THE Dispatch states a trueism which cannot be denied when it alleges that "there is not that degree of pride and care existing in our community which is necessary for perfect co-operation and general prosperity." We regret to make the confession, but it must be evident to every one that the great drawback of our city is the lack of hearty zeal and unity of purpose which prevails, among all classes, with comparatively few exceptions. To this deficiency may be attributed the failure of a number of valuable enterprises which would have added vastiv to the prosperity of the city.
