The Old Story. I was a woman, and I'd a heart, And I loved of love and constancy, And so was the tears of my eyelids, For he was the world to me.

He whispered low when the spring time flew, Of the tangled paths in which men stray, And around him all the stars of heaven, His eyes were on fire that day.

They came to me when my love was gone, And said he was poor and toiled for bread; They talk'd of ruin and tears and loss, And my heart was all as lead.

And then they laid their bridle on my feet— "For the same old tale that is often told— They play'd on the strings of my heart's council, And dashed my eyes with gold."

I told myself to a loveless thing, And I walk'd to the altar and there I lied; For my heart was away with the promise of love, And I by my husband's side.

And now you ask me what of the life? "I've paid my life for my girth and gear; 'Twas better, I think, for a woman to die Than to live the life I lead."

I am alone, but still I can sing, And pray for the end of winter's rain; For the scent of the primrose-crown of spring Will return to me again.

The Volunteer Counsel. A SHILLING STORY. John Taylor was licensed, when a youth of twenty-one, to practice at the bar.

On the 9th of April, 1840, the court house in Clarksville, Texas, was crowded to overflowing with a large assembly.

The slender suit was for the 9th, and the throng of spectators grew in numbers as the day advanced.

"Have you no counsel?" inquired Judge Miller, looking kindly at the plaintiff.

"No, sir; they have all deserted me, and I am left alone, like the poor man who has lost his sheep."

"The first sensation was turned into laughter when a tall, gaunt spectral figure showed his way through the crowd, and placed his hand on the shoulder of the plaintiff."

"It is immaterial," answered the stranger, "his thin, bloodless lips curling up with a sneer."

"He suffered the witnesses to tell their story, and he allowed the defense to add their evidence, and he followed by Pitt and Prentiss."

"All at once the speaker descended from the pulpit, and he stepped into the arena, and he stepped into the arena, and he stepped into the arena."

"He closed by a strange exhortation to the jury, and then to the bystanders; he advised the panel, after they should bring

Reconstruction Difficulty. The following is a correct copy of a letter from a Whilom Clerk seeking information from the Attorney General.

"Dear Friend—I am in the pursuit of knowledge under difficulties. I want a legal opinion. You are not in duty, but I am in a dilemma."

"Gracious God! 'Have mercy on you poor Kinky! 'As he waded on for he was God! 'And you was Johnny Kinky!

But here the paper and candle light—it was born with it in me. Well! I Surrendered to Grant 'on terms. Then I went to the Trans Mississippi and Kirby Smith, and left Buckner and Fagan to face the music.

Old Folks. "Often think each tottering form That limps along in life's decline, Once bore a heart as young as mine, And all of life had dreams of joy, And each had had his dream of joy, And each had had his dream of joy, And each had had his dream of joy."

In Holland dog power is carefully utilized. The Dutch are not much given to the mitching of dogs, but they put their dogs to work in a different way.
