Tar Our CREEK DISASTER .- The accident a the Oil Creek railroad, on Thursday of week, resulted in the death of seven peras the serious wounding of two, and slight mages to a number of others. The occurence is attributable to the carelessness of the conductor and engineer of a freight train. who took an engine from a switch, and run it upon the main track at a time when the pas enger train was due. Our absence from home presented us from giving the particulars in wweek's paper, and as most of our readers have 'extraed the circumstances of the acciles before this, we do not deem it necessary enter into details.

The frequent occurrence of this class of ac dents renders it essential that some legislare measures should be adopted to check en if possible. ### Letter from Prof. Seager.

PAIRESVILLE, OHIO, Aug. 28, '65. ED. OBSERVER - Dear Sir :- I "observe" in the Observer of last week a very kind notice of the Fieral Concerts given by my class in Erie, on the 17th and 18th. for which please accept many thanks, but permit me, very modestly, if you please, to differ with you in regard to the "tendency" and influence of such exhibitions.

Your objection appears to be simply that it "encourages young ladies to make public ex-hibitions of themrelves." This may be true in the case of one young lady among a hundred, but my experience teaches me that only little girls and boys really wish to be made conspicuous—the older members of my classes always preferring subordinate parts, and nocepting the more prominent ones because they feel an interest in the success of the entertainment and a desire to see their teacher remunerated. So much for the possible evil that may arise out of these enterprises, now for the positive good. Taking it for granted that the cultivation of music refines, elevates and ennobles -that the better we are, we claim first for the Floral Convention and Concerts that they awaken a more wide spread interest in music than anything else. By giving the people an opportunity to attend such an entertainment, and so help pay the cost of instruction, it enables a teacher to place the price of tuition so low that a very large number may receive the benefits who otherwise could not.

2d. The work accomplished by the class council are investigating the gas question, and during the term is twice as great as it would be were there to be no exhibition at the close It is kept constantly before the pupils that their parents and friends are coming to see what proficiency they have made, and there rice will be reduced to consumers to $2 50 or could be no stronger incentive to labor and sctivity

8d. It gives to many a bachful, awkward girl and boy an ease and grace of manner which are essential to manly and womanly deportment.

And finally, it opens the way to a more extended field of acquirement for every young lady and gentleman, boy and girl who were members of that class, and a desire to know more. And they shall be accommodated.— Last winter Erie could not raise a corporal's guard who were willing to attend a convention proposed to be held by Prof. A. N. John. son, of Boston, and myself For three days I labored faithfully and could not find a dezen persons interested—but I am greatly mistaken we do not find such a class this winter as will do credit to Erie and effectually remove the stigms of "possessing the least musical
