ir redoubtable friend, Geo. W. DeCamp, , we understand, has been more than orrily lavish in his compliments to the REVER during the past week. He has not content with styling it "the vilest cophad sheet in the State," as heretofere, in the smiability of his temper has added cice and pleasing variety of pelite phrassuch as "mean," "infamous," "lowi," "viperous," ""fraitorous," electers, ers. We beg our angelic friend, not to its himself to such mild and ordinary as of dattery. They are positively not thy of him-not equal to his reputation. less he can coin some newer and more iking expressions, he will lose the illusious base of being the most polished genemma at our bar, and fall into the obscurity hich is so repulsive to his nature. Why, riastance, can't he bestow upon us some of dishtful little pet names, with which he in the habit of eulogizing Judge Derick-We Lowey. Mr. Gara an d Mr. Skinner, his affectionate moods last year? Such a le of compliment would be more original its character, better suited to his fame, afirius a satisfaction language cannot ress. > that after our warm defence of him from the ridicule of his enemies, in last week's paper, he should have been caught berating us. Were he still in the land of the living, we do not know but we might be tempted to indulge in some rather sharp comments on his course ; hut we have too much self respect to harbor any but motives of charity for the dead.

As for Skinner, his motives are "too well understood to need comment. We though he had subsided, but it appears he still possesses courage enough to continue his slan. ders-when he imagines they will not come to the cars of those assailed. We want noth. ing more to do with him, but we hereby give fair notice that if we are provoked into further self.defence, our retort will be in a manner contrasted with which the effort of a few weeks ago was mere play. If James is wise, he will hold his tongue; if not, he must take the consequences.

We assure our neighbor thea at the helm, it has not only lost all that the Democrats of Erie county will feel none the worse for his calling them "names." They remember that in all sges the scandal mongers and slanderers, though successful perhaps for a time, have invariably in the end met with the contempt which they deserved.

The Democratic Convention of Warren county met in the borough of Warren on the 5th inst. and nominated Joseph A. Neill for Assembly, Jas. H. Eddy for Commissioner. Chas. Chase for Auditor, and P. H. Lukens for Surveyor. The Convention reaffirmed the State platform, adopted a resolution against the division of the county, and passed a vote of thanks to our fearless friend Morris, of the Ledger, a compliment which we will bear testimony that he well deserved.
