

THE ERIE OBSERVER.

NEW GOODS! NOW OPEN AT R. S. MORRISON'S. EMBRACING ALL THE LATEST STYLES OF DRESS GOODS.

CLOAKS, SHAWLS, GLOVES AND HOSIERY. ALSO A LARGE STOCK OF CLOTHS.

STAPLE AND DOMESTIC GOODS! YOUR TIME TO BUY GOODS! IF YOU WANT TO FIND GOOD STYLES.

GOOD BARGAINS, GO TO R. S. MORRISON'S.

CHAS. L. NOBLE, P. O. Box 1820, 175 Lake St., CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

JOBBER OF CARBON OIL! ADVANCES MADE ON CONSIGNMENTS.

A FACT GENERALLY KNOWN, THAT the quality of new style Bedsteads, of various patterns, made of iron, steel, brass, copper, zinc, tin, and other metals, is of a superior quality.

WHOLESALE & RETAIL GROCERY STORE. P. A. BECKER, Wholesale and Retail Grocer, North-East Corner of the Park & French Street.

GROCERIES AND PROVISIONS. Which he is desirous to sell at the VERY LOWEST POSSIBLE PRICES.

PURE LIQUORS. For the wholesale trade, to which he directs his attention.

1863. BUFFALO & ERIE R. R. ON and after Monday, April 20th, 1863.

Cleveland and Erie Railroad. ON and after Monday, April 20th, 1863.

LEAVE CLEVELAND. ON and after Monday, April 20th, 1863.

LEAVE BUFFALO. ON and after Monday, April 20th, 1863.

LEAVE CLEVELAND. ON and after Monday, April 20th, 1863.

LEAVE BUFFALO. ON and after Monday, April 20th, 1863.

LEAVE CLEVELAND. ON and after Monday, April 20th, 1863.

SURGEON-GENERAL HARRISON. He is ordering Colman and Harrison's mineral water for the army.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

CASE OF ROBERT W. WATSON. Dr. W. Watson, New York, writes to Dr. R. W. Watson, New York.

HELMHOLTZ'S EXTRACT. This is a new and valuable preparation for the cure of various diseases.

LEON'S KATHARTON. This is a new and valuable preparation for the cure of various diseases.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

THE KIDNAPING ART. I have a thirty years' experience in the detection of kidnappers.

The Cottage Door. How sweet the rest that labor yields! The humblest and the poorest.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

Oh, happy hearts!—to him who sits! The farmer when he sits.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

GENERAL MEADE. A Detroit correspondent of the World writes that at the beginning of the war, Gen. Meade, at that time stationed in Detroit, opposed an Abolition 'war meeting'.

BRIEF PARAGRAPHS. Gen. Meade is a Catholic in his religious views. So says the Freeman's Journal and Catholic Register.

U. S. Senator Tom Eych, of New Jersey, is a private in a militia company raised in Mount Holly to aid in defence of Pennsylvania.

Gen. McClellan has taken up his summer residence at Orange, N. Y., in the elegant mansion of Dr. Marcy, the uncle of Mrs. McClellan.

The Question of Bank Decrees.—The board of officers have decided the question of rank in the following order of precedence: McClellan, Fremont, Banks, Dix and Butler.

The contraband business is assuming gigantic proportions out West. Already there are 30,000 men, women and children under the supervision of the general superintendent, located at different points.

An old bachelor of our acquaintance says he doesn't wonder that married men over thirty five years of age are placed in the second class conscripts under the new conscription law. They have suffered enough for their country!

Big Eaton.—The keeper of a warehouse was lately seen beating one of the slaves with a large club. A bystander asked him the cause.—'Why,' said the keeper, 'he's been fingering dirt about the tent, and he's big enough to know better!'

Hon. George W. Woodward passed thro' our borough on Tuesday afternoon last, on his way to Gettysburg. He has a son in one of the Pennsylvania regiments engaged in the recent battles, whose fate has not yet been ascertained. The Judge was looking well. He stopped about an hour, and was honored by several of our citizens. His Honor Judge Strong, of the Supreme Court, accompanied Judge Woodward to Gettysburg.

Hon. William Bigler, in going to and from the Gettysburg battle field, stopped a short time in town. The Governor was on the field during part of the engagement and gave to those of our citizens who paid their respects to him a clear and satisfactory account of the battles and their results.—York Press

Presidential Eloquence.—Mr. Lincoln's peculiar style, both of thought and expression, has been the subject of much ridicule, and foreign criticism has made it the occasion of some reflection upon our intelligence as a people. Mr. Lincoln is at times quite happy, and his late letter to the new military commander in Missouri was a model of the kind. His Fourth of July speech at Washington, though, may be characterized as of the first order of post-bomb eloquence. Think of the following, from the Chief Magistrate of this Republic:—

And on the fourth, the cohorts of those who opposed the declaration that all men are created equal, 'stand tall and true.' (Long continued cheer.)

Fancy Lord Palmerston, or Louis Napoleon 'holding forth' after this fashion.

A Negro Hero for 'Conquering' a White Girl.—A negro who had secured a term in Newburg jail, was let out, and hearing a young girl in the street, he followed her to a place, where she would go with him. Getting her in the outskirts of the city, he visited her person, for which he was arrested and put in jail. The Irish population, infuriated by the outrage, and feeling that the abolitionists would screen the negro and applaud the indignation, beat him furiously, and finally hung him to a tree till he was dead. The Tribune says that the girl must have been a prostitute because she was not proved to have been chaste, and indignantly complains about the violation of law and the disturbance of the peace.

Patriotic Extraneous.—The bitterness of political matters, of this time, is altogether owing to the slanders and to the abolition characteristic behavior of the white language. They have attempted to crush by vulgar abuse and low epithets the law-abiding and constitutionally loyal majority of the people. They have thought to ride by violence, threats and insinuations over the conservative and decent majority of society. That they have been by a determined effort on the part of a people who mean to maintain every right and shadow of a right at whatever cost, is not strange. 'We wonder is that best men have not reached the end of their patience sooner, and taught these no-bodies an earlier day that they would not further be trampled upon by the destroyers of a country built up by Democratic hands, and made great and glorious through Democratic policy.—Sensory Daily

OUTRAGE UPON DEMOCRATIC WOMEN.—We feel the following extraordinary statement in the New Lisbon (Ohio) Patriot of the 19th inst. 'We are informed that on Tuesday evening, in Liverpool, about thirty women, and have been dressed in women's clothes, and with hair and feathers after the Democratic women in that town. They first went into the house of Mrs. Morris, a widow woman, and a boy called her to the door. He then took hold of her and tore off all her clothes except her chemise.

The crowd of boys then came off, and dressed her in a coat of tar and feathers. They next went to the house of Mrs. Fen, whose husband died in the army three years ago. She fought like a tiger, but the mob beat her down in trampling her in the same way! Five other Democratic women were tarred and feathered. We have no comment on this infamous barbarity. If the justice can be found out they ought to be punished with the utmost severity of the law.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.—The Chambersburg Valley Spirit says that while that eminent borough was under rebel rule, a rebel soldier applied to a lady for money to get down the rebel pole, which had been set by the public square ever since the great uprising of the people over the fall of Fort Sumter. She refused to give the aid. He then got her from his belt and threatened to shoot her unless she complied with his demand. She complied with perfect coolness. 'You can kill me, but you cannot touch my honor, and I will not give you an axe to cut down that pole.' That lady adds the paper, to one of the most 'magnificent' characters in town.

The Southern members of Congress who were most combative in the forum have also been leaders in the field, and many of them have sealed with their blood the mission which they stimulated with speech. What prominent abolitionists have yet been killed in action? What has any one of them attacked except the treasury of the United States?—Berkshire falls pierced with wounds at Gettysburg, Tomba headed a charge at Antietam; but Sumner and Lovely never yet have sought to take that feat of fight which they so carefully spread for others. And though Wilson was a great dinner in New York as a Massachusetts colonel, he led his regiment no further than Washington, and has smelt no gunpowder save in the way of salutes.—World.

At the recent term of the Court of Chancery, three returned soldiers were tried and convicted of riot, in assaulting Mr. Leonard, the District Attorney, for wearing a copperhead breast pin. Judge Barrett sentenced them to pay each a fine of $20 and the costs. In passing sentence he remarked that it was the lowest punishment that the law allowed him to inflict;—that the parties who encouraged and instigated them to the attack were the ones who should be severely punished, but he omitted the volunteers that if they ever again appeared before him on a similar charge, they should be punished to the full extent of the law. Let those who are guilty of similar practices in this county make a note of this.—West Chester Jeffersonian.

The New York Times, an Administration organ, on the first morning of the great battle at Gettysburg, remarked as follows:—'Our correspondence from Gen. Meade's headquarters, yesterday announced the fact that communication with Washington, by railroad and telegraph, had been cut off. Singular to say, the country did not regard the situation of Gen. Meade at all critical on that account. On the contrary there was a disposition to consider it one of the happy accidents of the war. If Gen. Meade shall succeed in the great battle he has in hand, the present generation of Americans in their dying day will believe it is because he had his communication with Washington cut off.'

MR. LINCOLN'S UNCONSTITUTIONAL.—The Judiciary of New Hampshire have declared that the soldiers' voting proposition which had been passed by the Republican Legislature of that State, is opposed to the spirit and letter of the Constitution, as well as the common law, which requires the presence of the voter at the polls. Several practical objections to the bill are also mentioned in the opinion. The opinion is signed by Chief Justice Bell, and Associate Justices Bellows, Nesmith and Bartlett. This proposition is similar to the one passed by a party vote in the Legislature of this State last winter.

We know by painful experience that the great wars of politicians the war is but a political campaign on a grand scale, and every General's 'points' are scanned the minute he makes his appearance in the field, with a view to running him at some future period.—S. Y. Times

Mr. Raymond's experience has been among Republican politicians exclusively, and what he says of them is a frank admission of the correctness of all the charges made against the men now 'raining' the administration, the 'loyal league' movement, &c.

MR. LINCOLN'S CHARACTER.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial writes:—'The President and family are safely domiciled in one of the cottages on the Soldiers' Home Hill, three miles north of the city. Mr. Lincoln rides every morning, escorted by a cavalry force of 500 men. The infantry force that has been encamped on the grounds south of the mansion has broken camp and gone out with the President.'

The Philadelphia Ledger says that a few evenings ago a gentleman was sitting quietly in his own parlor in the neighborhood of Carlisle, when the rebels came into his house, and among other demands requested the boots he had on. On his refusing, one who seemed to be in authority told the rest to lay him down flat on his back, which was done, and the boots were seized and appropriated by one of the rebels. Hats, watches, money, were all confiscated without hesitation.

The Republican prints begin to find fault with Gen. Meade, as they did with McClellan, immediately after his victory on the field of Antietam. 'Dunne Brown,' the army correspondent of the Springfield Republican, says that he lit up the golden opportunity in a following up Lee on Saturday, the 4th, and adds, 'the day was permitted to go by—like the day after Antietam, only a hundred times more so.'

Some Pennsylvania say that Gov. Curtin, foreseeing the invasion from which the Keystone State is suffering, acted authoritatively to call for fifty thousand men to defend the State. Legally, it is the Federal Government which should ask authority to raise troops from Pennsylvania, instead of the latter appearing as a humble suppliant at Washington.—World.

Some two weeks since, Rev. Mr. Jones of Canaan, in Columbia county, the Baptist clergyman, was baptizing several candidates for church fellowship. As one man was about to step into the water, the elder asked him whether he believed slavery to be a sin. He replied that he regarded it as a divine institution. 'Then,' replied the elder, 'you cannot be baptized.'

Say you will not be made, their love is generally more than a mere creature that of the young man. 'You are a lock and the disposition of the hair.' 'Cut it the young heart of woman is capable of setting truly and graciously in one object, her love is like a May shower, which makes rainbows, but still is clearing.

How are you, Top? The Republicans in Ohio, after using Gov. Tod to do their dirty work in the arrest of Dr. Todd, and having him thrown with writs for damages, have thenceforward, and because his participation in arbitrary arrests made him unpopular. This serves him right. They 'live the reason, but live the train.' Let all Democratic renegades take warning.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette says Secretary Chase has dismissed a clerk who has been in the office many years, and who refused to subscribe to a fund to assist in raising a colored regiment, saying that he had lost his own fingers under the Emancipation Act and had never been paid for them.

OUR SAVANNAH MORN.—Gen. Meade is appointed to the command of the 125,000 'camp' of the Potomac. Mr. Wilson said that though Meade was to be tried before McClellan should be reinstated. So we shall have only one more.

Gen. Grant has uniformly permitted Democratic newspapers to circulate freely through his camp. What army is there which has fought more nobly?

Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Fox, shows that the whole number of vessels captured or destroyed by the blockading fleet up to June 1, is 855.