical of versues sufference.

THAT IN THESE PILLS,

they have a safe and certain soother of their pains, and an invigorator in their weakness. They contain not a particle of Opsum, nor any of the products of that drag, they do not produce Costroness, nor any other of the cris that follow the use of that article, nor does their use for any length of time create a babit which cannot be broken, without pain and distress. They do not case pain, nor induce sleep, by overpowering or deadening the senses, nor do they destroy one disease by subsifficting another? Their property is to impart strength to the who, nervous system, give quiet to the trembling three, sooth the feelings, and caim the mind, thus enables, the suffert to obtain and enjoy natural sound and refersing shep, from which he awaken with renewed energy, the appetite bosomes natural, the Digestion improves, the lowest act with regularity, and thus, by sound sleep, and healthy digestion, nourishment, strength, and they are mourted in a rational was to sense these and ergits, the appetite becomes natural, the Digretion improves, the itowels act with regularity, and thus, by sound since, and healthy digretion, nourishment, strength, and those an imparted in a rational way to every these and function of the aystem, and health of body and mind become a natural result. These statements have not been put torth, nor the Pills offered to the public, until time and treal have given ample evidence of the truth of the one, and undoubted testimony to the value and importance of the foller. And knowing, as we do, the great and increasing prevalence of nervous debility, among all classes of our community and the mass of misery springing from this source, we believe it to be not only the right, but the duty, of any who can do so, to contribute towards its alleviation. That these Pills are better calculated to effect this result than any other Medicane within the reach of the masses we most sincerely believe, and therefore believe we are clearly in the line of our duty in placing them, as far as we can, within the reach of all who need the aid and comfort what they are sure to afford.—They are carefully prepared and accompanied with plain directions, and some useful and important hints, suggestions, and some useful and important hints, suggestions, and some useful and important hints, suggestions, and some useful and important hints, suggestion, and shy all the Pruggists in the adjoining Towas and Villages.
