MANCH BY THE PROPLE IS THE PRICE OF

BO BITIDED THE UNION . The answer must be, the South, unabtedly, if we look no farther back than iterest ordinances of seconsion passed their state conventions. But what 4ed South that the pairage of these ordinances fectuation became possible ? This questien goes to the roots of the subject, and a correct answer to it must fix the ultithe responsibility for dissolution on the holitionists. True, there have long been demagones in the South who considered dissolution desirable. But who gave to these demagogues their power ? who supplied them with arguments? who enabled them to convince a majority of the active and influential classes in the Southern fect their veins with black vomit. The as an advertisement. This is a novel mediately pushed out, and the clew and States that they ought not to remain in right of perfectly free public discussion mode of disseminating political eulogies ; the Union ! What headway could the sion demagegues have made without Mr. Seward's "Higher Law ;" without the abolition mobs for resisting the rendition of fugitive slaves; without the "personal liberty bill," passed to defeat a plain requirement of the Constitution ; without the avowed and recorded abolitionism of the great Republican oracles; without the vituperation and slanders of the Tribune, the underground railroad, the "irrepressible conflict," and John Brown's raid? These are the things which alarm. ed the Southern mind; these the steps of the ladder by which southern demagogues climbed to their ascendency. He who digs under my house, deposits the gunpowder, and lays the train, is as wicked as the incendiary who applies the match.

The evalve ingenuity by which the abolitionists seek to escape this responsibility is all in vain. No change of party names, no attempt to restrict political discussions within the period since Mr. Lincoln's election, can blind the people to the broad fact that if there had been no sectional Republican party there would have been no war. This fact stands up in bold relief, like the Alps against the sky, and no artifice can obscure it.

The Union was not held together by merely political bonds, nor was it dissolved all at once by merely political action .-The real dissolution was in the alienation of feeling and sectional hitterness which preceded the severing of political ties .-It is notorious to all the world that it was the electricitionists that sowed the seeds of this alienation; that fomented this bitter ness. Slavery was the sore and sensitive spot on the social body of the South, and the rough-handed abolitionists kept rubbing it. The greater the irritation they caused, the more the object of their torture winced, the better they seemed pleased. Much of the zest of such books as Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" (a book which was high-toned and respectable compared with the great mass of abolition libels and pasquinades,) consisted in a perception of the sting they would inflict on Southern sensitiveness.-It was like the pleasure felt by a mischievous boy who sits on a shed and shakes a red flag atamad bull. This reckless abolihad no respect for persons, no places, nor the most sacred things. It entered the church of Christ with its wrang. les and its firebrands, and succeeded in severing that before it dissolved our political Union. The churches of all the great denominations (except the Catholic) were organized very much like our political institutions. They all had their several state associations, which were represented in a general convention just as the several states are represented in Congress Abolitionism first entered the Methodist church, as Satan, the author of discord, entered Eden, and presently that great body was divided, and the two sections planged in litigation growing out of their claims to their common property. The Baptist church was next sundered by the same means; and then the Presbyterian. It is true that in all these divisions it was the South that seconded, but it is also true that the questions on which they divided were thrust into the several conventions by the abolitionists. It cannot be pretonded that this separation of the churches after victory, that instant secession is a was the work of ambitious demagogues, or that the secoders were hurried int ing against their deliberate judgme The great sectional schism in the off fores was purely the work of obtrusive abo-litionism. Though it preceded the polit- as stories cannot be Copperhead under ical separation by several years, the analo- his present majesty we may safely quote. gy and connection is such as to show that | Esop : they resulted from a common cause. Your attempt to domineer the reply; "if you do not know that you over their opinions, and to overturn their have a good master, I know that I have accial and industrial system, is what broke up the Union. You may say, again, that this was only a pretext; but it still remains true that it was the abolitionists who gave them this pretext in the face of repeated warnings of the use they would probably make of it. And our honest rail-splitter at Washington is still swinging the enormous abolition beetle and delivering his sturdiest blows on the same wedge by which the gold, or whether the authorities will at. states were separated. The Union is as tempt to take advantage of the act of Conyet only a partially cleft log; if the abolition wedge were knocked out the sides would spring together and leave only a some action on the part of the Legislature, sedm. When, by and by, the Democrats as a resolution was passed on the 12th of render this service, let the abolitionists look that their fingers are not in the cleft.

TER UNION .- The Boston Courier Bays there are three meanings to the phrase "The Union." The first is, the Union as it existed under the Bevolutionary Conindention ; the second is, the Union under the Constitution; the third is the Union as the radicals are trying to reconstatet it. The first is a Confederate Union ; the second a Constitutional Union ; the a third a Consolidated Union. The first is The Union of Secessionists, the second is the Union of Conservatives, the third is the Union of Abolitionists.

And we may here observe that notwithstanding the high price of labor and materials, we actually sel our products at less prices than the ocurrent tive year.

our products at less prices than those current has years ago. We refer to these facts hely for the purpose of proper-ly introducing another schliedt relative to our manufac-ture of watches. Hitherbo our chief object has been to make good watches (or the unillion, at the lowest post-ble processomething to take the place of this make-bellers watches called "Ancres," "Lepines," "Euglish Patent Levers," &c., annually thrown upon this market, is counties numbers, by Suropean work alongs-watches (which, are the refure of their factories, unsales at home and perfectly worth eas everywhere. This object we have accompliabed, and now we have to ampunce, that we have commanced the manufacture.

We have exceted an addition to our main buildings expressly for this branch of our business, and have illed it with the best workmon in our service. Profiling by our long experi-ence, we have remodelled the form of our watches, intro-dicting such improvements as have been suggested and proved to be good from time to time, and have instituted new and severe tests of isochronism, adjustment and compassition. Now machines and applicances have been constructed, which perform their work will consumate delicage and exact inde, and the choicest and most ap-proved insterials only are used. Nothing in fact is wanting either is mechanical principles, mainterial or "werkinship to ensure, perfocing in the result. We continue to manufacture our other well-knows qualifies under the filewing rames: "APTLISTON, TRACY & CO," "And the Solder's Watch,"

"And the Soldier's Watch," "WM. ELLERY."

"Will ELLIFRY." The latter, the lowest priced watch we make, is a sub-stantial, reliable time-piece, chard in storing silver-huoting pattern-and is not liable to get out of order described watches, including the faces, which is named "Anguinas Watch Compary," are sold by watch desires rescaling the provent the country.
