Gen. These officials are prohibit ed from discussing the important political questions now at issue, and he favors them with the following interpretation of bis order :

"The words 'shall not use any influence whatever,' shall be interpreted in their widest sense, and held to mean suivice, verbal and written, given to individuals. committees or the public." Gen. Schofield, in Richmond, has turned his attention to the Passenger Railway, and has directed that two street cars shall be run for ladies and four for promiscuous cargoes of black and white men. He ha further sent word to a free born American citizen who conducts the Times in that city that he does not approve of his edito-rial articles and that a different style must be adopted. This is a Napoleonic illus-tration of the freedom of the press in that
