—Reader of THE CITIZEN, does your copy have a penny stamp attached? If so, it denotes that you are in arrears for a year or more. Kindly remit balance due, and then the postal laws will permit us to omit the stamp.

—The Lackawaxen Valley Street Railway Co. has been directed by the town council to remove their rails and ties on Main street, below 4th.

—There are 3,489 men in Wayne county who are available for military duty, according to data compiled by Commissioners' clerk, Geo. P. Ross.

Q Scammon will present a high class musical comedy, "The Real Widow Brown," the merry laughing festival that has been pleasing the New England people all summer, on Friday evening, Aug. 14th.

—Some of Wayne county's supervisors seem to have forgotten the fact that the State law makes it their duty to have the stones removed from the highways of their respective districts at least once a month, during the summer season.

—Prices of automobiles are rapidly coming down. One leading company will put a four-cylinder machine on the market for $1,200 and another a six cylinder machine for $1,400, which is less than one half for what they have recently been selling for.

—A farmer living near St. Joseph Michigan, where crops were suffering for the lack of rain, sent the following notice to the editor of the village paper:

St. Joe, Mich., August 4

Gentlemen: You seem to be able to get everything you advertise for. We want rain. MICHIGAN FARMER.

P. S.—Inclosed please find 25 cents. Please insert "ad."

It is hoped he received a prompt answer, as he is evidently a believer in advertising.

—Salt is a valuable product manufactured in the United States. The last government figures show that $9,437,663 worth were turned out last year.

Arrangements have been completed for the appearance of "Babes in Toyland" at the Lyric, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 23. "Babes in Toyland" is the joint work of Glen MacDonough and Victor Herbert. The former dramatized the fairy tale, "Babes in the Wood," and to the exquisite story Mr. Herbert set musical gems that have never been equalled and the fact that Julian Mitchell staged the production is the best endorsement that it is complete to the smallest detail.

—From the Financial Review, of Scranton, date of Aug. 8th.

Honesdale has not felt the results of the financial depression as other manufacturing towns have. Among the factories that have been busy is the Durland, Thompson Shoe Co., of this place. The factory has been running through all the business depression, ten hours a day, six days in the week. The usual half-holiday has been given only through July. Monday, August 3d, the factory began running on full time again. Orders are shipped promptly and customers are given the equivalent of their money. The firm has a large trade on miners' boots. Some of the help have been with the factory from 20 to 30 years and a few are stockholders. J. D. Weston is manager.

—There are many types of comedy, but the enduring sort in "Babes in Toyland" is that which sweeps the chords of human emotions from grave to gay, from lively to severe; that makes laughter sparkle with years and lights emotion with the sunshine of a smile. The real comedian is wrongly confused with the clown. The clown is the droll of an instant, the real comedian lingers with the imagination and dwells in the heart as long as memory holds its office.

—By the explosion of a boiler in the rolling mill at York, this State, on Monday last, eight men were killed and nearly a score of others more or less seriously injured. The money loss was very large.

-Says a writer in the Scranton Times of Aug. 6th:

Miss Brownscombe, who, even after her latest sojourn abroad, came, for more or less time each summer that she was in America to her little studio in her home town, has at last given it up to Honesdale's intense regrets, and since May of the present year writes herself only as of New York city. But she clings no less with strong affection to her "home" town, and holds her interest in particular manner in its improvement association. The Honesdale Citizen of recent issue publishes a note from her, just received by the secretary of the association in response to a request for another painting to be disposed of for the benefit of the association. As the Citizen editorially notes in printing the letter, "that society has at various times been very generously treated by her." Miss Brownscombe's answer says: "It is a happiness for me to do anything that will benefit my dear native town, even in a small way; and, though I no longer live there, I still feel that I belong to Honesdale, where are centered all the memories of my childhood and youth, and where I have so many dear and valued friends. Wishing continued and increasing success to the society that has helped to make our town famous, I am very cordially yours, Jennie Brownscombe." Scranton's lately formed Civic Improvement Society is one of not a few that have had their first incentive to organization in the success of the Honesdale Association. If Scranton shall make as great a success in proportion to the size of the improvement task before it, then it will have reason to boast itself of results.

—Some years ago Edward Marshall killed a rattlesnake on a piece of his property near Beach Lake, known as the Lily Lot. Tying a bit of twine behind its head he dragged it up to Warfield's tavern in the village, where it was on exhibition for some hours, apparently as "dead as a door nail." A curious onlooker, however, gave the serpent a prod on its tail, and like a stroke of lightning the head flew around and hit the cane a whack that would have meant serious business if it had struck flesh instead of wood. Now comes down from Susquehanna county, this additional warning to handlers of venomous reptiles, dead or alive.

"George VanDemark on Monday killed a large rattlesnake in the woods just East of Hallstead, Susquehanna county, and took it to town in a meal sack for exhibition. While in the act of taking the serpent out of the bag to put it into a box in the presence of a large crowd on Main street, the snake made a dash at Mr. Hand, one of the bystanders. It sank its fangs in Mr. Hand's trousers narrowly escaping biting him."

—"The Owls" is the name of a new secret society now being organized in various towns in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

—The Del. & Hud. Co. are at once to develop the large tract of coal lands, which they purchased in Schuylkill county, some two years ago, at an expense of $17,000,000.

—A Taft and Sherman club has been organized at East Honesdale with the following officers:

Fletcher W. Bunnell, President; F S Whittaker, August Braestein, Stephen Bergman, Alex. Starr and Lee Stark, Vice Presidents; Louis Helfrich, Secretary, with Ed. E. Bunnell, Assistant; Chas. W. Short, Financial Secretary, and Leonard Guckenberger, Treasurer.

The club now has a membership of forty-six, and meets every third Friday. Their headquarters are in Chas. F. Meyer's building, with reading room open every afternoon and evening.

—One day last week Leo J. and Emmett Megivern, sons of James B. Megivern, of Cold Spring, killed a rattlesnake on the farm, three and a half feet in length with seven rattles. The reptile had been seen on the place a week previously. So far as we are informed this is the first instance of a rattlesnake being found in Lebanon township, or near than the whortleberry regions of the Moosic, or the scrub oak hills of Texas and Palmyra.

—All of the recent bids on the proposed hospital for the criminal insane at Farview, have been thrown aside for some irregularity, and new bids are to be called for, which will delay the work about a month. A number of Philadelphia, Pittsburg and New York city contractors visited the proposed site last Friday afternoon, so as to be better prepared to bid intelligently on the work.

—The production of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania, during the month of July, was 4,541,506, as compared with 5,669,034, for the corresponding period of 1907, showing a loss of 1,127,528 tons. The total production for the seven months of this year is 37,209,918 tons to 38,606,265 tons to the corresponding date of 1907, showing a decrease of 1,396,317 tons.

—If Honesdale ever could be said to have had a street gamin, after the pattern of Victor Hugo's Gavroche, Alex, or "Elky" Shaspiro certainly filled the bill. A son of Barnet Shaspiro, of Lady Wood Lane, he was one of our first street boot blacks and general messengers, a good ball player, as the game ran then, and an all round handy boy, useful in hundreds of ways and not much more mischievous than the average. While still a youth he went to New York, and the next heard of him was that he had married, and was on the high road to fortune—according to some because he had married a rich wife—but as the event proves, because he had in himself the elements of success. It is nearly thirty years since he left Honesdale, and twelve years since he has been a visitor here, but himself and brother Saul are now making a week's visit with their aged parents on Ladywood Lane, and are being warmly welcomed by their old-time friends. The elder, Alexander, or "Elky," is the proprietor of a fine furnishing goods establishment at 122 Canal street, New York, and Saul is employed at 405 Fifth avenue.

—Besides the two Honesdale games, reported in another column, the Catasauqua ballteam had a contest with the Hawley club on Friday, on the grounds of the latter, winning out by a score of 5 to 4. The game was notable for errors on both sides. On Sunday afternoon the visitors were badly beaten on the White Mills grounds by the local team, the score standing 5 to 1 in favor of the home team at the close. The attendance at the latter game was very large, many coming up from Hawley, and the train from Honesdale being crowded to its utmost capacity, besides the large number who made the five-mile trip to the grounds by automobile and other private conveyances. However invincible the Catasauqua team may be elsewhere, it is evident that it is out-classed by the principal clubs in this neck o'woods. The players are a nice lot of boys, however, and made themselves very agreeable, socially, while here. On Thursday evening, through the courtesy of Managers Dittrich, of the Lyric, and Murray, of the Murray-Mackey Co., they occupied four boxes at the theatre. The Hawley team, with Hattler as catcher, journeyed to Port Jervis on Saturday and were whitewashed, the Ports piling up nine runs to their string of goose eggs.

—THE CITIZEN, a few weeks ago, gave an account of the sudden death in New York city of Charles H. Sears, of Scranton, son of the late Justus Sears, of Prompton, this county. Grover C. Sears, his son, through his attorneys, has begun an action in equity against the Scranton Trust Company, executor under the last will and testament of Charles H. Sears, and Mary E. and David Sears. Grover Sears desires an accounting of the partnership which he entered into with his father, in January of last year. There are, he alleges, several properties which he owned with his father as the proprietors of the grain and feed mill at Clark's Summit. He claims that he has been denied an accounting and an acknowledgment of the partnership by the executor and the widow.

—The Fallsdale Creamery, gathering its milk products from Oregon and Damascus townships, must have done a pretty good business in June, notwithstanding the drouth, its payroll for the month having been $4,500.

—The famous big elm tree on the Bethany road, just out of town, which is known to have been a landmark even in aboriginal times, has become useful as well as ornamental. On Monday last Henry Kent, a former Dyberry resident but now of Carbondale, assisted by Mortimer H. Lavo, of Bethany, took from its lofty top the third swarm of bees which he has hived therefrom within the past two years. Mr. Kent's method of reaching the retreat of the bees is creditable both to his ingenuity and his courage. To an ordinary climber the crown of the big elm is entirely inaccessible. For fifty feet or more the immense trunk is without a limb and its first branches are of themselves larger than average trees. To reach one of these, Mr. Kent places the longest extension ladder he can get against the body of the tree. Then, carrying with him a long, stout rope, he mounts almost to the topmost rung, and from that vantage point casts an end of the rope over the lowest branch. Then grasping the ends of the rope he swings clear, and hauls himself hand over hand to the limb, standing on which he is able to throw his rope over another limb higher up, and so on, until he reaches the hollow preempted by the bees. The swarm secured on Monday last was a large and valuable one, and will well repay him for the trouble and danger of its capture.

—Conductor Farrell's Del. & Hud. freight train on the Honesdale branch, ran into Conductor Ward's passenger train, at Panther Bluff, last Friday evening, inflicting some damage to both, and causing a delay of about three hours before traffic could be resumed. Prominent speakers are announced and fine music will be furnished by the Luna Park band and the Ezra Griffin Drum Corps. A general invitation is extended to the public, and while plenty of lunch will be obtainable on the grounds, excursionists are privileged to carry their own baskets.

—One of our local attorneys is the possessor of a dog of questionable honesty, if we may judge from the fact that one day last week he sneaked into a meat market on Main street and helped himself to a generous chunk of beef. The butcher promptly visited the lawyer and told him the story of his loss, but without revealing the ownership of the thieving cur. "What shall I do to get even?" asked the market man. "Make the owner of the dog pay for the damage done" promptly responded the attorney. "Well, it was your dog," said the butcher, "and I figure my loss at $5." "All right, I'll pay," returned the lawyer. "My fee for the advice given you is $5. We will apply the $5 on account, and I will take the balance out in meat," which was very generous of him, when you come to think that he might have valued his legal services at $10.

—"Mahon" is a rare name in Wayne county; Buckingham and Texas townships, so far as we know, being the only localities where it has appeared in the census for many years. Taking the possible chance, however, that these families may have been related to or know something about the Patrick or John Mahon (or McMahon) referred to in the following letter, and believed to have lived in this section, we give the communication a place. A private letter to the editor of the Pittston Telegraph states that its writer, John Mahon, a nephew of the parties above named, is the custodian of over a million dollars' worth of mining stock left by his uncles, which he is very anxious to properly dispose of:

"$1,000 REWARD for information during life and place of residence at time of their death of John Mahon and Patrick Mahon (or Mc) or the wife, as one was married. Had no children. The other did not marry. They came to this State in the fifties and have been dead a number of years. They were interested in mining and lumber, etc. I offer $500 reward to the person giving me this information of the right parties, also $500 to the editor through whose columns I gain the information desired. All Pennsylvania papers please copy. Address John Mahon, 610 North Jackson Avenue, Clinton, Illinois.

—The Cherokee Indian base ball team filled an engagement at Port Jervis yesterday, with what result we have not yet heard. As the savages won 101 out of 120 games played in 1907, and have been victorious in all matches thus far played this season, it is probable that they also took the scalps of the Port Jervisites, among which is that of our old local favorite, Billy Miller. The Indians travel in their own Pullman car, carry with them a band, a portable fence, a grandstand and a 50,000 candle power electric light plant. An Indian maiden, Maude Nelson, is a member of the club, and pitches two of the nine innings.

—A little comedy not on the program was a feature of one of the Murray-Mackey entertainments at the Lyric last week. Detective Spencer having received a new pair of handcuffs just before the evening performance began, was showing them to the leader of the orchestra, Kevin O'Brien, when by some means one of the pair was snapped on the musician's right wrist. In trying to unlock the bracelet, officer Spencer broke the key, and every expedient tried for removing the iron proved unavailing. The time for the opening overture arriving, leader O'Brien was compelled to ply the bow with a bracelet on arm. Before the performance closed, however, the property man of the theatre had managed to fish from his stock of keys one which fortunately relieved Mr. O'Brien from his singular predicament.

—As will be seen by the official notice in another column, a change has been made in the personnel of the firm of Katz Brothers, by the retirement of the junior partner, Samuel Katz. —Hon. Wm. C. Norton, of Aldenville, has been appointed by Governor Stuart one of the delegates to represent the State at the Farmers' National Congress to be held at Madison, Wis., on Thursday, Sept. 24th.

—The Hawley Times in its account of the Epworth League concert recently given in that borough, pays the following compliment to two Honesdale musicians: "Miss Julia Storms, of Honesdale, is a promising performer on the piano, and was well received. Miss Mabel Broad, another Honesdale lady, well-known here as a teacher of the piano, played the accompaniments. The accompaniment is the foundation of everything in concert. Miss Broad's work could be relied upon every time and was in exquisite form."

—Miss Bessie Bellamy Ham, one of the trained nurse attendants in the children's ward of the Roosevelt Hospital, New York is spending a three weeks' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Ham, of Court and 9th streets. One of her recent patients was a little seven-year old Tuckahoe, N. Y., girl, whose gratitude for kind treatment received found vent in the following unique letter, which is given literatim:

"Dear Nurse—I will write you this letter knowing that you have my letter I am home over my own house and I came Wednesday home I had to go home Tuesday and it was a stormy day and I couldn't go home. I am not better, I wonder know how you feel and how does Miss Clark feel and tell Miss Clark that I am asking for her and Miss McWen feel and tell Miss McWen that I am asking for her and Miss Berwash how she feel and tell her I am asking for her and tell all the nurses that I know please tell them that I am asking for them and I wonder know how is Dr. Sammis getting along and so is Dr. Smith tell Dr. Smith that I am asking for him Bessie are you in hospital yet if you are answer my letter because I wonder how you are. From Lucy Rich, this letter come from Lucy Rich. Your loving sister, Lucy Rich, Tuckahoe, N. Y. Box 381 Lucy Rich. Goodby from sister to Bessie Bellamy Ham. Answer."

—Miss Susan E. Dickinson, the graceful writer of the "Personal and Pertinent," notes of the Scranton Times, treats Honesdale talent very kindly in last Thursday's issue of that journal. She says:

"People are late, quite frequently in life, in coming into their own; as we often phrase recognition of gift or talent. I have been reminded of this by the fact that while a good many Honesdalers were aware that William L. Ham could paint fine landscape pictures, as one of them expressed it incidentally some years ago to a newcomer in that pretty borough, he has failed to figure in the list of artists and other people note who can do things over in the county town of Wayne. It was only very recently that a prominent citizen of that borough, probably in connection with some mention of Miss Jennie Brownscombe's exquisite paintings, spoke to F. O. Megargee, of the firm of Megargee Brothers, of Mr. Ham's fine sketches and finished pictures, both in oils and water colors, of many picturesque Wayne county's most charming scenery. As a result Mr. Megargee has secured several of Mr. Ham's landscapes in oils and is to be thoroughly congratulated on their possession. It is purely owing to Mr. Ham's having for these many years kept his talent in the background while devoting himself to business interests and his present duties as justice of the peace that other connoisseurs of art in this city have not known of him and his ability and performances as an artist. Some time ago I remember that Miss Carrie L. Peterson, widely known as the energetic president of Honesdale's famous Town Improvement Association, sold a few of Mr. Ham's "bits of landscape" in a window of the art and jewelry store that she has successfully carried on ever since the death of Father's decease, and so it came about that there are Honesdale homes which can boast themselves of ownership of some of these."

In Memoriam.

William Box, an old and respected resident of Bethany, died in that borough on Saturday last, August 8th, 1908, of angina pectoris. Mr. Box was born in Marham Church, Cornwall, England, in 1827, and was 80 years, 9 months and 18 days old at the time of his death. He was three times married. His first wife was Mary Buck; the second, Julia Hopkins, and the third Mrs. Mary E. Tallman, who survives him. His surviving children are Elizabeth, wife of L. H. STATISTICS recently compiled by the British Highways Protection League show that there were 935 automobile accidents in Great Britain in 1907, and 215 people lost their lives and 675 were injured as a result. Offending motorists to the number of 2,270 were summoned to court for the accidents and minor offences, and of this number 2,046 were convicted. The number of automobiles registered in the British Isles is forty-five thousand. This would show that one in every twenty-two had done something illegal. When a driver is convicted twice his license is revoked.

AUG. 10th.—Next Saturday, August 15th, is the day for the regular meeting of Post 389 G. A. R., and they and the Odd Fellows and the P. O. S. of A. will have a picnic, when a good social time is anticipated, and we hope it will not be a game of ball for the small boys.

A number of young ladies camped at the Forks of the Paupack last week.

Percy Musgrave's father was buried last week. Mr. Musgrave will go to New York City to morrow, and perhaps remain some time with his brother-in-law, Charles Ferguson.

Miss Hollister has quite a large class of young ladies taking music lessons every Friday, at A. J. Cross'e.

Next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock a young man will speak in the church in the interest of the anti-saloon league, and everybody is invited to be present. In the morning Rev. Edward McMillan has promised to give us a "twenty minute sermon," but we are willing to give him ten minutes more grace, and, judging from the past, we are not sure of the "Amen" even then.

The Salem and Sterling boys played ball on the 8th, and although the Sterlingites were defeated previously, they were victorious this time.

Although they have no preaching at Jericho, they do have a very interesting Sunday school.

Arnold Germon, a grandson of A. C. Megargle, was given a pleasant surprise by a number of his young companions on the evening of the 7th.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at Mrs. Walter Musgrave's on Wednesday next.
