published on this vontinent, and it enters on the threshold of 18% more prosperous and more hopeful of the great cause it upholds than ever before. Standing on the Declaration of Independence, that "all (white) men are equal," and therefore entitled to equal rights, it is opposed to all forms and degrees of special legislation that conflict with this grand central truth of Democracy, and over all and above all, does it combat that monstrous, treason to American liberty, which, thrusting the negro element into our political system, must of necessity wreck the whole mighty fabric left us by our fathers. God has created white men superior and negroes inferior, and therefore all the efforts of the past six years to abolish His work and equalize with negross—every law violated, every State Constitution overthrown, every life sacrificed, and every dollar expended, are necessarily just so many steps towards national suitelde; and the simple and awfail pro lem now upon us is just this—thall we recover our reason and retrace our steps, or march on to Mongrelism, social anarchy, and the total ruin of our country.

The Day Book, therefore, demands, the restogreism, social anarchy, and the total ruin of our country.;

The Day Book, therefore, demands, the restoration of the "Uhion as it was"—a Union of co-equal States upon the white basis, as the only hope, and the only means posible under heaven for saving the grand i-leas of 17% and the fundamental priciples of American liberty, and if the real freemen, and the carnest believers in that sacred and glorious cause in which the men of the Revolution offered up their lives, will now labor to expose the ignorance, delusion and treason of the Mongrel party, it will sue ceed, and the white Republic of Washington be restored again in all its original influence and grandeur. Conscious that it reaches thousands of families who take no other journal, beyond perhaps their local paper, it will continue and improve its "News of the Week" Summary, so as to present a transcript of the World's events in each issue. Its "Family Department" will embrace the best original and selected stories. Its "Agricultural Department" will be fully sustained, and being the only paper of its class made up expressly for country circulation, it is confident it is worth double the price of a weekly harriedly reprinted from a daily. It gives full and complete reports of the New York and Albany Cattle Markets, Fania, Provisions and Cotton Markets, and a Weekly review of Financial matters, together with the markets, by telegraph, from New Orleans, Cairo, Charleston, Philadelphia, &c., &c., up to time of going to press.

On both sides active preparations are being made for the struggle, and it will, undoubtedly be one of the most fiercely contested in the history of the nation. Every indication of the times points to the most stubborn and unscrupulous resistance on the part of the Radicals against the efforts of the people to wrest from them the lawless power which they have seized to uphold their base purposes.

The Democratic party begins the campaign under the most auspicious circumstances, with a confidence in success, an enthusiasm for the cause, and a vigorous self reliance that has not been experienced in many years The late elections show conclusively that a vast majority of the nation are ready to espouse our standard if we only prove faithful to our creed, and continue to stand firmly by

A PALSE STEP. BY ELIZABETH BARBETT BROWNING, Sweet, thou hast trod on a heart, Pass! there's a world full of men, And women as fair as thou art

Must do such a thing now and then Thou only hast stepped unaware, Malice not one can impute; And why should a heart have been there In the way of a fair woman's foot?

It was not a stone that could trip,
Nor was it a thorn that could rend;
Put up thy proud under lip!
'Twas merely the heart of a friend. And yet, peradventure, one day,
When sitting alone at the glass,
Remarking the bloom gone away,
Where the smile in its dimplement was.

And seeking around thee in vain, From hundreds who flattered before; Such a word as "Oh, not in the main Do I hold thee less precious, but more Thou'lt sigh, very like, on thy part;

Jackson; but I do say now, in passage in his life upon which the slander to which I have referred is based, if it be based upon anything. When General Jackson undertook the defence of the city of New Orleans in the fall of 1814, he assumed a responsibility such as had rarely been taken by anybody in the world, and such as very few increased to the Senate—not a despotism surrounded by the pride, pomp and circumstances. The British army was 14,000 strong; composed of veterans, ably commanded. We carnestly urge this important matter upon our friends as by all odds the most reliable means of helping the cause.

Let every one of our present subscribers see his Democratic neighbor at once, and if he is not a natron already, induce him to sublance of the assistance of one experienced officer or engineer to aid him in putting up his field works or mounting his guns. This desperate game was to be played for a stake of the most stupendous magnitude. The possession of the whole valley of the Mississippi depended upon it: and if the city had been taken by assault, we shudder, even at this distance of time, to think what must have been its fate. The very troops that were then marched to the attack had confinite officer or engineer to aid him in putting up his field works or mounting his guns. This desperate game was to be played for a stake of the most stupendous magnitude. The possession of the whole valley of the Mississippi depended upon it: and if the city had been taken by assault, we shudder, even at this distance of time, to think what must have been its fate. The very troops that we feel marched to the attack had committed the most atrocious cruelties only a few months before, at Badajos and St. Sebastian: he is not a patron already, induce him to sub-scribe for six months, if he cannot for a year.

confidence in its success except what was inspired by the courage, genius and energy of their great commander. But he was a host in himself. They wisely determined that they would throw the whole responsibility upon him; that they would put their fate entirely in his hands, and they did so. Members of the Legislature, officers of the city Corporation and judges of the Court came and laid their powers at his feet, and voluntarily agreed that they would suspend their official functions until the danger was over. The whole population, with one voice, besought him that he would make the city a part of his camp, and take the absolute command upon himself of every human being within its limits. He did this at the universal request. He had a right to do it. It was proper that he should do it, for this simple and plain reason, that the city was in a state of actual siege. It was no fiction. The General, in order to save all trouble, sent the Judge four miles up the river, with directions to remain outside of his picket lines until it should be known that the enemy had retired from the coast. should be known that the enemy had retired from the coast.

When the great battle had been won, when the city was saved with all its beauty and booty, then Judge Hall returned; and as soon as he got back he commenced a prosecution against Gen. Jackson tor—what do you think? Contempt of Court? The General thought this very absurd. Nevertheless, although he had a victorious army at his back; although he had a victorious army at his back; although he had a victorious army at his back; although he had a victorious army at his back; although he had a victorious army at his back; although he had a victorious army at his back; although he had him as their great deliverer, he bowed his head to the lawful authorities of the country as lowly as the humblest man in the nation. (Great applause.) He not only submitted to the legal process which was issued against him, but he gave to the judges the assurance that the same arm which had defended the city against a foreign invader would stand between him and the danger of a popular outbreak. (Applause.) He appeared before the court and made a defence which was worthy of his character as a lawyer, and perfectly consistent with his high renown as a statesman and a patriot. He pleaded that he was not and could not be quilty of any confrom the coast.

One of the girls looked very sad, till, as the rain fell, her lears fell. The Dean inquired the cause, and learned that it was their wedding day; they were on their way to church, and now her learned that it was their wedding day; they were on their way to church, and now her white clothes were wet and she couldn't go.
"Never mind, I'll marry you, said the Dean; and took out his prayer-book and then and there married them, their witnesses being present; and, to make the thing complete, he tore a leaf from his pocket-book, and with his pencil wrote and signed a certificate, which he handed to the bride. It was as which he handed to the bride. It was a

"I do believe in the Bible. Dost thee believe in it?" said the old man. "No: I can have no proof of its truth." "Then," inquired the old man, "does thee believe in France?" "Yes; for although I have not France?" "Yes; for although I have not seen it. I have seen others who have. Besides, there is plenty of corroborative proof that such a country does exist." "Then thee that such a country does exist." "Then thee will not believe anything thee or others have not seen?" "No." "Did thee ever see thy man who did see them?" "No." "Does thee believe thee has any?" This last question was an end to the discussion.

THUTH IS POETRY. I once had money and a friend;
On both I set great store;
I lent my money to my friend,
And took his word therefor:

I asked my money of my friend, And naught but words I got; I lost my money and my friend, For sue him I would not.

If I had money and a friend, As once I had before,
I'd keep my money and my friend,
And play the fool no more.

Why are women like a house? Because the longer they remain "to let," the more dilapidated and less desirable they become. We ascertain the qualities of a bell by ringing it. A young man had better ascertain the qualities of a belie before ringing her. THERE is a suspicion that the failure of the opera in New York was caused by the rivalry of the fashionable churches. A story is told of a New England city clergyman, who, one Monday last summer, visited the market early in the morning. While there his attention was called to some very fine strawberries. He wished very much to purchase some, but it being very early in the morning it occurred to him that the must have been picked on Sunday, and of course he could not purchase or use anything which had been procured under such circumstances. He inquired of the farmer, "Mr. Smith, were these berries picked on Sunday?" Mr. Smith, with a sly twinkle in his eye, replied: "No, doctor, they were picked this morning, but they grew on Sunday."

Lawyers are sometimes very particular. The other day one of these learned and amiable gentlemen was waited on by a young man who wished his advice, and began by saying: "My father died and made a will —"" "Is it possible? I never heard of such a thing," answered the lawyer. "I thought it happened every day," said the young man "but if there is to be any difficulty about it I had better give you a fee to attend to the business." The fee was given, and then the lawyer observed: "Oh, I think I know what you mean. You meant your father made a will and died." "Yes, yes; that must be it."
