President Lincoln, publishes, a letter faexpresses great kindness for the administration personally.

Sheridan's barbarous devastation in the Shenandoah Valley has already borne its fruits. The guerrillas are so numerous and so sayage in their attacks upon the rearguards and supply trains, that he finds himself unable to hold at position so far advanced as Streeburg. die trains from Harper's Ferry are intercepted, and Moseby will not allow his gange of laborers to repair the Manassas Gap Railread. So Sheridan has no alternative but to abandon Strasburg, and retreat northward towards Winchester. It is said he will bring his army all the way back to Charlestown and Harper's Ferry. As he retreats his devastation is as universal as that made in the Valley south of Strasburg. Desolation reigns supreme. The result of it all is, that never since the war began has guerrills war been so bloody as it now is in the Shenandoah. The New York Independent states that General Sherman will make no attempt this year to advance south of Atlanta. For over three weeks we have not had a line of news from his army. The railroad and telegraph connecting Atlanta with Chattanooga are still broken, and the Confederates have their own way. On Saturday last Wheeler captured Rome, a town in Georgia, east of Sherman's supply rail road and took three thousand negro troops prisoners. On the same day he dashed into Marietta, near the Kenesaw Mountain and on the railroad, and spiked the cannon. Hood is near Marietta, where the buik of Sherman's troops are. The two armies are resting on their arms watching each other.

All the Federal troops have been driven from southwestern Virginia. One body vas followed by Gen. Breckinridge almost to Knoxville, in East Tennessee. .. Burbridge, whose command is now near Lexngton, Kentucky, reports that he lost ington, Kentucky, reports that he lose heavily on the retreat.

The defeat of Washburn's command at East Point, Alabama, by Forest, is confirmed. All of his artillery—eight guns—was a sparriber, in Greenfield to, near the Union school school and of his artillery—eight guns—was a spain oil, dark but with one born to keen aff, and white captured. Two of his caissons were exploded and one of his transports disabled by the Confederate, shells. Washburne ass retreated. .

Gen. Price has made his headquarters at Booneville, Missouri, just south of the Missouri river. North of the river the Federal troops have abandoned nearly all the State, and are concentrating at Mucon City, northwest of St. Louis.

Soldler's Ballots. Blanks for soldiers voting by proxy have been received at this office, and will be furaished, free of cost, to any Democrats who wish to use them.

Watchwords for the Campaign.

So soon as it is clear, or even probaole, that our present adversaries are ready for peace upon the basis of the Union, we should exhibit all the resources of statesmanship practiced by civilized nations, and taught by the traditions of the American people—consistent with the honor and interests of the country-to secure such peace, re-establish the Union, and guarantee for the future the nonstitutional rights of every State .- General McClellan's Letter of Acceptance.

The preservation of our Union was the tole avowed object for which the war was commenced, and it should have been conducted in accordance with those principles, which I took occasion to declare when in active service. Thus conducted, the work of reconstruction would have been easy, and we might ! have reaped the benefit of our many victories The following are the Congressmen on land and sea. - Gen. McClellan's Letter of Aeceptance.

I need only say that I should seek in the Constitution of the United States, and the laws framed in accordance therewith, thornle . of my duty and the limitations of Executive power : endeavor to restore economy in public expenditure, re-establish the supremacy of law, and by the operation of a more vigorous nationality resume our commanding position among the nations of the earth .- Gen! McClellan's Letter of Acceptance.

The condition of our finances, the lepreciation of the paper money, and the burdeus thereby imposed on labor and capital; show the necessity of a return to a sound financial system, while the rights of citizens and the rights of States, and the binding authority of law over the President, the army and the people are subjects of not less vital importance in war than in peace .- Gen. McClellan's Letter of Acceptance.

I realize the weight of the responsibility to be borne, should the people ratify your choice. Conscious of my own weakness I can only seek fervently the guidance of the Ruler of the Universe, and, relying on his all powerful aid, do my best to restore Union and peace to a suffering people, and to establish and guard their liberties and rights .- Gen. McClellan's Letter of Accepiance.

The effect of long and varied service in the army during war and peace has been to strengthen and make indelible on my mind strengthen and make indelible on my mind and heart the love and reverence for the call and settle without delay. Union, Constitution, laws and flag of our country impressed upon me in early youth. These feelings have thus far guided the course of my life, and must continue to do so to its end .- Gen. McClellan's Letter of Acceptance.

I could not look in the face of my gal. lant comrades of the army and navy who have fought in so many bloody batiles, and tell them that their labors and the sucrifice of so many of our slain and wounded brethren had been in vain, that we had abandoned that Union for which we have so often perilled our lives .- Gen. McClellan's Letter of Accept-

A vast majority of our people, whether in the army or mavy, or at home, would as I would, hall with unbounded foy the permanent restoration of peace, on the basis of the Union under the Constitution, without the effusion of another drop of blood; but no peace can be permanent without Union .- Gen. McClellan's Letter of Acceptance.

If a frank, carnest and persistent effort to obtain these objects should fail, the responsibility for ulterior consequences will fall upon those who remain in arms against the Union; but the Union must be preserved at all hazards .- Gen. MeClellan's Letter of Acceptance. The Union was originally formed by the exercise of a spirit of conciliation and compromise, and to restore and preserve it the same spirit must prevail in our councils and la the hearts of the people. - Gen. McCiellan's Letter of Acceptance.
