LATE ELECTIONS.

The election returns from different parts of the country, during the past couple weeks, prove very distinctly that the tide in political affairs is turning.

The New Hampshire election was held on Tuesday, and resulted, as was to be expected, in a Radical triumph, though their majority is greatly reduced.

The Democrats in Congress are already getting sick of their bargain, in providing for a continuous session, and are talking about taking a long recess.

The House has adopted a resolution to adjourn to the 21st of May, but the Senate insists on extending the two bodies an agreement is not likely to be arrived at.

The President is authorized to adjourn Congress to such day as he may think proper. It is evident, at least, that the impeachment project is not to be seriously pressed at the present session.

The efforts of Butler and Ashley have received very slight encouragement from the new Radicals, and those two worthies may be quoted as decidedly below par in the Washington political stock market.

The hero of New Orleans has been snubbed in a mortifying manner on several occasions in the House. He tried to get the special committee, which he should be a member, but the House very unkindly decided to retain it in the hands of the Judiciary Committee.

It was spirits of departed politician are permitted to be spectators of the "fantastic tricks" played on the earth, there is one who will smile at the mighty march in consequence of events he had so much to do in setting in motion.

DULLNESS IN TRADE.

The entire South ought to be earnestly at work rebuilding its shattered fortunes. Every inducement possible should be held out to the people of that vast section to produce cotton as fast as the looms will bear.

Now, what hinders this most desirable thing? Who are responsible for this long delay, which threatens the nation with ultimate bankruptcy?

The Thirty-ninth Congress has done all that was possible to produce the condition of business which the country is now complaining. They passed laws calculated to prevent one section from contributing to the prosperity of the nation.

The appropriations voted by the Second Session of the XXXIXth Congress to pay for the current expenses of the Government during the coming year, and to supply the deficiencies of the last fiscal period.

The most bewildering thing of all is the list of appropriations for keeping our public officers warm. Here, for example, we have $2,000 for heating the Supreme Court Room.

The Democrats of Connecticut have selected this spring for their candidates their State and Congressional representatives.

The National Democratic Committee met on Tuesday afternoon, in New York City, at the residence of Mr. Belmont.

The Democracy are popularly supposed to be self-government. The democracy of the country presents a singular contradiction of the ideas at the present moment.

THE BANKRUPT LAW.

The acts passed by the Thirty-ninth Congress were establishing a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States.

The creditors, having been properly notified by the Court, must together and appoint a receiver for the estate of the debtor; the choice to be made by the greater part in value and in number of the creditors who have proved their debts.

A majority in value of the creditors of a bankrupt can agree upon the dividends to be paid at three months intervals. But the law specifies certain claims and demands which must first be met and provided for as far as the assets will go.

The necessary household and kitchen furniture, and such other articles and necessaries of such bankrupt as the assignee shall designate and set apart, having reference to the amount of his family, and the maintenance of his wife, children, and other dependents, shall be exempt from seizure or levy on execution by the laws of the United States.

The last clause of the involuntary bankruptcy act reads as follows: "Departure or absence from the State without assets, or with intent to defraud creditors; concealment of person to avoid process; concealment of property to avoid seizure on legal process; assignments designed to defraud, or hinder creditors; arrest and detention for seven days, under execution for a debt exceeding one hundred dollars; actual imprisonment for seven days in a civil action founded on contract for one hundred dollars; assignment, gift, confession of judgment, or any other act by which preference be given to any creditor, endorser or surety; dishonoring commercial paper, or suspending and not resuming payment for fourteen days. The petition to force a person into bankruptcy must come from one or more creditors whose debts reach two hundred and fifty dollars, and the action must be commenced within six months after the date of the bankruptcy." The other features of the act relate to the duties of officers appointed under the law, the fees to be paid to the same, and other matters of minor detail.

Whereas, It appears by record just made that the following States, seven in number, are not now represented upon the floor of this House, to-wit: Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wyoming.

Whereas, These unrepresented States were of the original thirteen in 1787, and their representatives were present at the Convention and created the Constitution of the United States.

The radical legislature of Ohio is not the only radical legislature in the north which has refused to do that which is demanded every Southern State shall do.

The official report of the U. S. Treasury Department exhibits a fact that will surprise many even of our own citizens, viz: that the foreign trade of Erie is larger than that of either Toledo or Sandusky.

Our young men, who desire a pleasant place to pass their evenings, will find the room of the Whittier Literary Association, in Roosevelt's block, open every evening except Wednesday and Sunday.

Within the last week or two, very serious bank defaultations have been brought to light in the intellectual and moral welfare of the young.
