A Grand Scheme to Raise the Rhino. For some weeks past the papers of the oil region have been crowded with accounts of the grand excursion of capitalists, speculators and newspaper men through that section of the country. It was fismingly announced that the representatives of Heaven knows how many billions of capital, and what amount of newspaper influence were in attendance, and Hon. Charles Vernon Culver, member elect to Congress from the Crawford district, who, we were told, paid the entire expenses of the trip, amounting to many thousands of dollars. All this sounded very fine, and we inwardly mourned that Erie did not possess a citizen who, like Mr. Culver, could boast of such princely wealth, and spend it in such a princely manner. Culver was the bean ideal of generosity, the quintessence of enterprise. But, alas for our trust in human nature, a turn of the picture gives it a totally different appear ance. Culver's magnificent excursion looms up as a grand speculative scheme: Culver's splendid dinners were mere baits to catch the supposed gudgeons he fed; Culver's liberality was nothing more nor less than an immense application of the old advice: 'Sow that ye in control of the old adv may Resp." J. A. LAWSON'S IMPROVED REVERTIBLE FLUE HOT AIR FURNACE.

Invented by the colebrated P. P. STEWART; set in brick or of portable form. This new Fornace is offered to the public for the or milest belief that it sirpasses all others in use. The County Commissioners, after examining a number of kinds, unanimously adopted this for the Court House, as the best that had seen. It merits may be briefly stated as follows:

It does not clog by dust and unbes, so as to impede the draft.

It can be put in perfect withing order in five minutes time, no maittr haw long it has been in use and in the less; facilities can be put in the less facilities and the less facilities can be put in the less facilities can be put in the less facilities and the less facilities and the less facilities and the less facilities and the less facilities are less facilities and the less facilities and the less facilities are less facilities and the less facilities and the less facilities are less facilities and the less facilities are less facilities and the less facilities are less faciliti

It is easily controlled and can be managed by those most unskilled in such matters, of or very little experience. A single existing a will satisfy any person of its great superiority. Call at W. W. P. P. STEWART'S LARGE OVEN AIR TIGHT COOKING STOVE. This splendid atore needs no praise at our hands. Wherever it has been used, it has grown into universal favor. Some of its points of recommendation are expressed in the following:

1st. The pseudiar position of the fire charter, by mich the heat can eight be the war out into the room, or confined to the Stove. (The ladies know how to appreciate this.)

1st. The fire is under perfect control, and any temperature of heat desirable can be obtained.

2d It burns either wood, anthracite or bituminous coal.

4th. A fire may be kept with entire exfety during the night, and breaknast and dinner prepared next day with no additional fact.

5th. As a taker it is unrivalled.
