A Book which no Democrat Should be Without.

"FIVE HOSPED POLITICAL TEXTS."-- Un. der this title, S. D. Carpenter, Esq., editor of the Madison (Wis.) Patriot, a former resident of this county, has issued a book which is by the subject of the wer and its causes. It may, History of the Rabellion, in contradistinction to the many garbled and unreliable books progress of the war, which have been written by Abolition authors for Abolision purposes, and flooded over an unsuspecting and too easily duped country. It differs from any of these so-called histories, though, in the fact that it gives documentary proof for every assertion that it makes, and can be relied upon in every particular.

Mr. Carpenter has made a decided hit in this work, and if it reaps a reward consistent with its merits, it will have the largest circulation of any that has been asnounced for the last ten years. It it just the thing that has long been needed-a text-book to which Democrats can always refer for proof to sustain their arguments. "Whoever has a copy of. this work in his possession," says a colemperary, "need not fear to be usited "traitor," "Copperhead' and the like; for all he has to do will. be to pull the volume out of his pocket, and cram a few Abolition sentences down the throats of those who assail him, and they will follows the chequered and inconsists at career of the opposition down to the present day, quoting from the sentiments of their speakers and editors, giving their platforms, comparing their acts and professions, and showing condition of civil war and despotism which now hangs over the nation. There is hardly an event which has occurred since the acknowledgment of our national independence. but is treated on at more or less length. The book is a complete encyclopedia of political knowledge. We endorse it strongly, but not with a particle too much of warmth: It is one that no Democrat should do without or, once having, would do without, and, as such, we commend it to the attention of our party friends everywhere. The price is $1.50; if sent by mail, $1.76—the extra twenty-five cents being needed to cover postage, &c. Mr. Carpenter has made arrangements by which any orders from this section can be sent to the Observer office, and will receive prompt

Writies for the Observer.] The Republican Party. [continues.]

In considering the character and doctrines of the obligarchial faction that is attempting far the most valuable that has appeared on to revolutionize and destroy the Government of the United States, we have written of its in short, be appropriately styled a Demogratic numbers, its designs, the means that it uses to perpetuate its power, and of its tyranny; and have shown it to be factious, as being but a pretending to give an account of the origin and small part of the people; revolutionary, in that it seeks to overturn the societies and governments established and approved by the people; unaping, in that it stifles, overpowers or disregards the popular will, and destructive of those great principles of civil liberty without the practice of which any government would be an unmitigated despotism, and a republican impossibility. We have not discussed the peculiar tenets of this faction in regard to negro slavery, nor is it proposed now to go over the ground so completely investigated by able statesmen, profound men of science and learned divines. We have not dwelt upon this part of the sothis faction. Were it simply what it is popul the wretched present. The mixture of races States. Nor do we purpose to speak of slav- law pass away in deformity and miserable ery either in defence or in condemnation, but as we are now told that "slavery is dead," tion of all, whether, as far as the so-called and that the pettifoging gentleman who has Republican party has reashed in its negro the tendency of them all to produce the very and that the pettifoging gentleman wap has freedom crusade, the price paid is not, too filled so well the office of President of the freedom crusade, the price paid is not, too overturned a system that has stood centuries. and the laws enacted by the people for its protection, we will, for the present, admit the fact, count the cost of the work, its effect upon the prosperity of the white race, and consider the slave in that state of "freedom" in which benevolent Abolitionists have doomed him to it of "the Government," is whipped for offenlive and die. Again, the principle involved is what should meet our approval or condemnation, not the accidental application of it by one band of fanatics to the exclusion of others. The principle is the right of self ground uniform of a Butler. In Land. ernment. Slavery was so interlocked with the society of the Southern States that to forcibly destroy it was to destroy the laws and liberties of their citizens. If you admit the right of a faction, or even of a majority, to destroy the laws and constitutions of a free people, and subject them to military despotism on endless wars, endless rebellions, endless tyrweaker people by the stronger?

Assuming, then, that negro slavery has been abolished, and will in a few years pass away, we find that it has cost, in the first place. the Union of the States. Of the territory that removed from the Union in 1860 and 1861; there is not a square mile that can truthfully be said to be restored to the Union, for the simple reason that "union" means a bond of store" means to bring back to a former condition. There are only some parts of the reve-

During the has three years it has temporarily deprived the country of the services of. two million must whom war has unfitted for ever returning to proful and productive cooupetions should they be suddenly dispended. It has placed apen the country thus deple sed of its wealth and wealth producers a debi to enormens that it can never be paid, but must remain to nurse posterity, and if the accumulation is not goon stopped, it will be impossible to pay even the interest.

The abolition of slavery has cost the demoralisation of the public to a dogree pearcely equalled by the most corrupt nations in the most licentious 4781 The proof of this is found first in the condition of the churches wherein is presched, the enormity of the sins of slavery and rebellion, but, with few exceptions, never a word of the vices of every day life that contribute to the destruction of public merals. Becond, in the rage for speculation and idle effice-holding, which has so seized upon the public mind, as to almost stamp as vulgar and insignificant those who still dare to pursue those honest trades and occupations that were heretofore considered honorable. Third, in the great increase of crimes generally, and the alarming prevalence of ligentiousness.

Finally, what is the condition of the negro for whose benefit this crusade was originally begun? We believe it has never been denied that in his state of bondage the slave was amply provided with those physical comforts that were necessary to his health and usefulness. Can the condition of the so-called freedmen be compared with that of the slave so far as this is concerned? On the contrary, thousands are dragging at the rear of Federal armies, supported by the charity of those for whom they labor, or fed by the tax payers of the Northern States. The women are reduced to the lowest state of prostitution, the children deprived of their customery food and attention, are rapidly dying, while the men are either conscripted or stolen from their families to fill the quotes of "loyal" New England, or remain behind, the cocks and servants of Federal officers. In the mean time the lands formerly tilled by these happy and contented servants are now either barren wantes, or else form the experimental ground where Government pets make their fortunes, and the people's money. is wasted in making political capital by f'free" labor. So much for what actually is before our eyes; and to call the serfs of General in the front and driven into battle to show that "negrous can fight," or, at least, that they minor wil, compared with the atrocious crimes | as impudent falsehood. Ws observe some indications of the prevalence of Copperheadism in distinguished Besublican quarters. For example:

"The Supreme Court of Vermont has delared the soldiers' voting bill of that State undonstitutional, so far as it relates to the election of State officers."

Again, Senator Hale, of New Hampshire, in speaking in the Senate the other day, of the effort in Congress to aunihilate the State banks, said the object would be more essily understood if the measure was put in this form:

"And be it further exacted. That all those instruments heretofore known as State constitations be, and they are hereby abolished." And again, Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin, on the same occasion, said : "I do not yield to my honorable friend from New Hampshire in my singere respect as well as my deep and settled conviction in the ne-State governments themselves, maintaining, manhood and liberty have not been extin-Banks-the spacesipted slaves who are placed preserving and defending all the rights of guished by the delusions of fanations." the States under the Constitution of the United States. amining the details of the carage, in each of these conflicts, one is prerwhelmed with a variety of emotions, in which horror, wonder and astonishment are predominant-horror as the monstrons aggregate of slaughter, wonder at the resources of the rebels in supplying such enormous losses, astonishment that any one people less in number than the population of India can submit to such wholesale killing without extermination. Does the reader recall a battle in which the "slaughter" of rebels was not "terrific?" Is there a case on record in which the "carnage" among these gray-backed gentlemen was not "swful?" Was there ever a conflict in which the rebel, "lose" was not "fearful ?" Are not their casunities invariably "heavier" than ours? Do not their dead always lie in heape? Do we not always "mow" them down at short range with "double charges" of grape and canisier, and are we not constantly getting them in position where their "solid masses" are scatfered like chaff before some division that rises suddenly to its feet on the edge of some "timber ?" TAKE THE PAPERS.—That this will be a year of great events needs no prophet to foretell. The campaign of the rebellion, the Presidential campaign, and last, but not least, the European war, will all excite public attention, concerning which all should keep posted .-Then in regard to local matters, we shall have much to engage consideration, and about which no well regulated family should be ignorant. By taking your home paper you will get the local as well as the general news, and thus two purposes will be served at one price; whereas, if you take a foreign paper it will be purely accidental if you see at item coaperning your locality once in a whole year.

TIRED OF THE NEGRO .- Spurgeon, in a recent speech, said: "We in England, are getting tired of the negroes-we are beginning to find them out. WHAT THEY ARE FIGHTING FOR .- Generat Meade, in his address to the Army of the Potomac, on the 4th instant, informs his soldiers that they are "fighting to preserve the Government and institutions as handed down to us by our forefathers." That is the sentiment that inspires brave men to deeds of valor and to victory. Not the cry of Abolition, not the desire for pillage, not a mere spirit of hate, but a love of constitutional liberty, and a devotion to the cause of the Union. Wendell Phillips, in one of his late harangues in Boston, took upon the platform with him a young saddle-colored female, whom he introduced as "the type of the future American woman." The abolitionists were so delighted that they crowded towards the platform te carees her. It is clear that if these oracked-brained fanatios had their own way the white race would soon be extinct in this country, and their places filled by hybrids.

When the war first broke out, a young married man of Stenbenville, Ohio, volunteered. He was reported killed at Perryville, and subsequently his wife received in a metallic coffin, what purported to be the body of her husband. She buried it with all due ceremony and affection, and, after more than a year had elapsed, she married again. A few days since, an exchanged prisoner passed through Steu-benville and left a message from the husband supposed to be dead, that he would probably be soon exchanged and would be home again. Her present husband is a worthy man, and the case becomes somewhat embarrassing. In the beginning of the war, a patriotic landlady, in her desire to emulate the generosity of many city governments and other corporations in continuing the wages of absent soldiers, gave notice that if any of her boarders wished to enlist, she would allow their board bill to run right on all the time they were gone, the same as if they remained!

THE EMANCIPATION PROGLAMATION, -A CBPman in New Orleans ran over and put out the light of a very young American citizen of African descent, and was heard to exclaim, "God bless the emincipation proclamition! If I had done that two years ago, it would have cost me five hundred dollars."

Loss or Generals -Since the war commenced, the Federals have lost of Generals, of whom 36 were : killed in battle, and 15 have died of discases contracted in the service,
