Mrs. Davis is kindly treated by everybody, and wherever the goes people vie with each other to do her homage

Mrs. Jefferson Davis had an audience with President Johnson, on Friday evening, her per object being to secure the transfer of her husband to some more healthy locality. Mr. Johnson assured her that an order, induced wholly by the late official report of Mr. Davis's health, had been issued, providing that he should have the free use of the grounds of the fort, and be relieved of the close attendance of guards by day, but that the surveilance hitherto exercised during the night would still continue. Mrs. Davis was entiroly unattended in her visit to the White House, and appeared very calm and self-possessed. She was robed entirely in black, and manifested much dejection during her stay in the city. She has been the recipient of a great many calls from her old acquaintances, besides numerous messages of sympathy for her bereavement.
