New YEAR'S CALLS .- The Dispatch, in Mony's issue, took occasion to express its disprobation of the practice of making New ear's calls, which has become an established stom in our city. It styles the system "a "kept up on the one hand by those who, as llers, have impudence enough for all emerncies, and on the other by ladies, who, hower much they may dread the inconvenience recallers create, still countenance them by eping open doors on the occasion." This is very sweeping accusation, and, in our opinpresesses no foundation, while it is grossfersive to the ladies and gentlemen alluded Among the persons of the male sex who in the habit of making appeal New Year's lls are many of our very best citizens : and are quite sure that if our editorial entemrary could see the delighted feelings with ich the ladies centemplate their long lists callers, he would not imagine that they med the custom an "inconvenience," or ked upon it with the slightest symptoms of read." On the contrary, it is generally reirded by all classes with continents of favor, l as promotive of a wider and pleasanter dee of social enjoyment. The Dispatch says: "Besides the forlish expenditure rendered moner that would make the day a "Happy ew Year" for many a suffering family, it is rescuice that has a most hurtful tendency as tends directly to the making of drunkards. oxidating bowl, succembs to its influe or this day; a thing not to be wondered s the repeated cally at house after house awed at each by a draught of wine s of which naturally produces a beastly of intexication, which often occurs ear-in the day and inclined all cases before vening sets in. The demand opniantly increases, and it puzzles calculation to think how great it will be fifty years hence. Six ty-six trades depend on wood, and could a substitute be found, mechanical industry must be reorganized before it emid be used, The business distress which prevails in the oil regious is well illustrated in the last Venango Spectator which contains no less than six columns of Sheriff's sales. "Everybody's loss is somebody's gain;" and the sheriff and editor will reap a rich harvest from the misfortunes which have attended the collapsed fortune seekers.

R. L. Cochran. Esq., formerly editor of the Spectator, is cashier of a bank recently established at Franklin.—Exchange We scarcely know whether to-congratulate friend Cochran, or not. To become a bank cashier, after having been an editor, does seem like coming down a little, though it isn't near as much of a fall as if he had been elected to the Legislature or Congress.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says of Senator Lowry: "No man in the Legislature holds a more important position in that body, and it would be a serious loss to the State to miss the Frie Senator's services for a single day during the coming session." If what the Telegraph says he true, the intellectual and moral standard of our present Legislature may easily be guessed.
