Even with the lesers. Marks & Myers, are thorough | indifferent spirit shown, it lacked only one vote of passage in the Senste, and not more it whatever is done at all should be than a dozen in the House. The most active of its supporters were Senator Wallace and Gen. McCreary, and it is a duty which the press of the State owes to these distinguished gentlemen that their labors in behalf of the bill should be known and remembered. The friends of the measure do not intend that their endeavors shall end with the unsuecessful attempt at the last session. The bill will be re-introduced at the next Legislature, and in the meantime it should be the object of > its supporters to concentrate all the elements of success possible to obtain. The publishers of the State have the matter in their own hands, if they only choose to use the influence of their position. In every county, a pledge should be secured by the editors of the dominant party, from their candidate for the Legislature, that he will give his vote in favor of he bill. By pursuing this course, and following it up with a very little attention after the lof intellect. Legislature meets, we feel that we can confidently predict its passage, by a nearly unanimous vote, at an early stage of the session. There can be no doubt that the people generally favor the measure, and if it were brought properly before them, the expression in its behalf would be such as would not fail 'to convince the politicians which side their interests require them to adopt.

The Meadville Rop .b'ican, central organ of the Radicals in Crawford, has opened its batteries upon Senator Lowry with a vigor that will give renowed confidence to his enemies in the party ranks in this county. It is a little curious, too, that those who are most anxious to have him returned, are most clamorous against Mr. Chase because of his support of the new coun-ty scheme. If it is right for Lowry to support a division of our county, it is certainly than in the pulpit. not wrong for Chase to sustain the measure.
