In the proper place, in our paper to-day, our readers will find the name of Gen. E. C. WILSON, of this city announced as the Democratic nominee for Congressthe Conferees of Erie and Crawford having unanimously put him in nom.nation for that position on Friday of last week, at a meeting held in this city. Upon being notified of the fact that he was selected to bear the Democratic banner in the district, he publican candidate, to meet him upon the stump, and discuss the issues between the all. What has the private affairs of any affairs demand his attention. But Mr. B. thinks probably that as the district is largemay "turn an honest penny" with his "private affairs," and let his reputation take care of itself. It may be that he has made a mistake, it may be that the pebple may demand at the ballot box that candidates for important office shall not hereafter "sneak" behind their "private alfairs" and their "age," in order to avoid just responsibility. But we will not enlarge upon this point, as Republican candidates of all grades appear to be wonderfully afraid of public discussion this vear-Babbitt and Curtin have both shown the "white feather" when least expected, the former in refusing to meet his peer when called out, and the latter, after boasting all over the State that he had challenged tien. Of the qualifications of Gen. Wilson for the position to which his party has nominsted him, there can be no question. Added to a pleasing address, courteous and popular manners, he is a very eloquent and effective speaker, and will carry into the canvass a determination to succeed, if success is possible. He is a lawyer by profession-is the present Adjutant General or the State-was a member of the Revenue Board three years ago from Venango county, which position he filled with credit to himself and satisfaction to his constitutents. In politics, Gen. Wilson was a whig. so long as there was a whig party; but when M. W. Hill, the place to stop, and get the that organization became extinct, and was succeded by a Sectional Abolition party, he joined the democracy, and is now one of its most enthusiastic members

In doing so I know full well the responsibility I assume, and understand distinctly the difficulsulties which surround the Democracy in this district, I know that the opposition here are confident of a victory from the highest office to the lowest, and boast triumphantly of receiving quaintances in the county And now, having a large majority for their candidate for Concut the comb of this pompous "President of the gress This is a mere party boast, and they Irish Lincoln Club," by exposing his ignorance forget the warning maxim that "the race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong.

My opponent, (a gentleman for whom I have great respect,) is the nominee of a party which boasts of its sectionalism-a party which recognizes but one law for its guide, and but one rule for its action—which appeals for its support to northern feeling and passion—is steady in its half of this Union, and whose whole aim and object is to bring about that "irrepressible conflict" between the North and South, which, when accomplished, is only done at the sacrifice of our glorious Union-the dismemberment of the greatest nation upon which the sun ever shone, and the total overthrow of those civil and religious institutions which are the hope of Gen HENRY D. FOSTER, and, also, approvof the world. . I take it that these are not the views for a Congressman to entertain—these are not the duties he is required to perform. likewise ! and is not the way to fulfil his oath which he takes to "support the Constitution of the United States. 1 do not class all who are called Remaking an appeal to them to do it at once For myself, I may be permitted to say that am for the maintenance of the Constitution and the laws of our country, under every contingency, and I hold that the Judiciary of the land, ordained by the people, to be the proper tribunal to interpret the Constitution, and to give construction to the laws made in pursuance theseof. I acknowledge no "urrepressible conflict" except that between right and wrong I enter upon no crusade against the imaginary ills of the African race, nor do I desire to dictate to my Southern neighor how he shall perform his duties to society and to his country; the law regulates all those ment advertising. The Past supports Dong- things, and to that alone he is answerable,-The platform of the Cincinnati convention in 1850, contains my political creed upon all subjects, particularly that in relation to Territorial government It was endorsed by the people in the last Presidential contest, and it still remains the fundamental principles of a maority of the American people. On this platorm stood the old Line Whigs in 1856, and now, in 1860, I am safe in assuming for them similar course, with a like successful result. I believe their views and those of the Domocratic party are substantially the same—at least they agree in stern opposition to those fanati cal men, both North and South, who, while they profess upon their lips loyalty to the Constitution, yet harbor the demon of Disunion in their hearts, and proclaim very ethe treasonable thoughts engendered The union of these two national elements in this district will insure another triumph for the Constitution, and place another barrier to the progress of error and fanaticism. The people of Erie county, above all others, should break away from this abolition political party, and stand in proud eminence as the defender of all es hitherto used in the construction of loss. The Douglas pluck in Pennsylvania the people, wherever they live, over whom of that place, and Miss MAGGIE A WLANE floats the "star spangled banner." The union of Eric. of these States should be as dear to her now, as Fisher, Mr. D. G. CALDWELL, and Miss M.

you assemble to do honor' to that day, and to renew your fidelity to your beloved country Can you, then, citizens of Erre deliberately vote for a party, or the candidate of a party, that would give the he to all these memories and drive back all these feelings of patriotism' I do not believe you can I have too high a regard for your intelligence and truthfulness o think for a moment that you could do so sad a thing as this! Your history speaks for you a better and, and I feel that the prompte of your early days will be redeemed by the fidelity your people in all time to come

I am in favor of the improvement, by the general government, of the Harbors upon our Lakes. This is a subject directly connected with the duties of your Representative in Congress, and is one in which you ought to be, and no doubt are, deeply interested. I believe it to be the duty of Congress to make oppropriations in giving facilities to the commerce of the great lakes, and the navigable waters of the West-waters over which the States have no exclusive jurisdiction, and cannot lawfully obstruct. I believe that Congress has the power given in the Constitution to make such apropriations. The dreams, hopes, and wishes of your peoole, entertained for 25 years, is about being fulfilled in the completion of a railroad from the harbor of Erie to the chores of the Delaware; but while your energies are giving life and vitality to this important enterprise, you seem to have wasted but little thought upon the condition of the very harbor upon which its success mainly depend you have the only real harbor and the only safe anchorage upon the Lakes It needs the fostering hand of the general goverament to deepen the channel to its entrance, and to-build the works necessary for its preservation and usefulness. In good old times, when the people of our States lived in amity one with another-in those days when the Golden Rule was regarded - when the wooly head of the negro had not yet douded the renson and hardened the heart of the Northern people-when abolitionism was looked upon as the eccentricities of weak minded men I say in those days, some attention was given to the choice of the Democracy of this district, we commercial interests of your harbor, and appropriations were obtained from Congress, and xpended under its authority But now, in the light that the progress of years shed upon us, amid the great facilities for trade an i commerce that modern skill and science have strewn around us, in the annihilation of time and space by the telegraph and locomotive, of which an improved harbor can give us the advantage. we must needs sit down and wait, as patiently as we can, until our legislators at Washington settle the impractible question whether the negro shall be placed upon the same footing as the white man, and whether the Constitution shall he disregarded to effect this and kindred objects. These and similar questions occupy the attention of your legislators, and until this incubus is banished from the halls of Congress—until your representatives are chosen from some other motive than philambropy for the negro-until you enjoin upon him some higher duties for his bservance, and some better task to employ his skill and talent -then, and only then, can you hope to secure your share of the public money. building up your harbor, and making it a source of wealth and profit to your whole community. I am in favor of such a tariff as will give adequate protection to American manufacture -I am in favor of a Railroad to the Pacific to be built by the eneral government. I am in favor of such a disposition of the public lands as will give a free home to the actual settler. I am in favor of a recognition, in a substantial way, of the services of those who have fought in defence of our country I am opposed to the interference of any nation of Europe in the affairs of Mexico, or any where else on this of our vessels for any reason. I am in favor volves so many questions vital to the interests of a reduction of the expenditures of the government, and the economical administration of public business.
