The Soldier's Letter.

Haw sweet when night her misty well around the weary soldier throws. And twilight's golden skies grow pale, And weeing winds invite repose, To sit beside the watchfire's blass, Where friendly comrades nightly come, To sing the songs of other days. And talk of things we love at home.

of those we love, who list and wait. Benesth the same benignant moon, The postman's step behind the gate, With tidings from the absent one and beaming smiles their thoughts reveal, And love is mirrored in their ayes, As esgerly they break the seal, Elate with joy and glad surprise.

But desrer yet the shout that rings in excitation, loud and clear, To hail the messenger who brings Letters from home and kindred dear ; And 'neath the pale moon's smilling light The soldier reads his treasure o'er, And through the hours of silent night, In dreams he visits home once more.

In dreams he sits beside the hearth, Afar from camps and traitor's wiles. And deems the dearest spot on earth Where loving wife and mother smiles : And many a face almost forgot, And many a word so fondly spoken. Come flitting round the soldier's cot, Till the sweet dream, at morn, is broken 0, ye who love the soldier well. Bid him be hopeful, brave and gay ; Better he knows than you can tell. The perils that attend his way. Some word of hope in battle's hour. While striving with a vengeful foe, a liss nerved the soldier's arm with power, To strike or ward the impending blow.

The soldier brave is often prone To deem himself forgotten quite. A wanderer on the earth alone, When friends at home neglect to write. Then cheer him oft/with words like these, And thus your deep affection prove ; ... Let every keel that ploughs the seas Bear him some message full of love.

Make Home Bright and Pleasant. More than Luilding showy mansions, More than dress and fine array, More than domes or lofty steeples, More than station, power and sway,-Make your home both neat and tasteful, Bright and pleasant, always fair, ; Where each heart shall rest contented, Grateful for each beauty there.

More than lofty swelling titles, More than fashion's lutid glare, More than Mammon's gilded honors, More than thoughts can well compare-See that home is made attractive, By surroundings pure and bright, frees, arranged with tasts and order, Flowers, with all their sweet delight.

Seck to make your home most lovely.

A BOGUS BANK "GONE UP." from the Titurville Reporter of last week.]

The Titusville beaking and exchange office of G. S. Warren & Co. has avaporated, leaving but a slight residum in the shape of an! empty office, with a few fixtures, and the sign 'Bank'' over the doer. Several drafts on New York, issued from the house, came back protested last week, and on Saturday the safes and other assets were sleted by the Sheriff on attachment and the institution clesed up. W. D. Barrister, the reputed President of the concern, had then been absent several days.

From the facts that have been elicited since the catastrophe, it seems that Bannister had used the money of the depositors in the purchase of oil territory, and had organized a York for the purpose of selling the stock of the company and raising funds to replace the deposite, and mplete the purchase of the territory upon which advances had already been made, Some twe menths since Bannister induced a number of others to join him in' ter induced a number of others to join him in "greater for duing out Frances. CO MAKE MONEY .--- Very few persons are aware, that by a recent invention, newspapers and scraps of printed paper, can be converted into material for printing upon again. The high price of paper has made an active demand for old newspapers, books, pamphlets and scraps of paper for this purpose, and it is sagarly bought up by parties connected with the paper mills. "By collecting and saving all the material of this kind about their houses, and selling it, many a family can put "money in their purses," which would otherwise be lost.
