> WE hear but one report in regard to the crops in this section. In every part of the county they give the most encouraging prospects, and, unless indications prove deceptive, we shall have a most bountiful harvest. There are few persons in the community who will not be gratified with this intelligence-the farmers, because it affords the promise of a more profitable recompense for their labor-the tradesmen, because it is the token of an active fall business,-and the mechanic, because it will bring down the prices of provisions to a more economical standard. Let other interests monopolize the attention of legislators and philosophers as they may, it is the agricultural after all, that forms the basis of every sound and prosperous country.

parties have met with nearly as much success alongside the piers at the entrance. Hosts of fishermen are out at all hours of the day, and the number of the finny tribe that they bring ness streets. They will do wisely to profit by the costly experience of Chicago, and not at back with them would be incredible to pertempt to make a whistle out of a pig's tail, or a street pavement out of pine lumber. It sons in less favored localities. On Saturday or a street pavement out of pine lumber. I cannot be done. The most useful purpose afternoon, fifteen hoats, containing not less than fifty inmates, male and female, were the Nicholson street flooring has served in Chicago has been to prove its own worthless anchored outside of the harbor, within a few rards of each other. Their close proximity did not have the least effect upon the fishing, and those who understood the knack of properly haiting their books, were rewarded with astonishing success. In most cases, the line was scarcely thrown into the water until it caught a fish, and the sport was exhilerating to a degree seldom attained. The fish are nearly all perch, and average from threequarters of a foot to a foot in length. Out of at least fifteen hundred that we saw, during our visit to the locality, there were not half a dozen that would fall below this size. To give readers abroad some impression of the way in which the fish bite, we will state that a party of two, after an absence of about three hours, returned with four hundred fish. and this is a fair sample of the luck which attends nearly all after they once acquire the knack of the business.

The sensation produced by this extraordinary state of things may be easily imagined. The boats in the harbor are kept in constant use, and not less than a couple hundred persons visit the favorite localities daily. Almost every hour of the day parties pass our office with enormous strings of fish, in most cases so heavy that two men are needed to carry them. A string of forty or fifty is not thought worth bringing home, and would subject the person carrying them to ridicule. The news of the wonderful sport has spread far and wide, and crowds of persons from the neighboring Sheriff. towns have come in to participate in the fishing. If it continues for any. length of time-
