CUTTING OFF A LOCK OF HAIR.-The guarlian of a little girl in Buffulo has brought suit against a woman for cutting off two large curls from the girl's head and converting the ame to her own use. Damages have been laid at $2,000. The girl is a sprightly little child, and has a head full of long black curls which are envied by both young and old of her sex. The offense was committed on the 14th of August last, and a few days afterward the woman was tried for assault and battery for the same offense, in the Police Court, and discharged, the Justice holding that the evidence was such as to preclude an assault and battery, and the proper redress would be civil damages.. The suit will prove highly interesting and novel. If the offense is as charged in the complaint it is of a nature that requires redress. How a jury of old bachelors would decide is a question. But a are centered on their fair daughters, would be severe in their verdict.

NAVIGATION VS. RAILROADS.—The com nerce of the lakes has steadily increased since the first schooner arrived in Chicago, and the rate of increase was never so rapid as it has been since the multiplication of Western railways began. The tonnage of the port of Chicago alone has doubled within the last five years, and now amounts to an aggregate of nearly one hundred thousand tons. The exports by lake from Chicago have increased almost in like proportion The exports of corn alone (the most uniform crop in the West) have risen from 13, 700,113 bushels in 1860 to 33,540,400 pushels in 1866. The yearly exports of grain from Chicago have of course varied with the varying yield of the country from which this produce has come forward for shipment; but the important fact is, that the average annual commerce of the lakes has steadily ncreased, and that the rate of increase, instead of being diminished by the multiplication of railways, has been steadily augmented

The teachers told them they were not allowed to accept them, but it was of no avail. The Su-perintendent did the same thing, but still they persisted in sending their children to the white schools. The Superintendent was finally compelled to eject the colored children from the schools. At this the parents and a number of seedy Radicals became exceeding wroth, and they now threaten to

THE BANKRUPT LAW.

It was generally supposed before the Bankupt Act went into operation that the numper of tottering business firms who would avail themselves of it and go into liquidation would | In he be immense. In fact, a financial crash was hinted at. After three months' experience of the workings of the law, the reverse of this proves to be the fact. The calendars in the ankruptcy courts have been singularly light, and the number of causes, we are informed, there has been a vast increase in the number of private settlements between creditors and nsolvent debtors. By such compromises the infortunate business man who finds himself privilege of going into bankruptcy, and the. majority of creditors seem to find it to their

> At length we got on the subject of house-keeping. Now, if there is anything I hate, it is a woman that can't keep house, and I trembled at every word, lest my charmer should confess her ignorance of these matters. Shade of Apiclus! how my heart leaped when she told me that hardly a day passed in which she did not make bread, or pies, or sponge cake, or some other of these shimshaws that for if there is anything a wife ought to know it is this. I come of a race of caterers. My grandfather funched on half a dozen rabbits, grandiather intended on that a dozen rappits, and died at last from a surfeit produced by eating two roast pigs. My father can break his fast on a brace of capons, or devour a pair of turkeys without having to pick his teeth; and a brother of mine can tuck in a hundred oysters and dishes of chicken salad, which does honor to the family. My own exploits in this line, my modesty forbids are formering.

For my part, as I have said, I was ready to surrender at discretion, and I already fancied myself lightening the dear creature beside me of the troublesome duty of collecting the rents of her various fine houses. It was charming to think of the progress I had made in her affections. What a delicately rosy check it was that I just then slyly kissed—she hlushing the deeper at my warmth. And are aware of it

I was about to pop the question itself, when the coach stopped, and the driver descended and opened the door. My charmer rose, I was taken all aback. er rose. I was taken all aback.

"Do you get out here?" said I, in surprise.
"Yes," said she, "I see Mr. Powell is wait-ture."

Before I could answer, Powell approached and while he hailed me, my fellow passenger sprang to the ground as if by magic, and the next minute was to my friend's vehicle. "For heaven's sake," said I, half mad that the hearty gripe of Powell prevented me from hastening to his ward's assistance, "who is that angel? Is she a relative, a ward, or what? I'm dying for love of her." Powell burst into a laugh, and laughed on, till tears came in his eyes. Confound the fellow, what did he mean? I began to get

An Inside View of Utah. The tourist visits few places where more unrefined impressions and emotions rush up-on him than in Utah, as he feels that his feet stand on modern Zion, in the valley of the Great Salt Lake—the land of the Latter Day Saints—the land of many wives and children—the land where Republicanism and De-How it poured! Rattle, rattle against the casement; splash, splash on the ground underneath, all night; and now, when I awoke here, it was raining away harder than ever, as if a second deluge were were at hand. Confound the breakfast bell! I do wish there was no such thing as a breakfast on a rainy morning; for then one might lay abed all day, or until the storm cleared off. Philosophers tell us that rain is necessary for the economy of nature; it may be true, though I never troubled myself much about such things; but if so men ought to be made like dormice—to sleep in unconsciousness until islature of the State of Deseret can pass then and Gov. PUTTING ON "STYLE."-The-Dayton (O.) Journal tells the following "yarn:" "A few months ago a gentleman moved to this city, and purchased a nice property, and, among other things, to contribute to his convenience and comfort, procured a fine horse and a very gented carriage. A "likely col-ored boy" was employed at a fair salary to take charge of the establishment and dis-charge the numerous duties which arise around a well regulated homestead. For a time things went on smoothly with 'Cho but latterly he seemed out of spirits, and selbut latterly he seemed out of spirits, and seldom smiled. His employer observed this despondent demeanor of 'Chores,' and he determined to get at the bottom of it. Perhaps he was in love! But no matter. Taking 'Chores' aside one day, when he looked more gloomy than usual, he inquired considerately, what it was that ailed him: 'Well, you see, Mas'r began 'Chores,' in a sort of tracic street when the seemed out one hose. While you appreciate her. Such eyes, such teeth, and thin lips—egad I it almost makes me crazy to think of them.

I put myself down for the luckiest dog in the world. She was dressed in plaid straw cottage bonnet, with a green veil—"just such a costume," said I, "as a real lady wears when traveling." And then she gave me such a sweet, but half rognish smile, as I tumbled into the coach in the plight I have described, that I knew her at once to be a dead of the said and the sweams at weakners are a lady wears a dead of the said to see how it is—de boys da can't quit holkering to lose the valuable services of so valuable an assistant, a second horse was purchased and "Chorses' became a two-chorse nigger?" Many years ago, when Thomas Jefferson was President of the United States, an attempt was made at Washington to execute his bust in plaster of Paris after a new plan, which, but for the fortune of an accident, might have ended in the death of the President of th was in clover. What cared I for rain? Splash, splash, splash, aye! rain away there, like blazes—who cares? One doesn't get a tele-a-tete with a pretty girl every day in the week—so I determined to make the best of it.

And, faith, with a form. he was to pour the liquid plaster. The hair of Mr. Jefferson was prepared in the usual way, his ears stopped up, and a couple of quills were put into the nostrils, communicating with the outside of the box, through which it was supposed by the artist a suffi-cient supply of fresh air could be obtained. The artist was not, however, as well read in physiology as he might have been, or he would have known no ordinary man, much less the President of the United States, could get enough oxygen to sustain life through a couple of small goose quills. Mr. Jefferson took a seat on a couch, his head in a box, and the artist poured in his plaster.
