365 miles ; in 1869, 199 miles. Total, 698. Upon the Sierras, where snow sometimes fall to the depth of 30 feet, 22 miles of snowsheds protect the track. Once or twice por tions have been swept away by avalanches causing a few hours' detention, but in gene ral they answer their purpose so well that 12 miles more are to be added. The greatest elevation above the sea on the former is a Sherman, on the Union Pacific ling, where the road reaches the altitude of 8.242 feet and on the latter at a point where the Neva das rise to a height of 7,042 feet.

The road, as completed, extends from Omaha, by way of Salt-Lake City, to Saera mento. It connects at Omeha with two line of road across Iowa, to Chicago, and at Sac-ramento with a line for San Francisco. The distance from Omaha to Ogden, is one thousand and thirty-two miles; from Ogden to Sacrimento seven hundred and thirty miles; so that the Pacific railroad, doubtless destined before many years to be owned and con trolled by one company, is seventeen hundred and sixty-two miles in length. San Francisco is one hundred and twenty trom Sacramento; Chicago is four hundred and ninety miles from Omaha, and nine hundred and thirteen miles from New York From New York to San Francisco, then, is line of road, on which an important through business will be done, and over which freigh will doubtless soon be carried without transhipment, of three thousand two hundred ighty five miles. The Atlantic is nearer to the Pacific than New York was to Boston 50 years ago. Going to California by our luxurious eating deeping and drawing-room cars, is a wonder and a delight as contrasted with the old tedi-ousness of plains and mountain, or ocean and isthmus travel. At noon in New York it is 9 a. m. in San Francisco. The line acros the continent is so long that trains upon i are run by eight or ten different time mitely we shall have a doubled set of hands upon all watches-one for local time, and one for a general time-uniform all over the In dwelling thus upon the history and statistics of the road, we have left ourselves bu little room to comment upon the magnificen results which it will effect in changing the commerce of the world. It will in the first place develop inmensely the vast region, comprising two-thirds of our national do-main, which lies beyond the Mississippi, and which yet remains undeveloped and almos uninhabited. It will consequently increase immigration into this country from Europe by greatly increasing the inducements held out to immigrants. Indeed, even now, the managers of the eastern division of the Union Pacific railroad have agents in Europe to promote emigration to their lands in Kansas All this vast population is to help on the marvelous development of our country, and by diffusing taxation and reducing the per capital of our public debt render both insi-nitioant my the burdens they impose. Th opening of the road cannot fail, also, to go

It will also bind closer to us the Pacific slope of the re-nel file, with the million of provide its reset. public, with its million of people, its rast mineral resources, anounting to an annual export of $50,009,000 in bullion, its great agricultural possibilities, ap 1 its immense and increasing trade with China. But, above all, it will give this nation the advantage over the world in eastern commerce. New York will soon be but 24 days distant from Japan. Lot, le a is now 45 days distant from Shan-' with a repelling land route intervening or 56 by way of Panama; but the opening of the Pacific railroad will put us 10 days neare then London. The Campaign of 1869.

The time will soon be at hand/for the people of Pennsylvania to pronounce once more upon the issues at stake between the two parties. A Governor and Supreme Judge are to be elected, together with members of the Legislature, and the usual local officers.

The election is one of vast importance and ous man wrote as follows : will be regarded with interest throughout the whole country. *

· The Truth about the South.

Last fall the Radicals carried the State by combination of favorable circumstances which are not likely to occur again in a long period. Their nominee was the most popuar man in the party, and by artfully concealing his views, he made thousands of voters believe that if elected he would not be a party President, and thus succeeded in getting their votes. Even with all the advantages in their favor, the Radical majority in October, on the largest vote cast in the State, was only a little over eight thousand, and it would not have Uh been possible for them to have beaten us had not the Democracy started out in the campaign under a feeling of despondency which no degree of effortgeould expel. The prospects for success this fall look more encouraging than we have seen in years. The new Administration has been tested, and gives no satisfaction in any quarter. Issues of a different character from those which give the Radicals their ascendancy during the war, are rapidly assuming more importance, and on all of them the Democrats have the assurance of popular ympathy. We look upon victory as almost certain, our friends exhibit that degree of zeal and nferest required by the importance of the occasion. The question rests entirely in our own hands, and should we fail of success it will be attributable mainly to our own su pineness and want of confidence.

The Cost of War.

The London Peace Society have just issued a striking pamphlet, showing the sacrifice of life and property involved by the conflicts among the Christian nations of Europe and America in the space of fourteen yearsfrom 1853 to 1866-inclusive, and in particular by the wars in the Crimea, Germany, Italv, (Magenta and Solferino,) the United' States, Schleswig-Holstein and Mexico. It is proved that 1,743,491 men perished in the wars of these fourteen years-a number exceeding the whole population of Illinois.

The cost of these wars since 1853 was, on a very moderate calculation, $8,565,000,000an amount, which would pay for the construction of railways to an extent equal to the circuit of the clobe (23,000 miles) at $350,000 per mile, or it would build and fill with ob jects of art and interest 1,530 such magnifi cent institutions as the Crystal Palace at Sydenham at $5,000,000 each

The New Registry Act.

The Registry law passed by the last Legislature promises to be, like most Radical measures, a very costly luxury to the people." The extra expenses of making the assess ments and furnishing lists to the election boards will not average less the a $50 per district, which will be $1,950 for this county.

The blanks to carry out the act, will cost about $700. Here, then, is an additional expense of two thousand six hundred and fifty dollars imposed upon the people of Eric could not take the test oath, while Governor county, in order to enable⁴the Radical leaders to hamper and oppress them. The cost of of his conviction had been affirmed by Chief this Registry Law, to the State at large, will not be less than $200,000 ! Nobody, acquainted with the facts, can truthfully claim that this enormous additional expense is re-
