The very attempt of Congress to prevent rger number of people than if they had ermitted the usual number to be printed for stribution. We hope that our friends in leaders that the free men of America owe very part of the country will raise clubs to | "allegiance" to the executive and his advisers, rocure large numbers of the work, and give an extensive circulation. If possible, let he be placed in the bands of every Repubcan who will read it. It is the campaign seament, and every dollar spent in distribting it, will be of more service to the cause Union and Freedom than five times the mount in getting up meetings and procesions.
