WHAT MAKES A LADY .- When Beau Brummel was asked what makes the gentleman, his quick reply was, "Starch, starch, my lord !" This may be true, but it takes a great deal more to make a lady; and though it may to some seem singular, I am ready to maintain that no conceivable quantity of muslin, silk or satin, edging, frilling, hooping, flouncing, or furbelowing, can per se or per dressmaker, constitute a real lady. Was not Mrs. Abbott Lawrence just as much a lady when attired in twelve-cent calico, in Boston, as when arrayed in full courtdress at St. James', London? "As Mrs. Washington was said to be so grand a lady," says a celebrated English visitor (Mrs. Thorpe), "we thought we must put on our best bibs and bands; so we dressed ourselves in our most elegant ruffles and silks, and were introduced to her ladyship: and don't you think we found her knitting, and with her check apron on! She received us very graciously and easily: but, after the compliments were over, she resumed her knitting. There we were, without a stitch of work, and sitting in state; but General Washington's lady, with her own hands was knitting stockings for her husband i" Does not that sweet republican simplicity com-Monday, Dec. 5th, in Hughes' Block, mend your admiration?

> TO MAKE A GOOD WIFE UNHAPPY .- See hearted and cheerful in temper; or if after a day's or week's absence, she meets you with a smiling face, and in an affectionate manner, be sure to look coldly apon her and answer her with monosylables. If she force back her tears, and is resolved to look cheerful, sit down and gape in her presence till she is fully convinced of your indifference. Never think you have anything to do to make her happy, but that her happiness is to flow from gratifying your caprices; and when she has done all a woman can do, be sure you do not appear gratified. Never take an interest in any of her pursuits; and if she asks your advice, make her feel that she is troublesome and impertinent. If sh, attempts to rally you good humoredly, on an part of your peculiarities, never join in the laugh, but frown her into allence. If she has faults, (which without doubt she will ha ve, and perhaps may be ignorant of,) never attempt with kindness to correct them, but continually obtrude upon her, ears, "what a good Nife Mr. Smith has." "How happy a mith is with his wife." In company never seem to know you have a wife; treat all her remarks with indifference, and he very affable and complaisant with every other lady. If you follow these directions you may be certain of an obedient and heart-broken

RESPECT THE AGED.—Many an old person has the pain—not bodily, but sharper still-of feeling himself in the way. Some one wants his place. His very chair in the chimney corner is grudged him. He is a burden to son or daughter. The very arm that props him is taken away from some productive labor. As he sits at the table, his own guests are too idle or too unkind to make him a sharer of their mirth. They grudge the trouble of that raised voice, which alone could make him one of them; and when he speaks it is only to be put aside as ignorant or despised, as old fashioned or obsolete. Oh! how little do younger persons know their power of giving pain or pleasure. It is a pain for any man still in this world to be made to feel that he is no longer of it; to he driven in upon his own little world of conspicuous insolation and buried enjoyfretfulness or querulousness of temper has aggravated it-if others love him not because he is not amiable shall we pity that condition any the less? Shall we upbraid with that fault which is itself the worst part of it-good words?

For years to come old iron will be plentiful enough in this section to supply several large foundries. No one will be able to stick a spade in the ground east and south of the city without striking against a piece, and the plough, in nearly every furrow, will turn up a "lamp post," or a mertar, or some kind of missile. Now and then we shall probably hear of man, horse and plough flying towards the clouds. When they explode these shells are no respectors of flesh. They strike a man harder than Heenan, or Sayers .-Petereburg Express.
