world of baby fairy land

BY J. A. S. Draw back the cradic curtains, Kate, Whilst watch and ward you're keeping; And view him whilst he's sleeping.

And view him whilst he's sleeping.

He smiles and clasps his tiny hands,

As sunbeams in come streaming;

A world of hely fairs load.

He visits while he's dreaming. Ah, lucky tyrant! happy lot! Fair watchers without number To sweetly sing beside his cot, And hush him off to slumber; White hands in wait to smooth so neat His pillow when its rumpled n couch of rose-leaves fresh and sweet, Not one of which is crumpled!

Then take your babe, Kate, kiss him so, Fast to your bosom press him! Of mother's love what does he know, Though closely you caress him? th! what a man will be that boy, What mind and inspiration!
If he fulfils the hope and joy
Of mother's aspiration.

Speaking of the late elections, Wade

"Because we have been whipped on the first trial, I suppose some of the weak-kneed brothers will be backing out on that question. But I won't back a d—d inch. I'm for it now as strong as I was before the election, and stronger too, because there is more need of being for it, to conquer a mean prejudice But you'll see men trying to hush the thing up, and to smother it, and to dodge it in every way they can, and men who call themselves Radicals, too. Hell's full of such Radicals as we'll have now. I'm for it because I think it's right, and I know it's right; and if a thing er. There is not a great reform in the history of the world that wasn't unpopular at first. And not one of them was ever carried by dropping it and running like scared hounds from it, after it was beaten once. No, sir; we are committed to universal suffrage, and no man is a Republican who would desert it now. But although that's my belief, mark my you ever saw from this time forward. Well. let them go. We can wis wife to a contract is complete, and, according to the busband is Herr—lord of the house. She is complete, and, according to the old German maxim, the husband is Herr—lord of the house. The Prussian authorities, however, will change all that, the law of Prussia making the minimum marriage able age eighteen for a man and fourteen for a recommendation in the history of the work and to have children. We have no women's right women over here. They have no rights, and knowing it, they are content with it, and make no noise about it.

Notwithstanding all these restraints upon society, we cannot say that the Germans of the visigoths, also feature they are eighteen years old before they have reached that age. The Prussian authorities, however, will change all that, the law of Prussia making the minimum marriage able age eighteen for a man and fourteen for a woman. In Wurtemburg a man is not allowed to marry under twenty-five, except by special dispensation. Notwithstanding all these restraints upon to marry a man twelve variety of Prussian authorities, however

THE CAUSE OF THE DEFEAT. "The nigger whipped us," said Mr. Wade "We went in on principle, and got whipped We should have carried the State by a good We should have carried the State by a good majority if it hadn't been for the suffrage issue. Still, I am not sorry we made the issue. If it was to do over again, Pd be for putting it again, and I'll be for keeping it up until we do win, for, by the eternal God, they can't beat us all the time on a question like that. I had no idea there were so many Republicans in Ohio who were willing to see negro cans in Ohio who were willing to see negr suffrage in the South, but wouldn't let the few niggers of Ohio vote. That's what got me. They all seemed in favor of thas a measure of reconstruction, just as much as I was. I didn't dream they'd be mean enough to vote agains

In answer to a question as to whether he thought the greenback issue had anything to do with the defeat, Mr. Wade said, "he didn't think it had. It was nothing but the nigger. The greenback issue was not fairly before the Domestic Relations in Germany. It is permitted, under no circumstances, except where the parties are engaged, that a gentleman should accompany a lady to a theatre, ball or concert, and should it happen, the lady would be declared infamous, and thrown out of all good society. There are no evening visits made, and, above all, it is forbidden that a young man should call upon his young lady acquaintances: in fact, a gentleman can have no lady friends, as he can never come in contact with them except at balls, where it is under the greatest restraint. Marriage is reduced to a business content. contract. A young man sees a lady at a ball, takes a fancy to her looks, inquires who her takes a fancy to her tooks, inquires who her parents are, how much money they have, and how much the lady will get at her marriage. If the conditions suit him; i. e., if he likes the looks of the animal, and the pertinenzen are to his mind, he visits the parents and proposes to marry the daughter. The parents make inquiries respecting his position, and especially respecting the quantity of money he may possess. Should the reports be favorable, they refer to the daughter, tell her the conditions, and if they stit her, they are declared to be engaged. Cards in the form: "Herr Mueller, Frankein Schmittl, engaged," are immediately sent to their

The gentleman now has a right to visit the lady when he pleases, which he is expected to do every evening. He can accompany her in public to balls, concerts, &c., as he pleases. In fact, he must now improve his time to fall in love with her. No other man can dance with her, or have anything to do with her, without his consent. Should the Brantigam break the engagement and refuse to marry her, the Braut can sue and obtain damages for breach of promise, but this she never does, as the German idea of honor would not allow it. Should the Braut accidentally have a child—for accidents will hanner—it is illegitimate but is legitimized. happen—it is illegitimate, but is legitimized per subsequent mairimonium. By the marriage the contract is complete, and, according to the old German maxim, the husband is Herr—lord of the house. She is completely under his control, which control is often harsh. They think by this course the children of the first wife will be better cared for than if they were to marry a person out of the fam-

A Severe Rebuke.

Senator Wilson, some weeks ago, in a speech delivered at Saratoga, said: "There is not a democratic flag floating from the Potomac to Florida." In reply to this a Democratic soldier of New York, said: "The undersigned remembers when there was a Democratic flag floating from the Potomac to Florida, and that flag was the Star Span-gled Banner, and the time when the Demo-eratic flag was floating from the Potomac to Florida was on the 4th of July, 1856. The The greenback issue was not fairly before the people, for when you come to sift the matter the Democratic speakers made very little of an issue on the greenbacks. The nigger was the only strong point they had, and they beat us on that, fair and square; but they'll have to keep on beating us, for we'll give them no peace till we beat them."

THE RADS WON'T DACK DOWN.

Speaking of abandoning negro suffrage, Wade says: "Never in God's world. So far as my vote goes, we will never abandon any thing we've done there, but will go further and make it worse for the rebels if they don't behave themselves better. It is simply absurd to talk of making States without the negro yote in the South."

DON'T KNOW WHERE GRANT STANDS.

Referring to Presidential matters, Mr. Wade said it had looked to him for a year past as if the Republican party would take Grant up for President, and run him in with a hurrah. He was sorry to see that disposition, and believed no good would come from it. "The trouble with Grant is," said he, "you don't know where he stands. SINGULAR LAWS RELATING TO MARRIAGE. -Among the antiquated laws and customs of some of the smaller German States, which will be abolished on their annexation to Prussia, not the least curious are those relating to marriage. In Electoral Hesse, no man was allowed to marry it under twenty-two years of age, and no woman if under eighteen. The result of this severe law is, that while in other countries girls try to make people believe that they are "sweet and sexenteen," for many years after they have left school, the Hessian young ladies often de-clare they are eighteen years old before they omalies occur. Thus, in Saxony, the mini mum marriageable age for a man is twenty one: for a woman there is no restriction., I Austria, a boy of fourteen may marry a girl of fourteen; while in Baden, where the bride-groom is under twenty-five, or the bride unler eighteen, their marriage is not allowed

RETURN JONATHAN MEIGS.—The Marietta Register is responsible for the following:— We call to mind a story we read in our lioyhood, in a book about Connecticut, the native State of Colonel Meigs, which told how he received his Christian name. Jonathan Meigs a young man, was "paying attention to a young lady in the vicinity of his home." On one occasion he had been to "see" her. Dur-ing the visit she "dismissed" him, but followaway from the house, looking very sorrow-fully, the young lady's heart relented, and she called out, "Return Jonathan!". He was but too happy to comply, and they were shortly married. The first-born, in commensuration of this cocasion, received the name oration of this occasion, received the name of "Return Jonathan Meigs." This child grew up to be Colonel Return Jonathan Meigs, of the "Connecticut Line," in the army of the Revolution, afterward one of the agent surveyors of the Ohio Company, and one of the pioneers of Warietta in April one of the pioneers of Marietta, in April, 1788. He died in 1822. His son, Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., became distinguished in politics as Judge, United States Senator, Governor of Ohio and Postmaster General.

WHEN Aaron Burr returned to New York city to practice law, after his voluntary exile in Europe, he found the late Rev. Jedediah Burchard, then a celebrated revivalist, holding a series of protracted meetings in his family church. He attended from habit, allamity church. He attended from habit, alloyal Union men, spit upon the Constitution of the United States, then, throwing it to the ground trampled it beneath their feet, then consigned it to the flames and burned the state of as the man who shot Alexander Hamilton, and who had been tried for treason. Mr. Burchard resolved to rebuke him openly. Hurchard resolved to rebute him openly. The next Sabbath, when he came in and gotabout half-way up the aisle, the Glergyman paused in his discourse, and pointing to Colonel Burr, said in the most scathing manner: "You hoary-headed old sinner, I'll appear against you at the day of judgment!" The proud, defiant old man, standing as erect as a contraint, that profest corrections which proud, defiant old man, standing as erect as ever, with that perfect composure which never deserted him, and fixing his fine grey eyes on the occupant of the pulpit, replied; "Mr. Burchard, I have observed through a long course of professional experience, that the very meanest class of criminals are those who are Stately Gridding." Who forgets the sweet-faced girl, older than himself, against whose golden hair he leaned and wept his grief away? Who recollects when the thought of being a circus rider appeared greater than to be the President; and how jealously he watched the little fellows that wore spangled jackets and turned somersets, and prayed to become like them? A MYSTERY EXPLAINED .- Rev. Mr. Graceless-of Lawrence, is a bachelor. Noticing early in the spring that one of his members, a married lady, was not at meeting for several Sabbaths, he called to ask the reason. As her representations are represented to the several sabbaths, and the several sabbaths are several sabbaths. her reply was somewhat evasive, he surmised that she "had nothing to wear," and said: that she "had nothing to wear, as "You are waiting for your spring bonnet, I suppose." Weeks passed, and still she did the thornform "You are waiting for your spring bother, is suppose." Weeks passed, and still she did not make her appearance. He therefore thought he would call again. Approaching the house, he saw her sitting at the open window, and blandly remarked: "Good morning. Have you received your spring bonnet yet?" "Yes, sir," she archly replied. "Shall I show it to you?" "If you please," answered the wondering pastor. Holding up a wee bit of a baby, she said, blushing: "This is the spring bonnet I was waiting for; did I do right?"

A CHANTICLEER THAT KNEW SOMETHING.

A Democrat in a neighboring rural district says that on the evening of the election, just about seven o'clock, the time for closing the polls, he was sitting down to tea, when he told his wife he believed he would go to the city to hear the election news. "It may be bad," said she. "If I thought so I wouldn't go," he replied. Just then, an old-rooster, that spends his nights on a tree close to the house, commenced crowing lustily, and continued for some time.
