The necessity of watching with joalous anx-lety for the preservation of the Union, was earnestly, pressed upon his fellow distant, by the father of his country, in his farewell:address. He has there told us, that "while ex-perience shall not have demonstrated its impracticability; there will always be reason todistrust the patriotism of those who, in any quarter, may endeavor to weaken its bonds ;" nd he has cautioned us, in the strongest terms, against the formation of partice on geographical discriminations, as one of the which might disturb our Union, and to which designing men would be likely to resort. The lessons contained in this invatuable legacy of Washington to his countrymen; should be cherished in the heart of every sitisen to the latest generation ; and, per no period of time could they be more usefully. remembered than at the present moment. For when we look upon the scenes that, are passing around us, and dwell upon the pages of his parting sidness, his paternal counsels would seem to be not merely the offspring of windom and foresight, but the voice of prophety foistelling events and wirning us of the sell its come. D Porty years have passed since this imperialistic document was given
