Extract from the Speech of Hon. Wm. A. Richardson, of Illinois.

On the 17th of Marell latty my-vollenge (Mr. Loveloy) kaving heard that two magross had been arrested, introduced a resolution instructing a committee to ignife tale the facts, which resolution passed this House by majority of two to one. On the first day of this session I introduced a resolution die recting an imquiry into the causes why white citizens of Illinois, without charges being made against them, were detained in the various forts and bastiles in the country, and that resolution was laid on the table, on motion of Mr. Lovejoy, by a similar vote. The army is being med for the benefit of the negro. This House is being used for his benefit. Now. Mr. Chairman, I have a slagle word these who are temporarily exercising the functions of the executive department of the Government. I fear they have not studied inspire you with any pleasing emotions. Far

They do not wish to be slaves, and do not mean to be made slares. We have had a bill passed ber to day, under whip and spur, without debate, without inquiry, extending ampetty to thee who have thus wronged our people. I think you had better also pass a bill extending an amnesty to those of you whom the people have condemned for your course here, so that you can have a political resurrection hereafter. That is the only way in which you can ever have forgiveness If you expect that when the courts come to look at the monstrous bill which you here passed to day, wiping out all the rights of these who have been immured in prison, they will hold it so constitutional you are hold that that gives in is unity for the weaton. reckless syrannical exercise of power, I is not justice on rath. It to not justice tofire our people, and let those men who had ruth and rechievely violated every precept, law and Constitution, take the legal conse-

You have disregarded them both. And now you turn around and pass an ac: of immunity to all concerned in judicting these outrages and wrongs. You have had immured In prison men equal, ay, superior, in intellect to the President or any Cabinet afficer; men more devoted to the Constitution and laws of the constry than all of them together. Now, after all these outrages, you propose to invest the President with power to suspend the writ of habeas cospee, the great birthright of Englishmen and Americans; and which has never, until new, been disregarded under any circumstances in this country, except inside the > actual lines of the army." Mr. Chairman, I have talked warmly on this subject because I felt deeply. I have advised, and now advise, moderation. Our people want peace. They mean to preserve the Constitution and the Union. They know that you cann it persist in the course which you are upw taking. That course leads to the destruction of both the Constitution and the Curon. I am not authorized to speak or lay down the plan which is to govern anybody in future. I do not speak to-day for that

> Perhaps I should not anticipate the course of the President of the United States in regard to his proclamation. I trust that he will reconsider it; that he will pause and not go forward with it. This Government connet be restored by the sword alone. You must carry with it the olive branch. The Presideal says we are making history | I trust we are not making such history as the incendiary who switted his lighted torch in the air to barn the temple of Diana at Ephesus, and who has left his name behind, while the name of him who reared that temple has perished from our memories. I think we may expect that, under a change of policy, the blessings of the Union may forever be restored and made perpetual.
