John J. Hayes, the New York boy who recently won the Marathon race in the Olympic games at London, told. weeks before he started with the American athletes for England that would win the big race sure.

"I just know I'm going to win," said Jack Hayes, "and I wish it were fifty miles instead of twenty-siz. The next time you fellows see me I'll be wear-ing the laurel wreath, or whatever they give the winner, around my ears. Eve been training my head and my legs for ten years for a chance at the

The boy who made good in the tonghest, most heartbreaking athletic years old, a silm, little nickeled steel rears old, a slim, little thekeled steel athlete from his toes to the crown of his head, says the New York Sun. He stands just a shade under five feet four inches, and he weighs 125 pounds. Jack Hayes is as Irish as you find them, with black hair, blue eyes, a good humored and freckled face and a ton of confidence in himself. With all his triumphs on the cinder pathlend he has wen croomed cups and all his triumphs on the cinder pathand be has won enough cups and medals and truphies to fill a cupboard—he is a medical chap who does not care to gabble about his own achievaments. When he talked about his chances in the Marathon before he left the United States young Hayes said to his friends in the store.
"I know to a leasth how far I can run and how fast. I intend to go right out with the pacemakers, keep-right out with the pacemakers, keep at their beels until I am ready to fin ish and then go in and win. I am not afraid of any of them, but I ex-pect our own buys to make it hot for ms. Longboat? I'll bet you the In-dian crumples up before he goestwen-ty miles. Tom Longboat is like a prise fighter who has seen his best days, and I don't believe he will have snough in him to go the distance." The actual running of the Marathon proved how accurately young Hayes had estimated in own superitors. Long-bout, the Indian, gave up before the twenty mile mark, and, except for the Italian and the South African, it was the Americans who gave Jack Hayes the stiffest trial. He ran as he said he would, up with the pacemakers until he got ready to let them see his heels, and then he sprinted on and wen, as he told his friends he could. Hayes went to work at the depart ment store when he was sev pairs old as a messenger and odd job bay. He wasn't all muscles and legs, so he worked his way up to the job of amistant in the superintendent's office at a salary of $20 a week. Last spring Hayes trained on a quarter mile track on top of the department store. Most of his train-ing had to be done at night, since his job kept him bosy every day but Bunday. In a letter Hayes wrote to one of his friends in the store and re selved the other day he said;

him a big reception.

There won't be any excuse if we don't win. As for myself, I can still eat, sleep and run just as well as I did on the other side."

Hayes is the first American to fig-ure prominently in a Marathon the abroad. The event at the first Olym-Greek, Loues, who covered the original course from the village of Marsthen to the studium at Athens in 2 hours 55 inhutes 20 seconds. At the Paris Olympiad of 1900 the Marathot was won by Tento, a Frenchman, with A. L. Newton of the New York Athletic club a good second. Teato's time was 2 hours 59 minutes. In the St. Louis Olympiad of 1904 all the places were won by Americans, there being no foreign opposition worth while. The winner, T. J. Hicks of Boston was good a weekled ston, won over a wretched cours in the unavoidably slow time of 3

As a distance man anywhere from two to ten miles Hayes was slow and never figured in the front brigade But he had pienty of stamina, and whenever he did run any long dis-tance it was noticed that he finished fresh and in good shape. This led to the belief that he was cut out for Marathon runner, and his friends ad vised him to go for the Boston race two years ago. He was duly entered by the St. Bartholomew's club, of which he was a member from the be ginning of his athletic career. It will be remembered that in this particular Boston Marathon Tom Longboat, the Canadian ledian, appeared The redskin knocked all former records silly by covering the course in 2 hours 24 minutes 20.4-5 seconds. Fowler of Boston was second in 2 hours 27 minutes 54 seconds, and this was I min-ute 29.8.5 seconds luside, the record Hayes ran a plucky third, his figures being 2 hours 30 minutes 28 seconds, so that thus early in his career he gave promise.

In the early part of last winter those in New York city interested in Marathon racing, particularly the Mercury Athletic club of Yonkers, or ganized a Marathon, and it brought cracks from the west and all over Hayes was entered by the St. Bar tholemew's club, and he gaves buil-liant a display as could be tooked for over the course.
